The diary was written on old ecraps of At about 9 o'clock we were started on the > hardly walk, but the natives struck them with their guns to make them move faster, shouting "Siger!" all the time. That word I shall never forget, for it rang continually in our ears, "Siger! siger! siger" like a man driving cattle. We were in a better condition than the Spaniards, so they put us ahead, but every once in a while we had to stop and wait for the "Cagandurse." Eleven months' imprisonment, hunger and harsh treatment had left them in a poor condition to march in a dusty road, under a broiling hot sun. A three hours' march brought us to San Rafael, right in the foothills. They fed us here on dry rice, without salt or anything else. At this place Brown and I had our coats stolen, but a Spaniard found my coat hidden away in a carramenta and recovered it for me, but everything was stolen from the pockets. Brown never heard from his again. At 2 we resumed the march and the woman had to ramp the same as men. We took to a road to the northward now, parallel with the mountains and soon came into a rather rough country, with not a house in sight. At about 8 that evening we arrived at a small village called Boolack. Here all the Spaniards and myself were crowded into cellar about 20x20 feet. In the morning we tried to pursuade them to give us something to eat, but even the officers told us that wind and patience was all we could in Omaha for the purpose of visiting the exget. At about 11 we resumed the march for San Miguel. On the way it was found necessary to procure some more caribous and two soldiers went into "somebody's" field and took them without saying a word to the owners. The whole family came out crying for the caribous, but it was of no ise. The oxen were impressed into service. At about 3 in the afternoon we reached San Miguel, quite a large town. We were halted in the plaza, while the people thronged around to see us, nearly smothering us. Insults of all sorts were heaped upon us, the more so as being desperate with hunger we returned some of them. One kind-hearted native at length gave us a turnip apiece. and lay down on the floor, trying to rest, but hunger kept us awake. At length another kind-hearted Filipine some cold rice in a basket, but there was only enough to irritate our hunger. At 4 we were taken across the plaza to a prison where our friends, the Spanlards, were confined. We were kept outside the door so that the populace could see us. We saw a cart pass with a figure representation of the last supper on it. I thought how well we could live on the price of the rich silk robes which these idels were. We must have been a hard looking set, dusty, dirty, ragged and sunburned as we sat there. wondering how much longer we would be Schneider, chairman of the republican central committee, were in town asked me if I wanted a drink of water. He led me into the prison into a cell where two Spaniards sat at table. As I came in one jumped up and gave me a paper, and I could feel that there was money in it. I tried to thank him, but the guard put in an appearance and I was obliged to leave the room. On opening the paper we found nearly $2 in silver; enough to keep us in food for a week. some reason, therefore I followed him. He silver; enough to keep us in food for a week We dared not thank them openly before the guards, but I have no doubt that they could read the gratitude in our eyes. That even ing the Spaniards brought us rice, fish, cigars, two chickens, biscuits and a whole bottle of brandy. One of these Spaniards was a merchant for seven years in San Miguel. He told us that there was a meeting of the native parliament the day before and that all but one were in favor of surrendering to the Americans. Next morning at about 11 o'clock we took to the road again after eating a good breakfast. Many of the Spaniards were obliged to ride in the ox carts, as they could no longer put one foot before the other. We marched all day at a good gait and in the evening found ourselves in San Isi-

dro. The populace turned out to meet us and proved themselves to be exceedingly hostile. One would dig us in the ribs and jump back nto the crowd to hide. At least fifty boxes of matches were consumed in lighting up our faces so that they could get a good look at us. The cutthroat sign was made to us by everyone of them and popular indignation ran high. We stood for about two hours before we were moved to a large brick building-a prison. They put us in a cell that was very comfortable. They gave us a pot of rice for supper, then scarcely barred the door. The next day the Spanlards were prohibited from speaking to us, but in spite of that we managed to find out that an armistice of two days had been declared. In the evening a procession passed us. Four or five carts, gaily decorated with representations of the saints, priests, choir boys, etc. The priests and choir boys were dressed in black and red. A band followed, playing a death march. It seemed to us like the future of the dead republic. The five days passed slowly and heavily, although we had plenty to eat (all donated by the Spaniards, except two measures of rice a day per man, furnished by the government, which alone would just about have kept body and soul together). We sang songs together to show that we were in good spirits. The next day of the armistice about 300 Spaniards marched into

> "I feel as if I should fly to pieces." How often those words are on a woman's lips. They express to the uttermost the nerve racked condition of the body, which makes life a daily martrydom.

If this condition had come suddenly it would have been unbearable. But the transition was gradual. A little more strain each day on 7the nerves. A little more drain each day of the vitality. Any woman would be glad to be rid of such a condition. Every woman tries to be rid of it. Thousands of such women have been cured by Dr. Pierce's treatment with his "Favorite Prescription" when local doctors had entirely failed to cure, Sick women suffering from unpleasant drains, irregularities, bearing down pains, inflammation and ulceration are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., by letter free of charge. Every letter is guarded as a sacred confidence. All letters are promptly answered and mailed in private envelopes without printing of any kind upon them.

" Favorite Prescription " is in the fullest sense a temperance medicine, containing neither alcohol nor opium or other narcotic in any form. Accept no substitute.

Mrs. Rena Hensel, of Massillon, Stark Co., Ohio, writes: "I had been troubled with chronic constipation and female weakness and doctored with different physiciaus, none of whom seemed to help me. I saw one of your advertisements, and I thought I would try your medicines. I did so and with good results. Took one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and two of his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I can say I am curred of my troubles, thanks to Dr. Pierce and his medicines. They do a world of good to those who give them a good trial."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a perfect cure for constipation.
