Certain Taxes Are to Be Farmed Out for Collection.

CONTRACT TO BE GIVEN TO G. H. STILLMAN

He Will Collect Delluquent Personal Taxes and Receive a Certain Per Cent of His Collections as Commission.

In something like the method pursued by the cities of old, Omaha will farm out regular meeting last night, the city council finally determined to enter into a contract with G. H. Stillman according to which the latter is authorized to collect all delinquent personal taxes standing upon the city tax books and will receive as his compensation a certain percentage of his collections as a commission.

This is the scheme which was practically decided upon several weeks ago and which has created a considerable amount of discussion among city officials. It has been charged that this contract will be a source of considerable wealth to the contractor because it will virtually give him a commission on all delinquent personal taxes whether collected by him or paid in by the taxpayer. If the contract as at present the air and many of the owers have comframed is entered into, it will also be a perpetual contract, for it specifies no time of termination nor does it make any provision for annulling the contract if satisfactory work is not done. Mayor Moores the old St. Joseph hospital, which was reset forth all these objections in a message vetoing the scheme, but the veto was overriden.

Reasons for the Veto.

several reasons. One was that the city attorney has declared the proposed con- ferred. tract cannot legally be entered into because the charter makes the treasurer the collector of taxes. If it is entered into the city attorney held further that the act will release the treasurer from all liability for the collection of these taxes or the failure to collect. In this connection the mayor

"This resolution attempts to take away from the treasurer the right to appoint a deputy tax collector and would place the collector above the authority of the treasurer, as he would act by virtue of a contract which has no provision for its termination, even if the conduct or methods of the collector were highly unsatisfactory to the treasurer. Under such conditions the treasurer could certainly not be held responsible on his bond for any wrongdoing or neglect of this collector and yet the resolution makes no provision for the collector giving a bond to the city. In other words this collector would be entirely outside the authority of the city treasurer and not be subject to his direction or control because he acts under a contract which is not made under any legal provision."

Mayor Moores also asserted that the contractor, under the contract, will draw a commission on personal taxes paid into the treasurer's office through no solicitation or effort on his part. He suggested that if anybody can make money in collecting delinquent taxes and collect a large amount for the city a competent deputy employed by the city can do the same and save a large amount of money.

This veto met with no favor, however, among the councilmen, all the members being unanimously in favor of entering into the contract on the grounds that the method suggested by the mayor has been tried without success. The veto was overriden by

Stillman will employ a corps of men to collect the delinquent taxes. They are to be deputized and will therefore be given authority to levy upon the property of any of Omaha's citizens who fail or refuse to nay their delinquent taxes on demand

Mayor Moores also returned without his approval the resolution passed by the council at its last meeting, providing that no ordinances creating improvement districts for paving shall be passed unless a majority petition is filed with the city clerk and certified to by the city engineer. Mayor Moores took the position that the resolution amended the charter, which permits the council to order paving subject to protest within thirty days. He maintained that this power should not be taken away from the council in cases where nonresident or speculator property owners refuse to petition for paving because of the cost.

In the discussion of the veto City Attorney Connell was called upon and stated that property owners in many cases have fought taxes assessed for paving that has been ordered without petition and have succeeded in saddling the cost of such pay The majorit of the council talked in favor of the resolution, but their number was not sufficient to override the veto Burkley and Burmester were absent and Karr and Mount voted in the negative.

One of the charter amendments that the city tried to have passed by the late legislature was one that proposed to give the council the same power in case of repaving as well as paving, "to permit the council to order repaying without petition and subject to protest as in case of paving," explained Councilman Mount when he voted in the negative. "This resolution is of a directly opposite character; it absolutely takes away the power which it was proposed to extend. I do not believe that this power should be taken away from the council, because it is too often the case that a nonresident property owner stands in the way of paving that is absolutely needed. b to know when it should order paving; if have been mixed with that polson. not, the members should leave their seats in this body."

