Royal Reception Being Accorded to the National Educational Convention.

READY FOR OPENING SESSION TOMORROW

Second Session of the National Council of Education Was Held Today

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 10.—The city is ablaze with buntings and tonight principal electric arches which span the principal streets will illuminate the scene in honor of the National Educational association.

The last of the eastern delegations are beginning to arrive, the Brooklyn Eagle special, made up of six cars, containing 250 teachers, a second delegation from Brooklyn in charge of Prof. T. V. Withers, and the Massachusetts contingent being dated to arrive shortly after noon.

Later the Indiana, Kentucky and Nebraska delegates will arrive and everything will then be in perfect readiness for the opening session of the National Educational association convention tomorrow.

The second session of the National Council of Education was held today. Hon. A. T. Harris, United States commissioner of education, Washington, D. C., submitted the report of the special committee of the Department of Superintendent of School Hygiene; Z. X. Snyder, president of the State Normal school, Greeley, Colo., read a committee report on state normal schools; Principal C. H. Keyes, Holyoke, Mass., read a paper on the differentiation of the American school, and Dr. N. Murray Butler, New York, one on the educational progress of the year.

The department on Indian schools held a session, at which much preliminary work was done.

HAS NO LIQUOR LICENSE LAW.

South Dakota in that flight. According to a court decision.

SIoux FALLS, S. D., July 10.—(Special.)—The decision of Judge Moore of the Deadwood circuit court, to the effect that South Dakota is now without a liquor license law, will not affect the liquor dealers of that part of the state lying east of the Missouri river, who prior to Judge Moore's decision had been advised by excellent legal authority that the old law was still in full force and effect, and accordingly have made no attempt to evade the payment of licenses.

A constitutional amendment providing for a state dispensary system was carried by a small majority at the election last fall. Had the legislature passed an act inaugurating the system it would have cost a greater sum of money than the state could afford, with the certainty that at the next general election a license system would again have been substituted for it, when the vast sum necessary to have put the dispensary system in force would have been practically a total loss to the state. After the adjournment of the legislature without passing legislation instituting the state dispensary, Attorney General Pyle was asked to furnish an opinion as to the status of the old liquor license law. After an exhaustive and thorough investigation he rendered an opinion that the old license law was still in full force and effect, and since then the liquor dealers throughout the state have paid the license required by that law.

SHEEP INDUSTRY IS GROWING.

Black Hills Sheep Breeders' and Wool Growers' Association Organized.

BLACK HILLS, S. D., July 10.—(Special.)—The Black Hills Sheep Breeders' and Wool Growers' association was organized in this city yesterday, about fifty of the prominent sheepmen of the Black Hills being present. The officers elected were: President, Robert Boyd, treasurer, H. E. Swander, secretary, W. M. Cox, J. S. Hayes was appointed inspector of sheep for the association. The next meeting will be held on the second Friday in September, when it is expected that the membership of the association will be doubled. One of the objects of the meeting yesterday was to build a wool warehouse or storing wool until it can be sold. An attempt will also be made to get eastern wool buyers to remain here during the wool season. The sheep industry is growing rapidly in the Black Hills. The lamb crop for this Railway Through Siberia to the Pacific Nearing Completion—Equipped with Most Modern Rolling Stock.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Herbert H. D. Peirce, first secretary of the United States embassy to Russia, is in Washington several days on leave of absence from his post. It has afforded an opportunity for talks with the president and State department officials on Russian affairs, both political and commercial, and the imparting of much interesting information which could not be brought by the channels of official reports. Speaking to a representative of the press Mr. Peirce said: "The relations between the United States and Russia were never on a more cordial basis than at present and the friendship which is traditional between the two countries finds constant expression in Russia, not only among officials, but also among the people of all classes. It is not too much to say that from the emperor down to the peasantry there is a sincere friendship for us and a desire to become acquainted with American methods and to make use in Russia of the skill and ingenuity which has advanced this country with such great strides. For this reason there is a great opening in Russia for American capital and for the introduction of American machinery and methods of doing business. It is an immense field, far beyond anything realized by the people in this country."

