All were conveyed to the Chateau d'Eau barracks. Only d'Horr was found in possession of firearms.

In the meantime the anarchist mob retraced its course to the Place de la Repub lique, smashing the windows of religious edifices on the way.

Hatchets were suddenly produced, with long knives stolen from the counters of shops, and a concerted rush was made upon the Church of St. Joseph. The aged sacristan, seeing the mob, hastily closed the outer gates, but these were soon forced with hatchets and bars of iron. The massive oaken doors were then attacked

According to the first account, the wild horde burst into the church, which instantly became a scene of pillage and sacrilege. A!tars and statues were hurled to the floor and smashed; pictures were rent, candlesticks, ornaments and hosts from high altars were thrown down and trampled under foot. The crucifix above was made the target for missiles, and the figure of the Savior was frac tured in several places.

Then, while rancorous voices sang the "Carmagnole," the chairs were carried outside, piled up and set on fire in the center of the square fronting the church.

When this stage was reached the crucifix was pulled down and thrown into the flames. Suddenly the cry was raised that the statue of the Virgin had been forgotten, and the crowd returned and tore this down also. An attempt was made to fire the choir of St. Josephs with petroleum and the firemen were called in to quench the flames. Several parishioners were severely mauled in their efforts to defend the church from

Many Anarchists Arrested

At length the officers began to attain the mastery. A score of anarchists took refuge in an adjacent house. Others entrenched themselves in the belfry and fiercely defended themselves by showering missiles on the Republican guards, but finally these were dislodged. Twenty anarchists were arrested, taken to the police station, searched carrying revolvers, loaded sticks and knives.

When the police entered the church the anarchists had just set fire to the pulpit. The interior of the edifice was a complete wreck. Several valuable old pictures that can never be replaced were ruined.

After the mob had been driven Abbe Lacour, the incumbent, collected the fragments of the sacraments and replaced them in the ciborium. As he did so he was heard bitterly lamenting.

The people living in the houses nearby extinguished the bonfire.

There is no change in the situation at the building in the Rue de Chabrol, where M. Jules Guerin and his anti-semite companions are entrenched in a state of siege against the police, who have orders for their arrest.

The Associated Press correspondent then called upon Maitre Labori, who lives within 200 yards of General Mercier, the houses of both being guarded by gendarmes and detectives, who sit in chairs in the roadway n front of the houses.

M. Labori was taking the air in the gar den. He has been suffering severely from cited. The wound itself has not made the progress the doctors hoped for, although there had been no relapse.

In view of his general condition, his medical advisers oppose his going to court tomorrow as he had desired. They predict that the exertion would so overtax his strength as to compel him to take to his bed, which he would probably not leave, in that event, for a month.

Tuesday or Wednesday, therefore, will more probably see his reappearance in court. He will be provided with a specially con structed chair that will enable him to conduct the cross-examination at the outset without rising from his seat.

M. Labori is intensely anxious to return o court, even if he has to be carried there in an ambulance. He is dissatisfied with M Demange's conduct of the case thus far and on his return he intends to have General Mercier and the other generals back upon the witness stand. Altgeld and Stone at Odds Over Fusion Question-Importance of Carrying State for Democracy.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20 .- (Special.) - On top of the trouble caused by W. J. Bryan's alleged announcement that he is willing to consider other issues than free sliver in the presidential campaign, comes a quarrel between ex-Governor John P. Altgeld of Illinois and ex-Governor William J. Stone of Missouri. the immediate personal representatives of Mr. Bryan in the west, over the question of the expediency of the fusion of the democrats, silver republicans and populiste.

Stone, vice chairman of the democratic national committee, is opposed to fusion. He believes the democratic party will get along better without help from the auxillary democrats. The radical silver men, represented by Mr. Altgeld, however, take square issue with Mr. Stone on this point and are bending their energies to bring about a consolidation of all the free silver parties wherever it is possible. They want to begin in Nebraska. The democratic committee of Bryan's state will meet tomorrow and the question of fueion will then be decided.

Mr. Altgeld is preparing a series of maps to show what fusion has done for the democratic party. The map of 1894 will show that because of the failure of democrats and populists to fuse the democrats lost territory west of the Mississippi river. That of 1896, when the parties fused, will show the western states carried by the democrats. Radical silver men admit they are deeply
