ANTONY POWELL GETS A JUDGMENT. Convicts a Jury that Peter Procopio Stole the Proceeds of His Fruit Trade.

Antony Powell has been awarded a judgment of $145 against Peter Procopio in Justice Foster's court, the case having been tried before a jury Monday afternoon.

Procopio, the man who was arrested at the instance of Powell some weeks ago and charged with stealing the sum named from Powell's room. The police found $550 on Procopio's person when he was arrested, but he was discharged after a hearing in police court.

Procopio for Powell succeeded in attaching $105 of the money before it was returned to Procopio by the police and the outcome was that Powell recovered a judgment for a part of it.

The case presented the unusual circumstance of a man being found guilty of a crime in a civil action after having been acquitted of the identical offense in a criminal proceeding.

The evidence went to show that Procopio was a stranger in the city and made the acquaintance of Powell, who runs a prosperous fruit store. Whether Procopio had money when he came was a disputed point.

The plaintiff testified that Procopio had slept with him several times and knew where he kept his money and that he was the only man figured in the case and seemed to be a sort of connecting link between Procopio and his alleged victim.

During the nights when the parades will be on the streets the arc current at the exposition grounds will be shut off and transferred to the downtown circuits.
