Vines Not Badly Damaged.
Yesterday's reports made at the meeting afternoon of the Council Bluffs Grape Growers' Association it appears that the damage to the vines this winter was not as great as had been supposed. While the new vines suffered to quite an extent, the older ones stood the rigor of the winter in good shape. Where the vineyards are sheltered from the north winds the vines are in first-class condition and are now commencing to sprout, some of them showing sprouts eight inches long.
The young vines are backward, many of them not having yet even commenced to break. The estimate is made that the loss to old vines will not exceed 1 per cent, while the new vineyards are damaged 25 per cent. The prospects at present for the season's crop of grapes are, however, excellent. Last year the crop only averaged about 50 per cent, the vines not having fully recovered from the drought of two years before. This year reports indicate that there will be 75 per cent of a crop.
Fruit trees are all practically dead and the crop of this fruit will be a complete failure in this vicinity. Small fruits, however, promise well. Raspberries indicate a 75 per cent crop, blackberries a 50 per cent crop, while currants are expected to yield a full crop.
Plum and cherry trees are in excellent condition and are expected to produce full crops. The prospects for a good yield of apples are also at present bright.
The meeting, which was presided over by Samuel Avery, was well attended. The association has leased the premises at 123 Broadway for the season and George Allingham will continue as manager.

Some three hundred children enjoyed the annual outing and feast provided yesterday by Rev. Henry DeLong for the pupils of the Industrial school. The feast was a bounteous one and the little folk did full justice to the good things provided. After their appetites had been fully satisfied, and there was no need or limit to the eatables, the children boarded three large open motors that had been specially chartered for the trip and were taken for a ride around the loop in Omaha and then to Fairmount park, where, after being addressed by Rev. R. Brown of Trinity Methodist church, the children put in the rest of the afternoon having a right royal good time with the swings and other amusements arranged for them. On the way to the park one of the large motors jumped the track at First and Pierce streets, which caused a little delay. Before assembling for the feast the children, headed by "Father" DeLong, paraded the principal streets of the city.

OMAHA LAWYER IS INDICTED

W. P. Cowan is Charged with the Crime of Subornation of Perjury.

GRAND JURY RETURNS OTHER INDICTMENTS

Small Wooden Jail at Neola is Condemned as Unsanitary and a Dangerous Firetrap in Which to Confine Prisoners.

In the batch of indictments reported yesterday afternoon by the district court grand jury was one against W. P. Cowan, a young attorney of Omaha, on the charge of subornation of perjury. The indictment is a sequel to the trial in the district court here at the January term of Tracy, Lawrence and Wyatt for breaking into a school house in Lewis township, and also for breaking into Farmer Lorne's hen coops and stealing upwards of 100 of his chickens and turkeys. Cowan defended the three men. Both offenses occurred on the night of January 21 of this year. The men were arrested next morning with the stolen chickens in their possession as they crossed the motor bridge into Omaha. Tracy and Lawrence on trial were found guilty of both the offenses and pleaded guilty to breaking into the school house. They are both serving sentences in the penitentiary. Wyatt demanded a separate trial and got off with six months' in the county jail, where he now is.

During the trial one of the witnesses, Robert Johnson, a young man living in Carson, testified that on the night the three prisoners were charged with stealing Loren's chickens they stopped at his livery barn, where they put up their wagon and team, and that they did not leave there until the morning of the next day. His testimony was given a black eye when Lawrence and Tracy pleaded guilty to breaking into the Lewis school house. The matter was brought before the grand jury at the opening of the present term and Johnson was indicted for perjury, pending the awaiting trial. In the indictment it is charged that Cowan procured young Johnson to testify falsely, and that a few days before the trial went to Carson, where he made arrangements with Johnson to appear as a witness. Johnson, during his cross-examination, testified that he had never met Cowan until he did so in the court room. It is further charged that Cowan was aware that Johnson was testifying falsely and that the perjured testimony was given at his (Cowan's) solicitation and instruction.

