The Apollinaris natural mineral water is known throughout the world; its name is a household word. The spring from which it is drawn and where it is bottled is near Ahrweiler, in Rhenish Prussia, a few miles west of the Rhine. It takes its name from the Apollinaris church situated on the hilf at Remagen, a picturesque structure, which attracts the eye of travelers on the Rhine. In 1851, on the location of the spring was a vineyard, but as it dld not thrive the owner consulted a celebrated geologist and chemist, who found that the soil was strongly impregnated with carbonic acid gas. This led to the discovery of the spring. which soon attained a fame that has steadily grown, and now its fillings amount to 23, 000,000 bottles annually. Chemists and scientists of many countries have lauded it for its great value as a dietetic and hygienic agent, so that it has become the foremost table water; but having besides its refreshing and healthful qualities a most agreeable taste, it has be ome the fashionable water.

"Bonfort's," the leading American win journal, says: "The popularity of Apolli-naris apparently has no fimits. It is to be had in practically all parts of the world; and here, as in England, at every social function 'The Queen of Table Waters' is brought into evidence. The menus of the Assembly balls, given at the Waldorf-Astoria; the Metropolitan club dances, at Sherry's, as well as the Vanderbilt and Astor balls, and the various large banquets of this winter and spring, established of this winter and spring, established the pre-eminence of Apollinaris. While the viands and wines vary, there is one uniform feature about the menus of these social unctions-the presence thereon of Apolli-

"The Bookman" is authority for the statement that the fanciful picture in the center of the Apollinaris label was drawn by the famented author of "Trilby," and while naturally no other drawing of Du Maurier has been reprinted so often it was drawn. has been reprinted so often, it was drawn by him not as a matter of business, but out of friendship for the then chief owner of the shares of the Apollinaris company of London, at whose office the original drawing is fondly cherished.

Baker-Henderson.

A very beautiful home wedding was celebrated last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs Henry Henderson, Twenty-fourth and Blondo streets, when their charming daughter, Miss Retta, was given in holy wedlock to Mr. George Baker of Browning, King & Co., the Rev. Adams of Zion Baptist church officiating. The bride was very handsomely gowned in pink taffeta silk, mounted with epaulettes of white tuile and lace, white gloves, bouquet of Marechal Niel roses and wreath of grange blossoms. The house was very tastefully arranged with palms and cut flowers. Dainty refreshments were served, interspersed with enchanting music.

Judge Baker Listens to the Excuses of Bunch of Prisoners.

HIGH SCHOOL INJUNCTION IS ADVANCED

On Motion of the Attorney for the Board of Education it is Set for First Day of the September Term.

Judge Baker's morning reception was almost exclusively a colored function as, out of nearly a score of prisoners who were arraigned for recent offenses, only one was white. Most of the defendants were colored boys of from 14 to 18 years of age, charged with small thefts and robberies. They all denied their guilt with the exception of William Spencer, who admitted that he had stolen a bicycle worth $25 from Howard Stillson.

Spencer said that he came to Omaha from Kansas City the day before he committed the crime. He insisted that he had tried unsuccessfully to get work and, as he had no money, he had taken the wheel with the intention of selling it for enough to keep him until he could find something to do. He was 16 years old today and he earnestly assured the court that when he got out of this outright purchase, and the situation is quite attacked by the malady and fell into the told the boy he would give him a chance to carry out his good intentions and so let him off with thirty days.

The other prisoners all plead innocence and were remanded for trial. George Wells was charged with breaking into a shop owned by Pat Cunningham and stealing $10. Sam Brown was another alleged bicycle thief. Roy Gibbons denied having stolen gold watch from A. C. Ayres. Isaac Spenassaulted Joseph Astleford and robbed him of 90 cents and Mike Garrish and John Smith were charged with a similar crime, of which John Lynch was the victim. George lannon pleaded not guilty to the more serious offense of burglary and Wiley Williams denied that he had stabbed Robert Alexander with murderous intent.

ADVANCES HIGH SCHOOL CASE. Board of Education Succeeds in Ob-

While two men were engaged in tearing fown an old house at $20 South Tenth stree late Tuesday afternoon one side of the house oppled over on them, injuring both quite everely. Matt Knoden escaped with his side, back and shoulder badly bruised, while

J. F. Forbes had his left leg broken. The work of dismantling the building had been in progress several hours, both men watching it closely to avoid being caught whenever any portion would fall, Suddenly, without sufficient warning to give time to get away, one of the side walls tumbled over Knoden and Forbes were buried under the debris. Some persons who saw the accident removed the fallen timbers which pinioned them and they were transferred to the shade of a neighboring building. Knoden was taken to the police station later, where his injuries were dress by Assistant City Physician Ralph. As his home is five miles north of the city it was thought better to send him o the Clarkson hospital then to convey him to his residence. Forbes was taken to his home, 2116 Spencer street, where his injuries were dressed.

Announcements.

Lovers of high-class vaudeville entertainment are taking advantage of the fact that this is to be the last week of this form of amusement in Omaha, for some time at least, and every evening sees the Trocadero theater filled with vaudeville devotees. There have been any number of theater parties at this popular resort so far during the week. Last evening there were two large made up of clerks from two of the largest banks in the city, and all seemed to go away well pleased with this week's bill, which is evenly balanced and entertaining throughout. Next week the theater will be losed in order that afterations may be made n the stage preparatory to the coming of the Comic Opera Stock company on August 5. During the week the theater is closed the garden will be open Lorenz's orchestra will give free concerts.

is Yellowstone Park, in Northwestern Wyoming, a volcanic plateau, hemmed in by beautiful mountain spurs, ranging from 9,000 to 11,600 feet in height. Its average elevation above sea level is between 7,000 and 8,000 feet. That's where it's cool and comfortable.

Omaha is today represented on this broad common by several parties who are having a good time. One can go through the Park on a bleycle or by the stage-coach. Either trip will be found en-
