Life in the French Army.

Lionel Decle, now a naturalized Englishman, has published a book recounting his experiences when serving three years as a conscript in the French army. He paints a picture of life in the ranks scarcely less revolting that Urbain Gohier's, conveying the impression that the whole French army's system is rotten, root and branch. Some of his statements have been hotly contested by other French conscripts, who assert their experience and knowledge of relations between officers and men is far different from Decle's. He sums up the condition of the French army:

"France prides herself in being able to put in the field millions of trained men. What does this boast amount to? Upon the outbreak of war in these days rapid mobilization, much, perhaps all, depends upon the troops first in the field. And these troops upon whose behavior in the brunt of sudden battle the salvation of their country might depend would be, not a body of well-trained fighting men leavened with veterans relying on their leaders with glad confidence, but a crowd of half-taught lads lacking thews as well as training, led or driven to battle by officers whom either they have never seen until the day of conflict or whom they know Marchand is occupying his leisure writing the story of his journey across Africa. He kept throughout a well posted diary but does not intend to merely reproduce the entries made in it. He will develop them. He mays he intends to write a history of his experience, but if the authorities impose any crowd moving. Sloan is to have a pair of alterations upon him he will not publish the book. The work will be two volumes and he expects to finish it by autumn. Dr. Donaldson Smith, the well-known American traveler, accompanied by Carlile Fraser, started July 31 from the Berbera in East Africa on an expedition to the district west of Lake Rudolph for the purpose of collecting specimena of the fauna flora. Smith was five years ago the first European to cross Africa from the gulf of Aden to the Indian ocean. On that occasion the eastern shore of Lake Rudolph was explored. American Travel in Europe.

All tourist agents here agree that this has been a record year of American visitors to Europe. Charles Allen Gillig, director of the American rendezvous established by the Great Eastern Railway company, Cockspur street, says: "By December I reckon WØ shall have 70,000 American visitors. Probably they will on an average have spent $1,500 each on their European trip."

The great hotels of London are at presfth, a call of the populace to arms; sixth, servant or clerk, Chanteloube, in the house, The theory of a general suicide was long redited even by the police, as Guerin's farewell last night was: "Leave us die in peace."

This theory was disproved by the admission at midday of Chanteloube's mother. A most popular theory is the existence of a dead body in the house, as neighbors have stated that a body covered with the tri-color was visible lying on a bier. The Temps tonight denies this statement.

Ever since the hoisting of the black flag a strange silence has reigned in the house. What this portends is difficult to say, but the military police have been guletly doubled during the day and for the first time triple lines of soldiers barring the streets have bayonets permanently fixed.

That a serious poular disturbance is feared is evident, as the Senera white cross emblem is waving from five or six shops and an ambulance wagon is stationed at the entrance of the blocked street. The Protestant church. Chapelle du Nord, and other edifices close by are barricaded in view of an uttack. The general feeling of the politicians is that the thing is a shameful ministerial medy to distract public attention from the Rennes process.

BERLIN TONGUES ARE INCAUTIOUS.

Three Indiscreet Persons Held to Answer for Alleged Les Majeste. (Copyright, 1899, by Press Publishing Co.) BERLIN, Aug. 26 .- (New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram.)-Three monstrous cases of lese majeste are now proceeding. A Berlin man spoke disparagingly of the emperor's bust at Spandau. He was denounced and arrested, whereupon the socialist Vorwaerts wrote: "The biggest scoundrel through the land is always the informant." The prison editor of the Vorwaerts, kept specially for such prosecutions, bas been summoned for this sentence. Another case is against the editor of the South German Postillion for serious suspicion of lese majeste in publishing extracts from Goethe's works.

German Consumers Start an Effective Campaign Against the Trust, Showing Enormous Profits.

(Copyright, 1899, by Press Publishing Co.) BERLIN, Aug. 26 .- (New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram.)-German petroleum consumers have began a well organized campaign against the huge Standard Oil profits. The imperial minister for the interior, Count Posadowsky, received simultaneously numerous petitions. from big petroleum consumers in north and south Germany begging the government to defeat the policy of the Standard Oil by giving greater facilities to Russian refiners, and state raflways have a scheme under consideration for reducing freights on Russian oil to points which will reduce the combination 75 per cent.

The agitation was begun recently in a throughout the year to a fund, which has pamphlet by Prof. Zopfe of Munich, writthis year reached $800,000, the whole of ten in the interest of Russian refiners, the effect of which is not intensified by the Liverpool: Marquette, for London; Graf publication of the report of the German-American Petroleum company, a branch of the Standard Oil trust, showing net profits to be 62 2-3 per cent on a capital of $2,- Laverpool. 250,000. Poynter Still Hesitates.

Regarding the invitation to participate in the reception exercises Tuesday Governor Poynter has made no decision. He stated this afternoon that an acceptance of the invitation would simply be an official recognition of the plan to take all the soldiers to Omaha and he did not feel like doing this after he had signed a contract with the railroads for transporting them to their original company headquarters.

Several additional subscriptions to the transportation fund have been received since Thursday evening, making a total up from to date of $40,342.75. One subscription of $20 has been refunded by Governor Poynter because it was simply a duplicate of another one made by the man's brother. This amount added makes the total received $40,342.75. The additional subscriptions are
