Jacksonian Club Picnic at Bryan and the Chicago Platform.

NEW ISSUES MUST TAKE SECOND PLACE

Bryan and Champ Clark Declare that the Platform Must Be Maintained Intact if the Party Is to Succeed.

The second annual picnic of the Jacksonian club of Omaha that was held at Syndicate park yesterday afternoon and evening was distinctly a boost for Bryan and the Chicago platform.

In point of attendance and enthusiasm the picnic was a success that went far to compensate for the disappointment of a year ago, when the initial out-of-door celebration of the organization was discouraged by pouring rain.

Parade of the Stalwarts. The program of the day began shortly before noon with the arrival of the Lancaster county democrats, who filled a special train of six coaches on the Elkhorn road.

By the time the party arrived at the park it was after noon, and the hundreds of lunch baskets that accompanied it monopolized the exclusive attention of the crowd.

After dinner the crowd was reinforced by hundreds of South Omaha people and many workmen who came with their families after their day's work was done.

Congressman Clark's Speech. Beyond all cavil we were right in 1896. The Chicago platform was a second Declaration of Independence.

Believe now and have always believed that Bryan was elected on the platform of the ballots, but if he was defeated it was by methods forbidden in morals.

But nevertheless and notwithstanding all the odds we fought, thank God there were 6,500,000 American freemen who could not be bribed or bullied into voting for the republican candidates and our peerless young leader received more votes than were ever before cast for a candidate for the presidency and stands forth the foremost statesman since the world began.

When the Chicago Platform. The people understand precisely what they want. They want the Chicago platform and they intend to have it, unchanged, undiluted, unimpaired.

tionally calls them—will cast into utter darkness, where they will be weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth. The overshadowing issue of 1896 was the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the rate of 16 to 1.

Must Stand by Silver. If we do not stand by silver, honestly and unflinchingly, we will lose it. It will, and it will draw to it a vast majority of democrats.

McKinley's Policy. Support the president's policy, eh? Will some gentleman please tell us what that policy is? Has he any? If so, why doesn't he say so?

will stand together this fall we will defeat the republican ticket and give President McKinley a scare that will induce him to call another commission to Europe to secure bimetallicism. No farmer or laboring man can afford to be a republican and I am now convinced that no one can afford to be a republican.

Discusses the Income Tax. Mr. Bryan then spoke briefly of the income tax. He declared that the taxes levied to support the government should be adjusted in proportion to the benefits that the people receive from the government.

Continuing the speaker briefly referred to the tariff, but soon dropped back into the silver discussion. He declared that the silver issue is not dead, but that it is before the public.

Mr. Bryan then paid his respects to the trusts, which, he contended, now constitute a bigger issue than they did in 1896. He declared that there have been more trusts organized during the present administration than there were during the entire previous history of the country.

There were appropriate decorations, the prettiest being in the dining rooms, where covers were laid for eighty guests. The feature of the occasion was the poet laureate, who attended the banquet and expressed regret to leave work which has been made pleasant by so many congenial friends and acquaintances.

The toasts were as follows: "Why Are We Here?" C. W. Williams; "Whither Are We Drifting?" J. W. Harris; "Heaven's Greatest Blessing—Protection." D. M. Vinson; "Our Best—Our Best—Our Best." Hon. D.
