DECIDES AGAINST THE CITY

Internal Improvement Bonds Are Held to Be Constitutional, Debs.

AMOUNT ISSUED IN EXCESS OF THE LAW

Refuses to Pass Upon Validity of Excess Bonds Because Holders Are Not a Part to the Suit.

The opinion of Judge Tower in the suit of J. J. Shea against the city of Council Bluffs was received here yesterday afternoon. Contrary to the inference drawn from the judge's letter to Hart & McCabe, the city's attorneys in the case, the opinion is not nearly as favorable to the city as had been expected. He finds that the general city bonds and the intersection, sewer, grading and paving bonds constitute an indebtedness of the city within the meaning of the constitution and that of these bonds $167,186 have been issued in excess of the constitutional limit. He holds, however, that all the holders of such bonds should have been made party defendants and that for that reason he refuses to decide as to the validity of these bonds. He is willing to grant Shea an injunction restraining the city from levying any further such bonds or from levying any tax to pay for same. The opinion in substance is as follows: This action is brought by the plaintiff as a citizen and taxpayer for himself and other taxpayers against the city of Council Bluffs, for levying the city tax and largely in excess of the constitutional limit in various bonds, warrants and other evidences of indebtedness. First—That the court determine what part of such indebtedness is in excess of such constitutional limit. Second—That the said defendant city and its officers be restrained from paying any of such indebtedness. Third—That the city be enjoined from levying or collecting any tax or pay any part of such alleged illegal indebtedness, or from issuing any new evidences of indebtedness hereafter. The defendant deny that any bonds or warrants have been issued in excess of the constitutional limit, and deny that any illegal taxes have been levied or about to be levied to discharge any illegal obligation. Excess Bonds Issued. The value of the taxable property of Council Bluffs in December, 1897, was $4,114,246, and the total indebtedness would be $2,270,714. The total outstanding obligations of the city June 1, 1898, amounted to $600,000. The total amount of the treasury fund amounted to $123,142.75. The net city debt was $476,857.25. It is manifest that if the obligations of the city thus outstanding are all "indebtedness" within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition the city has largely exceeded the limit. It will be the duty of the court, insofar as it can be done, to first determine what part or parts of such obligations constitute such indebtedness. In the case at hand, on March 18, there were general fund warrants outstanding to the amount of $116,428. There was $22,205 in the treasury fund, reducing the amount to $134,233. This general fund is derived from a 10 mill tax levy on all the property in the city subject to taxation, and from the proceeds of licenses, fines, etc. It is agreed that all general fund warrants outstanding were issued to pay the current ordinary and necessary operating expenses of the city. There is nothing in the evidence before the court that would lead to the conclusion that such outstanding warrants were not within the limits of the city's current revenues. It follows that in determining the city's indebtedness within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition, the general fund warrants outstanding are not to be included. It is agreed that the city intends to pay such general bonds by the levy and collection each year of a bond and interest tax. In form they are unconditional promises to pay, and in effect absolute evidences of indebtedness. It is held that all such general city bonds outstanding constitute an indebtedness of the city within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition. It is agreed that the city has in the past and will in the future levy a 5 mill tax for water supply and for the maintenance of the water supply furnished to said city, and that the warrants now outstanding were issued for the payment of the amount due said water company under its said contract from the fund collected by the levy and collection of the said 5-mill tax. It is agreed that this has been done "as provided by law." Under the agreement of proof it is not shown that the water fund warrants outstanding constitute an indebtedness of the city within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition. Special Assessments Not Included. It is agreed that the special assessment bonds outstanding will be paid in full from the special assessment fund. It is held that such bonds do not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition. It is agreed that as to the intersection, sewer, grading and paving bonds outstanding the defendant city has levied and will continue to levy a special tax under the provision, and within the limits of the law, upon all the taxable property of the city. It is further agreed that such special tax will be sufficient to pay said outstanding bonds, principal and interest, as they mature. It will be seen that the bonds outstanding of this character were issued strictly within the provisions of the law. The interesting and important question to be determined is whether the interest on such bonds is the creation of an indebtedness within the meaning of the constitution. It is urged that this class of obligations is in principle like special assessment bonds. This contention cannot be sustained. The difference is made between these classes. In the class the obligation and the benefit is not individual, but general, not for the citizen, but for the city. In the case at hand, the benefit of the bonds outstanding is his debtor, not the property of the district, not the abutting property owners. It follows that such an intersection bond of the defendant city outstanding must be considered its debt within the meaning of the constitution. As a result of these holdings it will be seen that in the determination of the amount of the city's outstanding indebtedness within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition, the general fund warrants, the water and special fund warrants, and the special assessment, sewer, grading and paving bonds are to be excluded. The general city bonds and the intersection, sewer, grading and paving bonds are held to constitute an indebtedness of the city within the meaning of the constitution. The amount of such bonds outstanding is $327,900, or $167,186 in excess of the amount authorized by the constitution. Bondholders Have Rights. The defendant alleges that the plaintiff is not entitled to the relief demanded for the reason that the outstanding bondholders are not made parties to the suit. It would seem clear that in the case at hand the owners of the bonds are necessary parties, without whose presence a complete determination or settlement of the question as to the validity of such bonds cannot be made. The plaintiff claims that the present case comes within the exception stated in section 3464, that the question is one of common or general interest to many persons, the bondholders, and that they are so numerous that it is impracticable to bring them all before the court. In this case, however, not even one single bondholder is before the court, either to defend his individual rights or to appear as the individual representative

MINER KILLED BY FALLING SLAB OF SLATE

State Executive Council Starts Investigation into Alleged Neglect of the Bridge Terminal Company to Pay Taxes.

DES MOINES, March 17.—(Special Telegram.)—E. Paul of Minneapolis, general auditor of the Minneapolis & St. Louis, said today that he could finally say for certain that the Minneapolis & St. Louis will be built at once from New Ulm to Omaha, a distance of 250 miles. The new road will be a double-track line, with a station at Minneapolis forty-eight miles shorter than the Northwestern route. The new road, he said, will be the northern outlet of the Pittsburg & Gulf. Thomas Dooley, a coal miner, was instantly killed in the Proctor mine here today by a block of slate falling and crushing out his life. The slab was twenty feet square and three feet thick. A miner by the name of Broad tried to rescue Dooley and another fall of slate caught him. He was dragged out alive, but is in a precarious condition tonight. The attorney general today answered the point raised a few days ago by Governor Shaw as to whether building and loan concerns may issue stock in "series," the accounts of which may be kept separate, by referring in the negative. In brief, he holds that building and loan or savings and loan associations are unauthorized by law to issue stock in different series, the profits, the losses and expenses of each series being kept separate and shared in only by the members of that series and not by the members of another series. The decision is based on the ground that such a holding would create an unequal contribution to the expenses of the association, which a mutual company cannot demand. But the attorney general also holds that such companies may issue stock at different dates, payable in such sums as each installment as the articles of incorporation authorize, providing that every dollar paid in by the shareholders shall receive its pro rata share of the profits of the association. The decision is in favor of the subscribers in Council Bluffs. As soon as the first three hundred orders were handed in a high-grade wheel, which will be the best wheel made in a very simple way.
