bury Point Out that the Demonstration is Vindication of Alger Against Slanderous Attack.

DETROIT, Aug. 2.-Whatever may have been the personal feelings of the late secretary of war, General Russell A. Alger, concerning recent incidents of his official career, all sentiments save those of genuine happiness were very evidently banished this afternoon and evening by the magnificen welcome tendered him by the people of his own city and state. From 4 o'clock, when the welcoming committee crowded into his private car upon its arrival at Toledo, until o'clock, when the general ceased grasping outstretched hands, the scene was a constant spontaneous ovation.

Smiles and tears repeatedly struggled for the mastery over the secretary's bronzed countenance as he gazed into the eager faces of the multitudes who loudly and convincingly insisted that "Alger's all right," and no dissonant voice was heard. Darkness fell during the speeches from the reviewing stand in front of the city hall, giving opportunity for throwing a searchlight upon the features of General Alger, drawn in crayon on a canvas sixteen feet square, hung from the city hall front and surrounded by patriotic decorations. A great crush at the indoor reception was the final feature.

The special train which met General Alger and party at Toledo consisted of six coaches It carried 500 members of the reception committee. When the Pennsylvania train ar rived the general's car was besieged by General Alger was escorted through the reception train and greeted by all Headed by about 300 bicyclists, over 1,000 narchers escorted General Alger from the Michigan Central station by a circuitous ourse, leading past the general's home to the reviewing stand. Militia and veterans of the civil war, including Fairbanks post, Grand Army of the Republic, of which the general is a member, a company of Spanish war veterans and scores of marchers in secret society uniforms, filed past. Fair-banks post carried two great banners, stretching half across the street, which declared, "There is only one Alger."

When Alger appeared upon the reviewing stand there was a round of applause from the dense crowd which blocked all traffic across the Campus Martius. The ex-secretary reviewed the parade and returned the salutations of many marchers, especially those of veteran Grand Army of the Republic comrades.

Mayor Welcomes Alger.

Mayor Maybury, after calling to order said: "General Alger, I should despair, sir, of being able to voice the heartiness of this welcome, were it not already shown in this vast concourse, through which you have passed. It will go forth to the world that where you are best known, there you are best beloved and best appreciated. It will go forth to the world, a due notice that the standard of high character, built up by patience and perseverance, honesty and uprightness, cannot be thrown down by

I welcome you home, sir, to a people who love justice and fair play. This welcome is by your neighbors. They come from all parts of this glorious state, only for the purpose of saying, "God bless you" and "Welcome home." You have come home to walk these streets as before. You will com-mand and carry with you the same confi-dence, affection and esteem that have been with you all your life. Men will say that upright character so well established there is no power on earth that can detract from the fame of good neighbor and citizen and honest manhood.

Governor Pingree in his speech, made on behalf of the state, made some pointed references to incidents leading to Alger's homecoming and fired some characteristic shots at the newspapers, which, he asserted, were largely responsible. The governor said that Alger's best service for his country was in ment. Said he:

Without your energy, business ability and experience no one knows how long it might have lasted. You were handicapped by machinery in your department which was an-cient and obsolete. In spite of it you contributed more than any one else to bringin the conflict to an end, with a loss of life so small as to astonish the world. The facts which led you to submit your resignation to the president are well known. The treatment which you have received has justly aroused the resentment of fair-minded Americans. The people of Michigan lool manner in which your withdrawal from the cabinet was forced as an insult to the state. They are ready today to rebuke the cupidity of the politicians, high and low. They are here to show their contempt for the attacks of a venal press. A mean-spirited and unscrupulous press has carried on a campaign of deliberate misrepresentation and lies concerning your business management of the War depart-ment. The people of Michigan know that these attacks are absolutely without justification. In spite of the obsolete customs and systems of your department you contributed more than any one to bring the war with Spain to a quick end. You did so although hindered by the interference of others to handle business or military affairs. I know that some people think it un-wise upon an occasion like this to give voice to such sentiments as I have been ex out of place. I also say that there is n better way of showing our appreciation of your worth as a citizen of Michigan than by exposing the methods of those who have been a part of the conspiracy to discredit you and insult the state and its people

General is Glad to Be Home.

