committee had decided on five speeches, in-cluding one by Head Consul Northcott. The Missouri delegation, in caucus last night, declared for an amendment of the by laws of the order establishing a reserve fund. It was the first gun of the convention and created so much discussion today that it was decided to abandon the speechmaking and settle down to business. The reserve fund was suggested ten years ago. The present national officers are advocates of it and have been recommending it at every convention. The opposition of the majority of the delegates has discouraged them and for the first time there appears no recommendations in this direction in the annual reports. C. W. Hawes, in his report, estimates that the work of deputies will be at a standstill in 1905, and that they cannot increase the membership at will offset the deaths and keep down the rates of assessment. The reserve fund is intended to keep the assessment at a low rate. It is intended also to be an emergency fund in case of epidemics. A resolution to vote on the place of holding the convention in 1901 Wednesday morning was laid on the table. *************

Why the train was not run through at that time when it was 1,003 oaded is not known. As the building remained on the tracks all day, effectually blocking the key to the Y at Twenty-fourth and O streets, trains were run down from Twenty-fourth and Vinton on both tracks and back on the same tracks.

The service rendered by the street car ompany was commented on considerably at the Live Stock exchange and the remarks passed were not altogether complinentary to the managers of the motor line. What those doing business at the exchange would like to see is the building of a loop around Twenty-sixth street so that all southbound trains would run down N street o Q and north on Twenty-fourth street. This scheme was seriously considered by the street car officials at one time, but was abandoned for the Y which was placed on) street. During the talk at the exchange esterday the suggestion was made that a sum sufficient to pay the cost of laying the tracks on Twenty-sixth street be raised by subscription and tendered to the street car company. Whether this will be done is mere conjecture, but several commission men and others signified a willingness to contribute for the purpose menioned. It is possible that a committee or delegation will wait upon the officials of the street car company at no distant day with a proposition similar to the one outlined. or else a demand for better service, morning and evening. The early morning work was also reduced and with the exception of punching the bag and a turn with the medicine ball, Fitzsim-mons did not exert himself. After eating a hearty dinner this evening 'Bob' took his usual run of twelve miles and as soon as he had another rubdown retired. Martin Julian, who is watching out for the interests of the champion, said tonight that Fitzsimmons was in rare good trim and from now on the work would be dimin-iched gradually, as he felt that his man was on edge and there would be no further use for exhaustive training.