"Russia is just entering an era of tremendous prosperity, a sort of commercial and industrial awakening. Here is the new field for American enterprise and capital, for with our Pacific coast facilities, the Philippines and the Transiberian railroad route there is ready access for our goods into the very heart of Russia. During his ministry to Russia Mr. Hitchcock's personality and splendid business ability did much to stimulate our trade relations and the effect is widespread and continuous. There is a special opportunity for investments in steel and iron industries, cotton mills and for the manufacture of machinery and tools. Then, too, our manufactured goods will find almost illimitable markets, although Russia has a protective tariff which is encouraging its own industries. Still, even with the tariff, it wants many of our manufactured goods, such as steel, iron, machinery and tools. The home production is far short of sufficient to supply the present state of development. In fact there is hardly a line of American industry which cannot find very profitable investment throughout Russia. Moreover, Russia regards American goods as better than those of any other country, so that this favorable sentiment invites us into these vast new fields."

Great Road Nears Completion.

"People outside of Russia hardly realize how nearly completed the Transiberian railway is," continued Mr. Peirce. "The minister of ways of communication, who has charge of this great work, that he expected to make a trip around the world in forty days during the coming Paris exposition, going by way of the Transiberian route, and he had the kindness to ask me to accompany him on the trip. Even now the route is almost continuous from Moscow to the Amoor river and thence of Vladivostok on the Pacific coast with the exception of a comparatively short stretch which has to be covered by post horses. Once open, this makes almost a commercial route, and a highway from western Europe to the Pacific and from our Pacific coast into the far east and thence to eastern Europe."

"The road is so well along that trains are run out of Moscow which astonish even Americans as models of elegance. These trains have not only baths, libraries and other modern equipments, but a complete gymnasium to beguile the long trip through Siberia. The original purpose of Russia was to make the route one for military and strategic purposes, linking the capital and other large centers with the navy rendezvous at Vladivostok. But now commerce and travel over the road has quite overshadowed the strategic purpose and Russia finds that she has opened a highway which is to be one of the great traffic channels of the world. The route will be diverted southward through Chinese Manchuria, to permit a terminus at Russia's new and important leasehold at Port Arthur. But for the present Vladivostok continues to be considered its commercial terminus on the Pacific."

Distress Not Great.

Mr. Peirce was asked concerning the recent reports of widespread famine in Russia and the appeal issued in London for relief. "There is really no cause for alarm," said he, "I am familiar with this appeal for relief, and while not wishing to question any charitable or philanthropic movement, I think it only just to Russia that it should be known that the distress is confined to rather small and remote regions and that Russia herself has coped with the situation thoroughly and successfully. The country east and the methods of communication so primitive in places that cases of distress are slow to be reported and relieved. This may have led to the existence of considerable suffering and distress, but as far as I can learn this suffering is not widespread, but is confined to some of the provinces in southern Russia. The Russian government has been prompt in relieving the distress."

HOT WEATHER FOOD.

The selection of food for hot weather is an important question. We should avoid an excess of fats, cut down the butter ration and indulge more freely in fruits and food easy of digestion. One meat meal per day is sufficient during hot weather. An ideal breakfast is Grape-Nuts, treated with a little cream (which, by the way, supplies the necessary fat in a very digestible form) a cup of Postum Cereal Food Coffee, hot, or if cold, it should have a little lemon juice squeezed in; then some fruit, either cooked or raw; also perhaps two slices of entire wheat bread with a very thin spread of butter, or perhaps a little Grape-Nut Butter, which is a different article than Grape-Nuts. A breakfast of this kind is perfectly adapted to the wants of the system that one goes through the heat of the day in comfort as compared with the sweaty, disagreeable condition in one improperly fed. Once put in practice, the plan will never be abandoned during the hot days, for the difference in one's personal comfort is too great to be easily forgotten.

A SUICIDE'S PALM.