General Alger, responding, said: I can command no language to express my gratitude to you for this royal welcome home. I am glad from the bottom of my heart to be released from official care and to again enter the old home and live among the people of Michigan. Since I went away, two and a half years ago, as you know, the country has passed through a terrific struggle. The office of which I was the head was taxed to the ut most of every man's strength who occupled any position in it. I gave my best thought and honest effort and did everything I could to carry out my part of that great work. What has been done is a matter of record and I am perfectly willing to rest the case with my countrymen. Every transaction, every order and everything that was done in conducting that war is a matter of record and the people have a right to have that record searched. And now, my fellow citizens, I come home without a grievance. During that struggle and while that great work was upon me can truthfully say that I had from the presi dent all the support that he could give. went through that struggle and came out victorious. We transported across the seas more than 150,000 men one way and the other without an accident. We fought bat-tles in the Philippines, in Cuba and in Porto Rico and we never lost a battle color, a prisoner or a gun. Wherever the American flag was planted by the American soldier there it stands and there it stand forever. But, as I said, I have no speech to make. I am glad to be among you these streets and meet you in social and business intercourse and I propose to stay here the balance of my life. Good night.

The closing scene was a reception in the city hall corridor. Mrs. Alger and a score of other women, with several of the general's relatives, viewed the scene from a canopied platform built into the main stairway and thousands pushed past and grasped General Wilson Howard being ambushed and killed. Alger's hand.

Town of Carabelle Suffers Heavy Damage and Train is Blown from the Track.

TALLAHASSEE, Fia., Aug. 2.-The town of Carabelle, a prosperous port on the Gulf of Mexico, southwest of this city, is reported almost completely destroyed by a terrific wind and rainstorm which passed through this section during yesterday and last night. Many boats which were in the harbor have been wrecked and most of the long wharf is gone, together with large quantities of naval stores.

At Lanark the beat houses, pavilion and boats have been destroyed. Unconfirmed reports say that the steamer Crescent City has been lost between Apalachicola and Carabelle. Several persons are reported frowned at St. Mark's. A few houses were destroyed at St. Teresa. The McIntyre, Ashmore, and Curtis mills suffered severely A passenger train on the Carabelle & Tallahassee, thirty-five miles below Tallahassee was badly wrecked, but no one is reported killed or injured. The turpentine interests in this section are greatly damaged and much injury has been done to crops.

The wires are down south of here and railroad service to the gulf ports is suspended. The storm was one of the hardest that ever passed over this section. It came directly up from the gulf and started northward. For hours the wind was terrific, blowing at a high rate, and the rain fell in torrents, washing away many bridges, endangering thoroughfares and railroads. The storm reached the coast yesterday morning and there was no cersation until far into last night. The wires and railroads have been so interfered with that the results of the storm are just beginning to reach this city. Along the coast the fishing industry has been severely crippled.

Many Tallahasseeans are at the various resorts along the coast from which no reports have come and the conditions at these places are causing much anxiety. Parties who returned on the wrecking train which went to Carabelle this morning report that the country along the route shows the effects of the storm. The train was compelled to run with great caution owing to the condition in which the storm had placed the roadbed. The water had been over the track in many places. Passengers on the train which was wrecked say the train was blown from the track.

The wrecking train which went out today into the stricken territory found over 200 trees on the track in a run of thirty miles. General Manager Crittenden, who had charge of the train, says that every town along the line is desolated. Hotels, houses, churches, saw mills, wharves and pavilions were in many places blown from their posttions and in many instances completely

There are many rumors affoat here tonight as to the loss of life. One mill hand is known to have been drowned at McIntyre. One man was drowned at St. Marks and rumor places the loss of life there at fifteen.

It is not believed that any lives were lost at the numerous summer resorts, but reliable news is unattainable. A large relief party will leave Tallahassee for the stricken section tomorrow.

