Harry Fielder, who was hit in the head with a brick by an unknown colored man and his skull fractured, is recovering rapidly at the Presbyterian hospital, where h was taken shortly after he was injured last Friday night. He will probably be laid up several days yet, but he is out of danger. Fielder got into a quarrel with a man with whom he was employed in Sioux City ome time ago. Their misunderstanding was due to a sum of money of which one laimed the other owed him a part. Fielder hased his former pal across Douglas sirce and into a saloon. They entered the front door and emerged through the side. The man in front not having time to open the screen door took it with him. He again rossed the street and went up the stairway leading into the State hotel. Thinking that he had gone into the Owl saloon Fielder ran through it. As he passed into the alley in the rear an unknown colored man, who evidently thought Fielder was after him, smashed the pursuer in the head with a brick which fractured his skull The negro made his escape while Fielde was picked up and removed to the hos pital, where he has remained ever since He did not look very much the worse for his injury yesterday, with the exception of the bandages which covered his head.

The only special feature of the afternoon was the concert in the Auditorium by Godfrey's band and as the program included a number of selections that are popular with John T. Stannar of Council Bluffs Omaha audiences it was heard with more than usual approval. The first selection that caught the crowd was a medley of American airs and then Victor Herbert's exquisite waltz, "The Serenade," was played in a manner that made the conquest Mr. Kettlewell scored another miliar medley, "A Trip to Coontown." brought out a succession of popular melodies that were received with hearty applause.

Big Crowds in Attendance.

The afternoon and evening crowds made one think of the big days of last season. By the middle of the afternoon the Main court and the Midways commenced to grow congested and soon after the 25-cent rate went into effect at 6 o'clock the jam commenced. People from the city went out in full force and at the closing of the gates the turnstile readings showed 28,360 in attendance.

The evening crowd was bent on seeing the Midway and see it they did. They visited all of the attractions, going from one end of the street to the other. The band concert on the Plaza drew its share and all of the reserved seats were filled, with thousands standing outside the ropes. The concert, which was largely of patriotic airs, was en joyed and a number of the selections were encored.

An immense jam occurred at the spectacular destruction of Manila. The grandstand at this place seats 6,000 and the seating capacity was soon taxed to its ut-Bleachers were placed at either most. end of the reserved section and they were soon filled, after which benches and chairs for 2,000 more persons were brought in and placed along the south shore of the lake. It was not long before these were all occupied, after which the gates were closed and several hundred people were turned away.

The spectacle opened with the festivities prior to the morning when Admiral Dewey bombarded the Spanish fleet. Following this, the real battle, the feature of the attraction, commenced and the audience broke into loud cheers as one after another of the vessels went to the bottom of the ocean.

Last night's fireworks were especially than those fired upon the previous night. The set pieces consisted of a large American flag done in red, white and blue, a pic ture of George Washington and one of Admiral Schley
