

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Councilman Stubb the Bright Particular Star of Last Night's Session.

HIS SCINTILLATIONS WITHOUT EFFECT

City Fathers Finally Decide What City Department Shall Spend This Year and Turn Down a Herdman Gang Resolution.

Councilman Stubb perpetrated innumerable acrobatic feats in conjunction with the English language at the regular meeting of the city council last night. On several occasions he became as numerous as the leading juvenile who struts forward to seize the middle of the stage situation by the whiskers, and the fact that he was repeatedly rebuffed and turned down never checked him and he continued to assassinate the language. In a word, Councilman Stubb was the feature of the session.

Once he was caught napping. That was when the committee on fire, water and police recommended that his two pet ordinances, by which he proposed to abolish the present Board of Fire and Police Commissioners and to construct a new one out of the members of the city council, be placed on file. There being no objection, Acting Chairman Burmeister declared the report adopted. Stubb was talking when this action was taken, but somebody called his attention to it.

"Say, what was that? What was that?" he called out.

The chairman explained and Stubb insisted that the matter had never been considered in committee of the whole. Acting Chairman Burmeister insisted that it had. Stubb wanted to know when.

"When you went out of the committee of the whole meeting on Monday afternoon in a huff because the council raised the appropriations for some of the departments, Mr. Clerk, go on with the reading," responded Chairman Burmeister. Stubb subsided.

Makes a Flowery Speech.

The councilman from the First ward, however, had an opportunity to deliver a flowery speech when the appropriation ordinance came up. There were two reports. The majority, signed by Stubb and Burmeister, was in favor of the ordinance as first drawn. The minority report recommended the increase that had been determined in committee of the whole Monday afternoon—raising the mayor's appropriation from $4,000 to $4,500, that of the city engineer from $10,800 to $12,500, that of the building inspector from $2,370 to $3,170 and that of the chief inspector from $10,000 to $11,000.

Councilman Stubb dwelt upon several "well known facts" for half an hour regarding the tax eaters' habits of grazing "on the public crib," but his effort was unavailing. His motion to adopt the majority report was supported by himself, Burmeister and Burley and the minority report was adopted with only the same two votes recorded in the negative. The amended ordinance was passed on the third reading by the same vote.

Against Stubb's objections, also, the council placed on file the resolution ordering the building inspector to discharge his assistants and adopted a resolution according to which the city controller will be permitted to retain one or two extra clerks. The other clerk is to be discharged to the city.

Councilman Lebeck introduced a resolution to appropriate $2,000 out of the general fund for the salaries of the sewer maintaining force. The councilman explained that the amount will provide the salaries of two sewer inspectors who have been discharged on account of the small levy for the sewer maintaining fund. He declared that these inspectors are absolutely needed to properly look after the sewers.

This move on the part of his running mate brought Stubb to his feet with strenuous objections. He insisted that the men are not needed and the whole thing was intended to "keep an army on the public crib." He asserted that Lebeck himself had told him that these inspectors in past years have spent their time in "warming their fingers on a hot stove." He therefore moved that the resolution be referred.

Before the vote on the question was taken City Engineer Rosewater was called upon for an expression of opinion. He said that with the $3,000 available for sewer maintenance but one foreman and three men are employed on sewer repairs. Two additional men, he said, would not keep the sewers in proper repair, but would be better than nothing. He denied that in the past the members of this force had done more idling than employes in other business.

Councilman Lebeck took occasion to remark that the members of the gang were getting too much wages for forty-five-hour-a-week work anyway, but City Engineer Rosewater asserted that the wages were none too great for the dirty work the men have to do.

The motion to refer was lost and the resolution was adopted. Stubb and Mount only voting in the negative.

Supreme Court Commission.

The piece de resistance of all of the efforts of Councilman Stubb, however, occurred in connection with the following resolution, which was introduced under his name: That as a reflex of the sentiment of the people of the city of Omaha, the city council hereby express its approval of the action of Governor Fourness in vetoing the bill for the extension of the supreme court commission, said commission having failed to give the relief contemplated at the time of its creation and having proved a costly experiment to the taxpayers of the state, owing to the lawless course pursued by the commission in the systematic raids made by its members on the public treasury.

This document was drawn up by a member of the Herdman gang who was present in the council chamber, and this individual made no concealment of the fact. Stubb, however, did not know that the author of the resolution had disclosed his identity and he edited his fellow city fathers with a magnificent bluff. He declared that he had just come from Lincoln and had there discovered that not only hundreds but thousands of Nebraskans were in favor of the governor's action, although the news of the vote had not yet been telegraphed over the state. He also disclosed some "well known facts" about supreme court commissioners and their wives and sweethearts, sisters and aunts, feeding "on the public crib."

"What business is it of the city council of Omaha whether they feed 'on the public crib or not?' responded President Bingham. "We are here as representatives of the citizens of Omaha to transact the city's business that is brought before us and that is all we are expected to do."

On the vote the resolution was turned down, the three populists of the council only voting in favor of it—Stubb, Lebeck and Burley.

In reporting the February appropriation ordinance the finance committee made recommendation that a number of items be stricken out for reasons in which the public generally will be interested. For example, the bills of the electric light company were laid over until the city attorney shall report whether, under the decision in the viaduct case, the viaduct lights included in the bills should not properly be paid by the railroad companies and not by the city. Items amounting to $150 in favor of the Union Pacific company were also stricken out pending settlement of claims of the city against the railroad companies for viaduct repairs.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

The committee also recommended that items in favor of John Grant and the Barber Asphalt company for repairing asphalt pavements during the last six months of 1898 amounting to some $11,000 be stricken out and referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to whether or not the amount of these repairs should not be assessed against the property specially benefited.

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

It begins to look now as if the L street viaduct would at last be placed in a passable condition.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Julius Slobodinsky, 1214 Davenport street, at the request of Daniel Kline, who accused him of assault and battery.

Ed Johnston, ex-mayor, is out after the democratic nomination for councilman of the Fourth ward.

John Hartman entered a plea of guilty to stealing fifty dollars from Edward Bauer and was sent to the county jail for thirty days.

...AMUSEMENTS...

The piano recital given at the First Congregational church last evening by Mr. Joseph Gahn, assisted by Mr. Charles Higgins, violinist and Master Carl Smith, violoncellist, furnished a forcible illustration of the fact that Omaha music lovers are no longer required to depend upon foreign artists for entertainment of a really high order.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

Mr. Gahn's second number consisted of a Berceuse by Karganoff, a Liszt selection, and Lechetski's arrangement of the Adante from Lucia di Lammermoor for the left hand alone, which will be remembered by those who heard Madame Zeiler's rendition of the sonata. At the close he was favored with a hearty encore and a magnificent bouquet of roses to which he declined to respond further than to bow his appreciation.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Have You Bladder or Uric Acid Trouble?

Do you ever consider what neglecting your kidneys means?

Do you not pass on the streets, every day, men and women whose countenances show that the final stake is up and the die being cast?

By their pale, sallow, sunken or bloated countenances, dull, lack-luster eyes, puffing dark circles under the eyes, slow, languid movements, hunched, pimpled, unhealthy complexions and general appearance, weakness and debility.

In addition to their outward appearance how do they feel themselves?

Weak, worn out, tired, languid, restless, nervous, irritable and worried easily over trifles, feverish, chilly, short of breath, dizzy, irregular heart, rheumatic, with pain or dull ache in the back, neuralgic, sleepless, generally debilit