6:30 am column, the Sixth Massachusetts, entering the town, Colonel Edmund Rice, the new 11:35 am commander, riding in front. Through the SGTON long muddy street leading to the plaza the men tramped, each congratulating himself. Ticket that one stage of the march was over. Even the handsmen, usually slow of movement, brightened up and the drums beat a little harder and fifes sounded a trifle shriller in pure joy. Just as the column swung into a street on one side of the plaza Colonel Rice saw 8:05.a.m titi am the American flag standing out like a board from the mast of the alcaldia. With the 2.45 pm patriotic reverence inherent in the breast of the regular soldier he took off his hat and LOUIS passed on without giving a sign. Almost at han- the same moment the leader of the band obreprint the emblem and intuitively he started see 1415 his men playing Sousa's stirring "Stars and Stripes Forever' march.

Tele-As yet the men in the ranks had seen nothing except the low, red-tiled roofs and Atrive. the crowds of swarthy natives. On and on $:35 am they marched until the first company came almost abreast of the little building with its 9:05 pm grimy ensign. Then, with a unsulgrity that an almost perfect, the bundred men broke into a cheet, thrice repeated, while every 181. Tick- hat was doffed. As each counted and the Tick- the flag these cheers were repeated and the arnam the has these careful to the amazement of the ne. 425 salute given, much to the amazement of the Mason natives, who had never heard an American 110.0 soldier's cheer before. The lesson in patriotism was quickly 20 a.m am learned, however, for the next morning as I sat on the plazza of the little Hotel 1 15 am Frances, I noticed that every time a native passed that starry flag he doffed his hat.

4:25 pm Fethaps he didn't know why se did it, but $:50 pm he knew it was an American custom and 8:50 am that was sufficient.

ARTIFICIAL DIAMONDS.

Small One Made to Illustrate

Lecture. An artificial diamond was manufactured 4:45 pm before z large audience at a public lecture at Columbia university Thursday afternoon. 6:40 am reports the New York World, Eamuel

Auchimity Taylor, Ph.B., instructor in industrial chemistry, performed the experi-6:40 am ment in an address on "Electric Furnaces." 12:20 pm He followed the process used by Heart Melssan of Parls and produced a diamond, but it was so small that it took a micro-4 45 pm pm scope to see it and was consequently of no om commercial value. The experiment, how- $\frac{15}{4}\frac{16}{200}$ ever, is costly and delicate and is seldom (300 performed. In the same Molasun furnace, heated to a temperature of more than 6,000 degrees, Fahrenheit, Prof. Taylor volatilized g, degrees, rancoster, be made smoke out of a hard plede of rock. This smoke was of a brownish hus. It was in reality silicon. It 6 10 p. formed on the glass chimney used over the furnace and clung there. Another extraor--CADdinary experiment was the making of a large piece of calcium carbide used in the Mason manufacture of acetylene gas. Prof. Taylor poured pulverized guicklime and coke into ATTIVE. a crucible, heated the crucible to 6.000 de-Silli am grees Fahrenheit by means of an arc curtent and took out the calcium carbide. This he dropped into a vessel of water and then lit the fiame of acetylene gas proone of duced. In treating of this gas Prof. Taylor chase, said that he does not believe it will ever prove of great commercial value as an illuminant. Its competitors, electricity and coal gas, are, he said, too chesp. -
