It is supposed that the man and his companion, if he had one, separated on leaving the alley and both made for the southwestern part of the city. The man who shot Mr. Brown was seen by several parties as he ran through the alles. and one man in particular, M. A. Goehring, was able to give the police a good description, which tallied exactly with that given by Mr. Brown.

Daring Act.

The attempted robbery was a most daring act, as the bank is situated on a portion of Broadway which at that time in the afternoon is the most densely traveled of any through the big front window of the bank, his ability to escape by the back door, as fellow. DEFENSE REDUCES BALANCE AGAINST QUAY Several of His Obligations Are Shown to Have Been Contracted by Other Parties-Expert Goldsmith on the Stand. PHILADELPHIA, April 18 .- When court pened today in the trial of ex-United States Senator Quay it was evident from the brief examination of Meyer Goldsmith, the expert accountant, by District Attorney Rothermel that Judge Biddle's decision yeserday ruling out testimony relating to other than the alleged specific conspirac prevents the revelation of many alleged manipulations by state treasurers and otbers of the state funds on deposit in the People's bank.

Mr. Goldsmith was on the stand for less than five minutes today before being turned over to the defense for cross-examination In that time Mr. Rothermel brought out the fact that on August 3, 1896, $100,000 was deposited in the bank by State Treasurer Haywood, making the state deposit aggregate $600,000. Two days later a loan of $100,000 was made to Richard R. Quay on a note endorsed by Senator Quay. The witness said the books did not show whether the loan of $100,000 was paid off or not. It. has been stated, however, that the loan was repaid after the bank closed on March 24. 1898.

A long line of quesions upon what the witness based his calcuations of interest was then asked. The replies generally were involved, but the witness indicated that he obtained the rate of nterest from the current prices in the money market, and not the result of a guess. The witness' attention was directed to his estimony that the books showed Mr. Quay wed $185,155.12 at the end of October 31. 1897. He was told to show where such evilence appeared in the books. This necessiated the witness going over each book bear-
