BAD FOR HOME RULE

Little Hops that the Factions in Ireland Will Come Together.

MEETING OF MEMBERS IS TO BE CALLED

HEALY WRITES LETTER IN BITTER TERMS

Asks Redmond to Lay Parnellite Proposals Before Coming Meeting.

REQUEST NOT LIKELY TO BE GRANTED

Amnesty Association Will Be Wound Up, as the Last of the Political Prisoners Have Been Released.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Not much hope is entertained among those best acquainted with the situation in Ireland that any good will come of the new attempt to bring the home rule factions together. Healy has asked Redmond to lay the Parnellite proposals before the committee appointed by the Irish members in April last for the purpose of receiving such proposals. Redmond's suggestion was that a small conference, representative of all sections, should discuss the basis of reunion. Redmond has replied to Healy, agreeing to his suggestions, and a meeting of home rule members of all sections will shortly be called. Dillon has taken no part in the correspondence, but when Redmond's proposal was first made he declined to accept it as a settlement. The unity question is now taken in hand by the people themselves. It is unlikely, therefore, that Dillon will support the proposal at the forthcoming meeting of the party. It is more probable that he and his supporters will absent themselves from the meeting. Healy is now in letter to Redmond in couched in terms of bitter hostility to Dillon and gives no hope of an amicable feeling being established, though Healy is said to have been urged to write to Redmond by one of Dillon's followers. Owing to the delay in the last of the political prisoners has now been released, the Irish Amnesty association will be finally wound up.

Strange Story of Lost Gems

A strange story of pearls lost in St. James park and found and lost again in now agitating Scotland Yard. The woman who lost them has succeeded up to the present in keeping her identity a mystery, but although the pearls were only worth $400, she has advertised a reward of $5 for each one returned. It was from the lips of 7-year-old Johnny Saunders, who lives in a slum in the borough of St. James, that the story was first heard. Johnny, with two companions, was playing near the Horse Guards parade when he found a pretty little cardboard box. In the box was a necklace of lovely beads, and after Johnny and his companions had admired them they discovered five more beads wrapped in tissue paper. Johnny put the loose ones in his trousers pocket, but the pocket had a hole in it, and was empty when the trio returned home, but had the beads. After dinner there was a gathering of the class in Seville road. Johnny was the hero and distributed the pearls impartially among his playmates. The fashionable young woman who lost the pearls will probably never see one of them again.

The South Sea Bubble

The South Sea bubble, where the famous financial bubble was blown nearly two centuries ago, has been sold, and in a few months will be razed to the ground. The famous old pile of buildings and a splendid street has gone through many changes since it was the home of the South Sea company early in the last century, and is now let out in offices. The purchase price of the freehold is $1,750,000, equal to nearly $250 per square foot. It is likely that during the demolition some interesting historical discoveries will be made.

Dry Month in England

The month of August which just closed was the driest experienced in England generally during the last half century, and in London the driest for three quarters of a century. The total rainfall of London was only one-third of an inch. Records of previous years do not show any August with a less fall than nine-twentieth of an inch.

The Absorbing Interest of the Rennes Trial

The absorbing interest of the Rennes trial is put in the shade by the annual pilgrimage to Lourdes. The number of pilgrims in France in organized parties is 1,200. The Paris Figaro gives a list of eight alleged miraculous cures registered and officially established by Dr. Bouissiere, directeur du Bureau des Constatations and several professional colleagues, including foreigners. These are mostly surgical cases cured by immersion in the pool, which has been analyzed and found to contain no special therapeutical qualities. Several women of the French nobility aided sick pilgrims to take their baths and attended them in the hospital.

The Number of American Visitors in Europe

The number of American visitors in Europe this season has passed all records. London and continental hotels have reaped a rich harvest, a majority of the visitors beginning and ending their European trip in London. It is estimated that 100,000 Americans visited Europe this year. It was noted that what interested Americans most in London were the ancient and literary associations. The house where Dr. Johnson compiled his dictionary in the upper room in Gough square, the desolate ruins of Oliver Goldsmith in the temple and the Mithraeum of Lord Byron in Holles street.