Other Indictments.
William Lewis was indicted for stabbing G. W. Hayes on the evening of April 13 during a drunken brawl in front of a saloon on Broadway. Lewis' bail was fixed at $2,500, but Judge Smith reduced it to $800, in which amount Lewis furnished a bond.
An indictment was also returned against Frank Henderson on the charge of attempting to shoot Perry Lavenburg. Henderson is in custody at the county jail, having been unable to furnish bail.
A number of other indictments were reported, but owing to the defendants not being in custody, they were not made public in the cases of Charles Carpenter, the nursery stock salesman, alleged to have forged orders on which he drew his commission; Arthur Palmer, a young lad charged with burglary; C. E. Bird, charged with the burglary of Charles Bishop's residence, and Fred Larouche, charged with stealing a set of harness belonging to William Morehouse of Garner township.

The grand jury reported that the condition of the county jail was good, but that the partitions and floor of the upper story of the city jail were in a very bad condition.
The jury also made a lengthy report condemning the small wooden jail at Neola. The report says it is in poor sanitary condition, and that the provisions for heating are such as to render it unsafe when fire has to be kept while prisoners are confined therein, and that it is otherwise so exposed to danger of fire from without as to be a hazardous place in which to keep prisoners. In the event of a fire there would be extreme difficulty in rescuing the prisoners. The jury fails to make any recommendation, but it is understood the town of Neola is prepared to erect a new building.

Alleged Misconduct of Jurors.
In an affidavit accompanying the motion filed yesterday in the district court for a new trial of the damage suit of Charles Smith against Late Jensen, justice of the peace for Boomer township, in which a verdict for the defendant was given a few days ago, charges of misconduct on the part of some of the jurors are made.
The affidavit is that of John P. Organ, attorney for Smith. He alleges that one juror was approached by a resident of this city for the purpose of influencing his action and that another juror—who, before being permitted to take his seat in the box, said his acquaintance with Jensen would not in any way influence him in finding a verdict—talked frequently during the trial with other members of the jury about Jensen's good character and fairness. Organ further alleges that a third juror explained his vote for the verdict by declaring that Jensen was a foreigner not well acquainted with the laws of this country and that he did not know better than to act as he did, as he only had two years' experience as an attorney in a year. The names of the jurors complained of are not made public by Attorney Organ on the grounds that to do so at this time might prevent the ends of justice.

Smith sued for $5,000 for alleged false arrests and imprisonment by Jensen, claiming malice on the part of the Boomer Justice, Smith, after his arrest and commitment to jail for thirty days, secured his release by a writ of habeas corpus.

Notes of the Courts.
The trial of Joseph Leytham, charged with the theft of a cow belonging to Ira Hartwell, a farmer living near Quick postoffice, was commenced in the district court yesterday. Leytham, in driving some cattle out of Judson's pasture, north of the city, took a cow belonging to Hartwell. He butchered it and then sold the beef to a butcher, where the theft was discovered. He made restitution, paying Hartwell in full the value of the animal before the indictment was returned. Hartwell filed a motion with the court asking that the prosecution be dropped, but the county attorney declined to entertain it.
Anna C. Hannibalson filed original notice of suit against George M. Sessions for $2,000 damages for personal injuries alleged to have been done to her by the defendant on May 31 of last year. The trouble between the parties is said to have originated in a neighborhood row.
The suit against the Union Pacific for the death of John C. Coleman, a fireman killed on the Omaha & St. Louis track January 12 last, commenced by John Freytag, administrator of the dead man's estate, in the district court, has been settled. The railroad company has, in accordance with an agreement, confessed judgment in the sum of $1,000. Freytag resides in Union county and the settlement was authorized by Judge Towler, judge of that district.

The second day of the hearing of the school-site appeal case before Superintendent Sawyer did not develop any sensational testimony. The attorney for L. Smith, the appellant, appears to be directing their entire energies in the attempt to prove that the Oakland avenue tract is not suitable as a site for the new high school building on account of it not being the exact geographical center of the school district. Members Henry, Hess, Cooper and Moore of the school board were placed on the stand by this appellant in order to respect D. W. Olin, agent for the "Street," etc., when placed on the witness stand, produced a colored model of the site he represented, showing how it could be graded and terraced for a high school building. Accompanying the model was a small box which he said represented the size of the building. Olin during the course of his testimony claimed that a contract for the purchase of the site he represented had been made by this board.