The steamer Crescent City, which is reported lost, plies between Apalachicola and notwithstanding the constitution and Carabelle. It carries a crew of eight, but the number of passengers on board is not known. The captain is known as a very cautious man and it is believed he made the Chattahoochee river in a run for safety.

THE BATTLE OF

Governor of Kentucky Explains Position on ***** Clay County Feud. The Cream of the Midway

EXECUTIVE IS POWERLESS TO QUELL RIOTS

Legislature is Appealed to for Measures to Preserve Peace, But Assembly is Too Busy Promoting Interests of Democrats.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 2.—The following message on the Clay county situation has been issued by Governor Bradley to the press for the public and the legislature; A number of newspapers have been advising me as to my duties regarding the Clay county matter and denouncing or criticising me for failing to do what they advised. It is suggested by some that martial law be declared, by others that I at once arrest and have the violaters of the faw tried and summarily punished, etc.

The trouble in Clay county, while bad enough, has been magnified by newspaper correspondents. Burch Stores, Wills Howard, George Baker, Will White, John Baker, Frank Clark and Tom Baker, seven in number, have been killed in a period of some-thing more than a year. The slayers of all these men have been indicted those of John Baker, Frank Clark and Tom Baker, James Howard, who killed George Baker, obtained a change of venue to Laurel, where he was convicted and subsequently the verdict set aside. Tom Baker, on change of venue, was convicted of killing White; the court of appeals reversed the judgment and he was subsequently bailed on order of the judge of the Lincoln circuit court. The slayers of Burch Stores and Whis Howard were indicted and obtained a change of venue to Knox county, where the cases are now pending, except that against Tom Baker, who was killed shortly after the order on change of venue was made. So slayers of Burch Stores and Wills Howard order on change of venue was made. So that all these cases have been acted on except the three named, and every step taken that can be had by law.

I know nothing concerning the killing of any of these men except Tom Baker. That was a most cowardly murder. The circuit court was then in session and about 125 soldiers present. The suggestion that I declare martial law is ridiculous. The constitution of Kentucky does not allow any law suspended except by the general assembly or under its authority. The Courier-Journal very forcibly demonstrated the inability of the governor to take such a step. As to the suggestion that the governor ar-rest and convict these men, the wiseacres have probably forgotten that the powers of the governor are merely executive and that he cannot try or pass sentence upon criminals. This is purely the prerogative criminals. This of the judiciary. Demands Cannot Be Granted.

It has been suggested, however, that the governor should appoint a circuit judge and commonwealth's attorney who would look after these cases. Unfortunately for these critics, the governor has no such power. until the clerk holds an election and certi-fies to him that no one possessing the quali-fications of circuit judge was selected. And do not allow the governor to do these things he is denounced and condemned for not do-ing them. In this instance, the regular ing them. In this instance, the regula tudge is related to the Howards and canno preside in any case where they are involved The moment he declines, Daugh White, one of the parties to the feud and the circuit court clerk, will hold an election. It may safely be assumed that he will not take any step which would result in his injury. But it is suggested that the governor has failed to do anything until the sending of troops at the time Tom Baker was killed. It may be said in response the troops were then present and their presence availed nothing, either in preserving Baker's life or arresting his murderers. I might send or arresting his murderers. I might nend soldiers today to preserve the peace, but owing to the character of warfare there inlulged in, it would be next to impossible for do anything. members of the state guard in Kentucky to patrol that county. If sent there while the circuit court is not in session they could not be placed under the control of any local ivil authority, owing to existing conditions and past experience shows that when attending circuit court they were poweriess to save Tom Baker's life and were not used to defend and protect a grand jury in the investigation. Indeed, it may well be doubted whether a grand jury would have found an indictment if impaneled. The governor cannot inspire grand juries with the courage to indict, witnesses with the courage to testify, nor petit juries with the courage to convict. The presence of soldiers might prevent pitched battles or fights by armed bodies of men, but such conflicts are not common and if such were contemplated they would occur doubtless at some point distant from the soldiers. Had the soldiers been in Manthester at the time the Griffins and Philpots had their more recent conflict they would not have prevented it because the scene of the difficulty was about ten miles from Menchester. It is contended by some that the governor should interfere on account of this recent Philpot controversy. It has not been great while since four men were killed streets of Hot Springs, but I have of Arkansas should send soldiers to the city. Action of Law is Prompt. The survivors of the Philpot-Griffin fight have all been arrested, one side acquitted, he others awaiting the healing of a wound for a trial. In this instance the officers of the law promptly arrested the parties. Soldiers were not needed to make the arrests and I could not have it done. Philpot trouble is in nowise connected with never heard it suggested that the governor