South African Show Closed

The manager of the Earlecourt exhibition has succumbed to the popular outcry and ordered the Kaifir Kraal, in connection with Savage South Africa, to be closed to women. The directors of Savage South Africa absolutely deny any impropriety and are very annoyed, but complied with the order the first day. After the official notice was given hundreds of women, including fashionable West End persons, presented themselves with the intention of visiting the kraal, but were refused admission and openly gave expression to their keen disappointment and waited about the entrance to the kraal till the Zulu savages and Matabele emerged on their way to the theater for the nightly show. It was noticed that the savages wore long coats or were otherwise decently clad. Previously they wore very scanty raiment while passing through the exhibition grounds. The proprietors of the Earlecourt show are considering whether they will take legal action against the exhibition authorities, as they allege that no undue familiarity existed between the blacks and white women. Nothing occurred beyond the shaking of hands, and this was most frequently owing to the frankness of the white women themselves. Frank Phillis, managing director of the South

PREPARATIONS FOR HOSTILITIES

Oom Paul's People Are Less Apprehensive of Trouble Than Are the English and Prepare for the Worst.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(New York World Cablegram—Special Telegram.)—Most people here cling to the idea that there will be no war with the Transvaal, despite the active preparations which continue to be made by the war office for hostilities. On Friday a fresh batch of special service officers left for Capetown and a strong regiment has been ordered to hold itself in readiness to start on three days' notice. If hostilities break out the British troops will be commanded by Sir Redvers Buller. The negotiations which have been in progress between Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and President Kruger have reduced the possible points of difference to three. England will not surrender its right to future intervention. It asks that the reform bill, which Kruger has promised, shall not be introduced till the British agent at Pretoria has made his suggestions, and refuses to allow similar proposals to be made by the Transvaal. This latter is regarded as being the dangerous point. The latest proposal, that of Secretary Chamberlain, for a new conference at Capetown, has caused dissatisfaction to the Transvaal. They think it will involve further delay. The latest news from South Africa goes to show that the people there are more apprehensive of war than those here in London. The stock exchange people do not apprehend war and in the Kaifir market prices do not fall to any remarkable degree. Underwriters at Lloyd's are demanding a premium of 50 per cent against a declaration of war within six months and the people in the Transvaal are insuring their property against war risks, chiefly warehouses and premises likely to be burned.

Boers Show Disposition to Meet Imperial Government Half Way in Arranging a Settlement.

PRETORIA, Sept. 2.—The reply of the Transvaal government to the imperial government's last dispatch has been received by Mr. Conyngham-Greene, the British agent here. It is understood that the government is willing to meet the other side in a conference at Capetown, as suggested, and to explain the working of the new franchise law. The Transvaal government is also willing to receive the friendly suggestion of the imperial government. A more hopeful feeling prevails here. LONDON, Sept. 2.—Right Hon. Herbert Asquith, former home secretary in Lord Rosebery's cabinet, addressed the Liberal association at Leven this afternoon. He said he was convinced that there is nothing in the Transvaal situation, delicate and dangerous as it is, which cannot and ought not to be safely solved by firm, prudent diplomacy. "I do not believe," he said, "anything has occurred or is threatened to bring us even within measurable distance of a catastrophe which would be a retrograde step in our march, a calamity to civilization and an almost incalculable disaster to South Africa."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The War department is making every effort to secure the removal of the two batteries of artillery stationed at Key West, but so far has been unsuccessful. The batteries are being held at Tampa on board train to Atlanta and placed at Fort McPherson. Otherwise the War department will be obliged to send a government transport to Key West and bring the men north. Assistant Surgeon R. K. McLaughlin, medical director of the State Board of Health, is among the yellow fever cases at Key West, thought to be a mild case.

EASY VICTORY FOR JIMINEZ

Capital of Santo Domingo Declares for Aspirant, Who is on His Way to the Island.

PUERTO PLATA, Santo Domingo, Sept. 2.—Santo Domingo City, the capital, has declared for Jimenez. Telegraphic, postal and railroad communication has been restored. The latest news from the island goes to show that the people there are more apprehensive of war than those here in London. The stock exchange people do not apprehend war and in the Kaifir market prices do not fall to any remarkable degree. Underwriters at Lloyd's are demanding a premium of 50 per cent against a declaration of war within six months and the people in the Transvaal are insuring their property against war risks, chiefly warehouses and premises likely to be burned.

Another sign of the times is the announcement by one of the largest firms of brewers in the United Kingdom that they are going to make lager beer, which has caused irritation among the Scotch brewers. The Scotch brewers of the ancient national drink—ale. Drawing attention to the increased use of the Standard says: "The recent hot weather inclined the Englishmen to sympathize with the irascibility usually displayed by American visitors at the difficulty in securing it."
