The duty which draws us together, and the day-although appointed by law-come witnesses our coming invests the occasion with increased solemnity and significance. Within the precincts of this dread but beau-tiful city-consecrate in all our hearts and all our homes-for here lie our loved onestwo plots of ground, with but a hillock between, have been set aside to mark the rest ing place of the dead of two armies that in life were called hostile, the army of the union, the army of the confederacy. We come to decorate the graves of those who died fighting for the union. Presently others shall come to decorate the graves of those who died fighting for the confederacy. Yet if these flower-covered mounds could open and the brave men who inhabit them could at last fulfilled, and that the confederacy, preserve swallowed up by the union, lives again in republic. American manhood and brotherhood, such as were contemplated by the makers of the republic. It is required of no man-whichever flag he served under-that he make any renunciation shameful to himself. Nor is it the part of wisdom to regret a tale that is told. The Issues that evoked the strife of sections are dead issues. The conflict, which was thought to be irreconcilable and was cer tainly inevitable, ended more than thirty years ago. It was fought to its bloody conisland and under the walls of Cavite, let us behold hostages for the old north and the old south blent together in a union that knows neither point of the compass and has flung its geography into the sea. Great as were the issue we have put behind us forever, yet greater issues still cast them? I seek not to lift the veil on what may lie beyond. It is enough for me to know that I have a country and that my country leads the world. I have lived to look upon its dismembered fragments whole drous plumage upon the Arabian desert devour it; I have watched it gradually un-fold its magnificent proportions through alternating tracks of light and shade; I have stood in awe-struck wonder and fear less the glorious fabric should fade into darkness of the far-away Pacific came the booming of Dewey's guns, quickly followed by the answering guns of Sampson and Shafter and is God's promise redeemed. With the night sectional confusion that is gone, civil strife has passed from the scene, and, in the of freedom, another birth of greatness and power and renown. At the close of his address the children 'taps" were sounded.

There was added significance to the ceremonies of today, for to the memories of the civil war were added those of the Spanish-American conflict, which had swelled the list of soldier and sailor dead. The parade started early in the day, traversing the principal streets. Aside from the many Grand Army posts and veteran organizations represented in line, the full strength of the national guard of the district and of the naval battalion turned out. That it was a war tween brothers, and now that it is past we are reunited, no north, no south, no east, no west, but a union indivisible and inseparable, cemented by the blood and sac-rifices of our fallen dead. people, ready to do battle together for our Since you met to celebrate one year ago we have ended a war which was forced upon us after a long reign of peace and from which we could not escape with honor. The whole civilized world has been a witness to the fact that our cause was as righteous as our victory has been triumphant. Spain and her medieval tyranny have been banished from the western world. That terri-tory within the seas, which God had in-tended should blossom as the rose and bear its full share of the burdens of civilization, seems to lift itself up in the full pride of its redemption, ready to give forth bountiful harvests to supply the wants of civilized men. The valor of our countrymen upon land and sea revive proofs that the sons of the heroes of the civil war are worthy of their honored sires. The same courage that led our troops over these immortal hills about Gettysburg likewise inspired the heroes who climbed the hills at El Caney. Long after the naval battles of the civil Manila and Santiago. These events will mark epochs in the world's history. for our country. The active, busy men of the republic who lived in the 60s have passed away and it is a new generation, unfamiliar war have been forgotte athere will stand out in glowing colors the signal victories of New made graves in various parts of this fair land revive in us a desire to keep fresh the memories of those who have dared to die with the conflicts of the civil war, that must solve the problem of the future. It is possible that the battles and sacrifices and the victories of the last year have been made necessary that we may work out our greater destiny. The American citizen can go round the world today without carrying a chart upon which to locate his home to the incredulous foreigner. The peoples of the earth claim a relationship to "Uncle Sam." Our flag the stars and stripes, now floats over more continents, more hemispheres than ever before. Its bright stars in the azure blue give new courage and new hope to races of men of the wide world round. A glorious emblem of victory and unity. Each stripe bears a message of promise and every loyal son of the republic proudly stands within the shadow of its strength.

The question as to whether the Philippines shall be ours is not the most important question before the American people. It is of far greater concern to us to know whether this native land between the seas, which is already ours, this land which has been beautified and developed and made the abode of the highest order of civilization, shall be ed inviolate for generations yet to Shall we allow the greed of capital and the socialistic tendencies of other na-tions to combine against our common wel-fare? Shall we banish the Christian Sabbath and give ourselves up to the violation of laws both human and divine? Let us be reminded that if we disregard the laws of our well being, if we follow the beaten paths that have been made by those nations that have gone on into oblivion, then indeed will our ignominious end be sure and cer-tain. Then this great western world, which was fitended by God to be the eternal abode of human liberty, will give itself up to anarchy and disorder. The thought of such a future is sufficient in itself to bring us to the rescue as loyally as if our flag was fired upon by an enemy. We must learn the lesson of protection that saves us from our-selves as well as from a foreign foe. Law and order must prevail. We will open our doors wide to the best civilization of both hemispheres, but we must keep them forever barred against all elements of society that do not measure up to our standards of manhood and womanhood.

Yellow Fever in New Orleans. JACKSON, Miss., May 30.—Advices having seen received from President Souchon of the Louisiana State Board of Health that one case of yellow fever had appeared in Orleans, Dr. J. E. Hunter, secretary of the Mississippi board, today sent Inspector Gant to New Orleans, with instructions to make thorough inspection of the city. He will be joined there by Inspector Dunn tomorrow Unless the situation becomes very serious, which is highly improbable, the Mississippi board will not declare a quarantine against New Orleans. Public sentiment is decidedly opposed to such a step. The news of the first case of the season produced no excitement here.

Raw as Beef From Eczema.

Eczema is more than skin-deep. The disease itself, the real cause of the trouble, is in the blood, although all suffering is produced through the skin; the only way to reach the disease, therefore, is through the blood. Mr. Phil T. Jones, of Mixersville,

It finally broke into a running sore and hegan to spread and grow worse. For the past five or six years I have suffered untold ngony and had given up all hope of ever being free from the disease.

It goes to the bottom—to the cause of the disease, and will cure the worst case of Eczems, no matter what other treat-ment has failed. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed to be purely vege-
