The first Montana regiment followed the Kansans across the bridge.

The First Nebraska regiment, acting as a reserve, attacked the rebels in three lines of trenches, driving them out, killing sixteen and wounding many.

First Nebraska's Part.

In the meantime a large body of Fillpinos, estimated at no fewer than 3,000, led by General Antonio Luna on a black charger, that was evidently coming to reinforce the rebels who were engaged with the Nebraskans, appeared in the open field about two miles to the left. Emerging from the jungle the enemy formed an open skirmish fine nearly two miles in length with very thick reserves behind. Then they advanced at double-quick until they were about 2,000 yards from the pany G, hand, slight. American line, when General Wheaton ordered his troops to fire.

Rebels Run.

The rebels, who were evidently unaware broke and ran in the direction of Macebele neck, severe. and Apalit. Most of the rebels fled to Apalit station, where two trains were awaiting them. They left hurriedly, presumably for San Fernando. The towns of San axilla, severe. burned and evacuated by the natives.

Twenty prisoners were captured, including a Spanlard.

The American troops also captured a brass cannon and a quantity of arms and ammunition and the same evening they captured a Maxim gun on the railroad.

The fighting lasted from noon until 4 o'clock.

The American loss is one man of the Montana regiment killed and three officers slight. and six men wounded.

The heat in the early part of the afternoon was terrific, but a drenching thunderstorm which came later greatly refreshed the Americans.

As far as known tonight these three institutions of learning escaped the storm.

The storm then went northwest and wiped out Patterson's nursery, pulling the trees out of the ground and hurling them through the city. A second edition of the cyclone followed the first twenty minutes later. It came as an inky black cloud widely distributed and covered the whole town, passing above the houses, doing no material damage, i but gathering fury as it went. It undoubt-