Prof. Grant Chesterfield Makes a Few Remarks in Regard to the Suicide's Palm.

"When the line of head rises inside the life line or at the beginning of the life line and travels on its own free source straight through the palm well into Luna and is poor in color yet deeply set it speaks plainly of mental depression; it shows a lack upon the brain, self destruction is written therein."

By examining your palms it is said Prof. Chesterfield tells you the state of your health; what ails you and whether or not you can be cured; if you will travel, if your home life is or will be happy; if you will be successful in your love affairs; if you will win your law suit; what you are best fitted for in life and if you wish he will tell you when you are to die.

greetings of the United society to the prison workers and Mr. Wallis read a number of communications from Endeavor societies within the walls of several of the state prisons. "In Prisons Ye Visited," was the subject of an eloquent address by Rev. Wilbur Chapman of New York. In earnest words Dr. Chapman commended the efforts of Endeavorers to soften the hard lives of those confined in prison and to bring to them some conception of Christian ethics and an aspiration to better lives. The meeting concluded with an interesting conference on practical methods of prison work, conducted by Treasurer William Shaw of Boston.

GRAND DUKE OF RUSSIA DEAD

Brother of the Czar, Who Has Been Ill for a Number of Years, Dies of Consumption.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 10.—Grand Duke George, brother of the czar, is dead.

Grand Duke George of Russia was born April 27, 1857, and has been in ill-health for a number of years, suffering from consumption.

LONDON, July 10.—The czar's brother, Grand Duke Michael of Russia, now his apparent, is at present in London. He accompanied the prince of Wales to the volunteer review on the Horse Guards' parade Saturday. It is understood that the czar will shortly issue a ukase ordaining that in the event of a minor succeeding to the throne his brother, Grand Duke Michael, is to act as regent.

Grand Duke Michael will remain in England until it is decided when and where the funeral is to take place. The death of the czarowitz, though quite unexpected, so much so indeed that his mother was not with him, has caused no surprise, because it has long been known it was impossible for him to survive the consumption with which he was afflicted, it having assumed a serious phase, which compelled him to live the life of a confirmed invalid.

Charles H. Willard.

Charles H. Willard, an old settler in the eastern portion of the state, died at 1 o'clock Monday morning at his home, 522 South Twenty-fourth avenue. Deceased had been ill for some time, but was unable to get up for a number of days. He was a member of the local lodge of the Odd Fellows and was a well known and respected citizen.

Mr. Willard was about 55 years of age. His wife and one daughter survive him. He was a veteran of the civil war and a member of the Masonic order.

J. W. M. Sheridan.

OGALALLA, Neb., July 10.—(Special.)—J. W. M. Sheridan, ex-county clerk and clerk of the district court of Keith county, died at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and was buried yesterday. Services were held at the Methodist Episcopal church. He had returned to this county some two months ago from California, where he moved with his family in 1887. His convalescence from a mother came from California to attend the funeral.

Margaret Weber.

OGALALLA, Neb., July 10.—(Special.)—Margaret, the 4-year-old daughter of a leading hardware merchant, H. M. Weber, died at 2 p. m., the services being held at the Catholic church.

Mrs. Ed. Penny.

OGALALLA, Neb., July 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ed Penny, wife of a prominent young farmer of Lincoln township, who was so badly burned July 1, died this forenoon.

A smooth-faced, determined looking youth, D. B. Eddy of Leavenworth, Kan., member of the Y. M. C. A., was introduced to speak of "The Great Resources of Missions." Mr. Eddy spoke of the means, mechanical, inventive, political and social, through which God had given assurances that the world is to be won for Christ. The responsibilities of Christians in carrying out God's revealed plans, he said, are heavy and they must go forward. "Pray and work," he said, "lest our enthusiasm roll back upon ourselves. We are playing with the world and letting motives of avarice and self-righteousness be uppermost. Pray, pray always for guidance."

The closing feature in Tent Endeavor was an address by Dr. Robert E. Spear of New York on "The Great Blessing of Missions."

Home Mission Rally.

The sentiment of the home mission rally in Tent Williston, as proposed by Rev. Dr. Hill of Massachusetts, was the Greek proverb, "They Bearing Torches Passed Them On from Hand to Hand." Many home missionaries from western states and territories were present. Rev. Dr. W. W. Boyd of St. Louis delivered an address on "Our Country's Many Problems." He discussed the two greatest, the immigration and the race problem. For the solving of the immigration problem he proposed three remedies—to maintain American ideals at their highest point by an aroused public sentiment, to legislate against the admission of the pauper and vicious classes of Europe, and to bring to bear a combined and quickened Christianity upon the stranger within our gates.

As to the race problem the speaker said that in his judgment the government made a great mistake in which it was put in the hands of the negro all the privileges and franchise of the freest government on the globe. "There are two sides to this race problem," said Dr. Boyd. "There is not a white man in the North who, if his wife or daughter is not surrounded by a mob, does not rush summarily to vengeance. But that does not excuse, though it may palliate the diabolical crime of lynching, and the hour is at hand when decisive steps must be taken to abolish it. Christianity must settle this question, and justice cannot do it."

Rev. Charles E. Jefferson of New York spoke upon "Our Country's One Salvation."

Manly Men Are Needed.

The following is a part of Dr. Jefferson's address: "We are living in the greatest of centuries. Now that it seems that God means us to be a leader of nations and races it looks as if Europe could not be sustained. But Greece fell, Rome fell. The present is no guarantee of the future. What this nation needs is more manhood, the manhood of the carpenter, the farmer, the soldier, the sailor, the man who will not be ruled by selfishness."

"What are we going to do with the liquor traffic?" he asked. "What shall we do with the corporations that devour the small man? What shall we do with militarism, love, what shall we do with militarism, love of the blackest demons that ever came out of the pit? They are sick of militarism across seas, but there are no men in America to whom the song of battle is sweet. Militarism is insanity; we can't beat it down with argument. Read the life of the man who rode not on a horse, for he stood for industry and patience. The Prince of Peace told us to beat the swords into plowshares. What shall we do with theosophy, Buddhism, Mormonism and other strange teachings. Let us go to Him who represents truth itself."

Law enough, intellect enough—no nation ever had more—but what we need is a higher, diviner, sweeter type of manhood. America's great redemption, her salvation, is obedience to the Man who rode on Calvary. This afternoon the juniors had their innings, both in the audience and on the platform. The junior rally was carried on in Tent Endeavor, the Detroit children who took the leading parts being massed on the platform, the number of boys and girls and upward. The floor was filled with children and their teachers and leaders. The program started with singing "The Banner of the Cross," with right heartiness. Other songs followed, the children on the stage alternating with those on the floor and the atmosphere was one of joy. They were appropriately represented by Mrs. Elizabeth Austin, superintendent of the Detroit Junior's union.

Growth of Christian Endeavor.

Worldwide Christian Endeavor was illustrated in a spectacular manner. Children wearing placards and others carrying banners and long placards were successfully brought upon the speaker's platform to show, first, the beginning of Christian Endeavor in Portland, Me., its spread in the United States and Canada and its subsequent remarkable growth in the various countries of the world. The huge banner, ex-courtesy of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., was suspended at one side and as each country was represented for its work a place on the staging marked off that part of the world by fastening a star over it until finally the star seemed fairly plastered over the entire Christian Endeavor. Each boy of juniors recited some thing in explanation of their part of the picture which was graphically executed. The exercise closed with the raising together the British and American flags flanked by the flags of all nations as saluted by the appropriate music. Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins of Philadelphia addressed the children happily on "What Christian Endeavor Means to the Boys and Girls."

The First Presbyterian church was packed this afternoon and the services were opening to addresses on the subject of Christian Endeavor in prison. Frederick A. Wallis of Louisville, superintendent of the Kentucky Christian Endeavor prison work, presided and the devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. J. Landreth of Nashville, Tenn. President Clark voiced the