the White-Baker feud. It is said I might order everybody dis-armed in Clay county. The constitution bears to the citizen the right to bear arms penly and such persons could not lawfully be disarmed, unless engaged in some ac manifesting a disposition to break the peace. It would require many days to visit these people and disarm them, and as soon as it became apparent that such was the purpose, weapons would be placed where he soldiers could not find them, but where their owners could readily obtain them for use. Now, it must be borne in mind that if the soldiers were sent to Clay, the governor would have to direct their movements. B. P. White is the sheriff and it is charged that the jailer and county judge are his friends and sympathizens.

It is plain that the fault is with local officers and the public sentiment that surrounds them. The governor has taken every step authorized by law and can do no more until statutes are enacted increasing his authority. He should be empowered instances to appoint a judge and the judge to appoint a commonwealth's attorney. The judge should be authorized to order the sheriff of any county in Kentucky to sumact as sheriff during the sessions of the grand jury and the trial, if such is held, in the county, and for this purpose vested with necessary authority to act. Instead of hampering the judge by making his right to change the venue depend on the com-monwealth's attorney he should be author-ized to act on his own motion.

In my first message to the general assembly attention was called to the mob spirit abroad in the state and the legislature asked for appropriate remedy, but that reca special message was sent to the same body on the same subject, which was ignored. At the called session the same and additional recommendations were submitted These were ignored in part, but what was known as the Martin bill, more particularly directed against turnpike raiders, was

FRED T. CUMMINS, Mgr. by which the republicans were legislated out and the democrats legislated in.

From the time I came into office to this moment I have steadily and faithfully labored to maintain the peace of the commor ferred by law and repeatedly asked for legis lation which would assist me. The news-papers which so foudly condemned me failed to condemn democratic governors during the Rowan and Perry county feuds and this condemnation is only another evidence that the calling of a legislative session i the midst of a political campaign, when the dominant party in the legislature has con demned the governor in advance, would avail nothing for admission on their parthat legislation is necessary would be a flacontradiction of their assumption that the governor is to blame.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

H. S. Brooks has been granted a permit o erect a $1,500 frame dwelling on Bristol street.

An incipient fire did about $5 worth o damage yesterday in the warehouse of the Standard Oil company at the southwest corner of Thirteenth and Locust streets The cause of the fire was spontaneous combustion.

The retirement of Lieutenant Henry M Morrow from the office of Judge Baxter pro-motes Charles E. Winter to his old posiion as clerk of the court. has been appointed to the civil desk and has begun his duties. Captain Wood of the quartermaster's department has left for lowa points, where he hopes to pick up some light cavalry horses or the Philippine service. He will return o Omaha by the end of the week and will hen purchase what horses he can here. Dick Hourn and E. Shaw have been disharged in police court. They were charged with having taken five Smyrna rugs belong-ing to F. J. Robinson. They claimed they simply took them out to sell, but Robinson ontended that they had taken them without his knowledge.

The shipments of ore from the mines of British Columbia to the Omaha smelter which usually form a material part of the business of the local customs house, have ceased altogether of late. Officials of the smelter are informed that the cessation of operations is due to focal causes, such as aprovements in the mines and changes in the working machinery.

The Sioux Indians at the exposition made a parade through the principal business streets yesterday and attracted a great deal of attention. There was about a hun dred of them, all mounted and elab-orately dressed and painted. The cavalcade made a very striking appearance in their feather head-dresses, jingling ornaments and charitable and penal institutions be lifted out of politics, as had been done in many of the states, to their great betterment, but instead of adopting that suggestion, the nost partisan measure ever heard of was passed.