But five votes were cast to override the veto and six were needed to negative the mayor's action, has already been ordered to do the work. This action was brought about through a ittle trick worked by Councilmen Mount and Burmester of the committee on paving. At the last meeting of the council a resoution appropriating $500 for repairs was introduced, failed of passage and was reerred to the committee on paving with power o temporarily repair the streets. This ommittee at once ordered the Barber Asphalt company to make repairs to the amount of $500. When the committee made report to this effect it aroused considerable position, but finally its action was upheld, only Mercer and Stuht voting in the negative. Seventeenth and Burt streets. The city has already agreed to pay onehalf the cost of grading Mason street from Eleventh to Thirteenth, but this improvement is likely to cost the city a pretty penny besides if a scheme sprung by Stuht is adopted. When this grading was finished it left adjoining property fifty or sixty feet in menced suits for damages against the city. One of these suits was brought by the Franciscan Sisterhood, which owns the lot at Eleventh and Mason, formerly occupied by cently destroyed by fire. Stuht introduced a resolution that this latter suit be compromised by paying one-half the cost of grading down this Franciscan sisterhood prop-Mayor Moores vetoed the resolution for erty, provided the work can be done for 10 cents a yard. As to Condemned Buildings.

Building Inspector Butler asked the council to do something that will empower the city to tear down buildings that are condemned as unsafe. As an indication of the helplessness of the city in this regard, the building inspector called attention to the fact that the Ainscow block at Fourteenth and Leavenworth streets has been condemned regularly each year for the last fifteen years, and yet stands as a menace to the whole city and the people who live in it. Butler said that the city cannot tear down such buildings without making an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to of hearty approbation. maintain such structures. The suggestion was referred to the city engineer.

An effort will finally be made to put Vinon street, between Twenty-first and Twenondition by packing it with brickbats from he Kingman building, recently destroyed by are. An appropriation of $150 for this work was made out of Councilman Bingham's allotment of money for street work in his ward. The action was taken through a resolution introduced by Bingham.

MOROCCO AND TANGIERS

Entertaining Lecture Delivered on the Subject by Rev. Reilly at St. Mathias Church. Rev. Edward J. Reilly, rector of the St Mathias' Episcopal church, delivered an interesting lecture to a good audience last evening in the lecture room of the church "Morocco and Tanglers." It was expected that he would lecture on "Quo Vadis," but owing to the failure of some views to arrive this lecture was postponed

Mr. Reilly gave a number of excellent riews illustrating scenes of which he spoke. He commenced with the cities outside of Tanglers and led his audience to that interesting place. He referred to Morocco as garden created by God and turned into wilderness by man. A political turn was given to his remarks by his reference to the part England may take in the civilizing of this productive portion of Africa some future time.

His views of Tanglers were especially interesting because perhaps more is known of that city than all the remainder of Morocco, He told how slaves are brought to the city from the Soudan and sold almost for a song. After serving faithfully a few years they are given their freedom and it is not an unusual thing to see a former slave discussing some important foreign country. His reference to the tradesmen was not very complimentary because of their laziness. He spoke of the Hebrews in a critical way, the men being declared bright and well educated while the women are almost without knowledge, although possessed of great beauty.

The lecture closed with a dozen views it lustrating "Abide with Me," which left the audience in an excellent frame of mind to go out into the storm.

The members of the class in telegraphy and the educational director were invited to a splendid spread in honor of the successful close of he year's work by Mrs. H. R. Ellis, the intructor. The banquet was held in the association cafe and a most excellent repast vas placed before the guests. Several interesting impromptu toasts were offered by various members of the class and Mr. Ellis and Mr. Babcock gave a few parting words of advice and good will. The class in teleg raphy has been very satisfactory this year The enrollment has been eighteen and the interest has been well maintained. The students have made excellent progress and boys-he has been a true friend. The association is proud of the quality of the work

PINKHAM:-I wrote to you some time ago, telling you of my ills, but now I write to thank you for the good your remedies (have done me. I have used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three packages of Sanative Wash, and one box of Liver Pills, and to-day I call myself a well woman. I suffered with backache, constant headache, whites, sick stomach, no appetite, could not sleep, and was very nervous. At time of menstruation was in terrible pain. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I never can say enough in praise of it. I have recommended it to many friends. If only all suffering women would try it, there would be more happy homes and healthy women. I thank you for the change your medicine has made in me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice, have saved thousands of women from hospital operations. The lives of women are hard; whether at home with a ceaseless round of domestic duties or working at some regular employment, their daily tasks make constant war on health. If all women understood themselves fully and knew how exactly and soothingly Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts on the female organs, there would be less suffering. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills
