Bouricius' music house does not advertise so-called special sales, but if anybody wants a bargain in a fine piano, and has got the cash, they have now the chance of a lifetime. He is preparing for a visit to Europe and will offer for a limited time everything in the store at factory prices. Bouricius wants to reduce his stock as much as possible before leaving, 335 Broadway, where the organ stands upon the building.

Riprapping Washed Away.

C. E. Grafton, engineer in charge of the construction of the Fort Dodge & Omaha road, has notified Mayor Jennings that he has taken up the matter of the washing away of the riprapping with the Missouri river commissioners. The condition of the riprapping was called to the attention of the municipal authorities by City Engineer Etnyre, and as the Fort Dolge & Omaha railway is vitally interested in the preservation of the river bank, Mayor Jennings referred the matter to Engineer Grafton. about 1,000 feet of the riprap has been washed away by the June flood and a large amount of land has become submerged. If not attended to the constant wash of the water would do almost irreparable damage to the grade of the Fort Dodge & Omaha road.

verities of God's word, are they who take agency. up quickly with every new charlatan that sets up his tent in their neighborhood. "Instability of thought and character is the basis of much infidelity. The unanchored boat drifts, the unsettled mind floats about on every drifting tide of thought or feeling.

One of the characteristics of our youth is instability. Youth has a thousand charms, but one of its jewel virtues is not stability of thought. Hence young men are peculiarly open to the temptations to drift away from religious moorings. Their very youthful enthusiasm tugs hard at any anchor which would hold them securely. I do not mean that all youth lose their faith in the fundamentals of Christian faith, but that questions come which lead the sincere young man to dig deeply about the foundations of fundamentals. If spared from drifting he becomes more securely anchored in the eternal virtues of God. "I wish to name some of the causes for drifting into skepticism and then to abject infidelity. One of them is superficial investigation, which is a fruitful cause of skepticism. It is the little learning that makes one mad. When one hears for the first time of a question concerning the truth of a long accepted doctrine the tendency of immature judgment is to decide that that doctrine must be false. The youth who for the first time reads some infidel book and who never takes time to read an answer to that very book, goes about declaring his doubts, when the truth is he has never read even one small book on Christian evidences. He may have read Paine's 'Age of Reason.' but he has never read 'Watson's Apology,' which is a complete answer to all Paine's sophistries, and which has been regarded by all fair minds as a thorough refutation of all infidel theories of the Paine type. Many a callow youth has heard some one infidel lecture and, dazzled by the rhetoric, was blinded so as not to see the utter folly of the logic, if logic there be at all. Many a youth's doubts have no deeper foundation than a sarcasm or sacrilegious witticism. There is many a youth who, for the lack of sufficient study, or unfortunate association concludes from from this superficial investigation and observation that the bible is untrue.

"Another cause of youthful skepticism is youthful self-confidence. That very element which makes the victory in every battle almost sure. This begets enthusiasm and to the enthusiast almost anything is possible. Thus youth is victorious, not so much from its skill as from its abounding enthusiasm, begotten of an equal self-confidence. But this self-confidence, which is the fruitage of egotism, leads to some fatal errors. Youth- a hypodermic syringe, while on the dead ful pride, which necessarily must be accompanied with experience, is sure to lead to many a fatal mistake.
