good. The money would have to be paid into court and the heirs could then fight over that.

The property in question is 150x192 feet and it is said that the heirs would be willing to let it go for $12,000. In connection with this it has been suggested by some that the city build a public library in conjunction with the High school on this site. The law permits a city with a population of over 25,000 to levy a tax for the purpose of erecting a public library. The last cen-sus did not give this city 25,000 population, but it is contended that the new census will show over 25,000 inhabitants.

As to the board applying for a writ of certiorari in the district court to test the correctness of the decision, Mr. Flickinger says that is all nonsense. The district court, he claims, has no jurisdiction in such cases, as the courts have always held that the department of public instruction is the proper tribunal to try such matters and has irequently refused to entertain similar ques tions. Mr. Flickinger stated further that he was not in favor of any particular site and that so far in the litigation he has paid high estimation in which our country holds its soldiers. It is chieffy for the comfort of the parents who sacrificed their son on the altar of their country that this body, after its long journey, is here to be committed to its last resting place. A body is not much without the soul which animates it; yet the body of this good soldier is worthy of all that has been done to honor it. No spot is more tenderly cared for than the graves of our loved ones and the place where Lieutenant John Moore is buried in Council Bluffs will be dear, not only to his parents, but to the people of the whow city. Today we honor his memory. Memory plays a large part in this service, A thousand mervories of home scenes are this day through the memories of A thousand mervories of home scenes are this duy througing through the memories of those parents. We know so liktle; we sur-mise so much. But when we received the meager reports from Manila our sym-pathles went out to the young soldler whose labors imposed a strain too great for his strength. He gave his best devotion to his country. May the discomforts and priva-tions which he underwent enable us to ap-preciate better the sacrifices our soldiers are making, and may the thought of their sufferings inspire us to higher fiving. May the God of Mercy soothe the sufferings of this bereaved family.
