AK-SAR-BEN COLORS AND WELCOME OMAHA

Repetition of the Flower Parade for the Visitors with Omaha Organisations in the Line-Fair's Memorable Closing.

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 23 .- (Special Telegram.)-As this was the last day of the Hastings street fair and carnival it was the biggest day of the week. Thousands of people came in from surrounding towns besides the big excursions from Omaha, Grand Island, St. Joseph, Red Cloud and Superior.

This was Omaha and Editors' day and they certainly owned the town. Nearly 2,000 people arrived in Hastings at noon today from Omaha. They were met at the depot by Marshals of the Day Alexander and Burton, the Fourth Regimental band of St. Joseph, the Genoa Indian band, Mayor Fisher and many representative business men.

March of Omaha's Delegation. The Omaha delegation was escorted in the following order:

Buglers. Marshals Alexander and Burton. Mayor Jacob Fisher. Fourth Missouri Regimental Band. Omaha Commercial Club. Seventh Ward Band, Omaha. Omaha Delegation. Omaha High School Band. Delegates from Omaha, Including the Mem-bers of the Elks' Lodge. Genoa Indian Band. Buglers.

Nearly every one of the visitors carried a tin horn and at every block gave their yell, which seemed to jar the windows of the buildings. There were nearly 2,000 Omaha people in line and the noise they made was equivalent to a million of ordinary people. After they had marched through the principal streets the procession disbanded and all started out to have a good time. The streets were crowded to such an extent that It was almost impossible to walk a block in fifteen minutes. The city was in the hands of its visitors and they held the rightof-way.

The Omaha Commercial club was in the forefront and kept things moving.

During the day special trains arrived from Red Cloud, St. Joseph, Omaha, Grand offered for his arrest. Island and other points and the crowd grew so dense that it seemed almost impossible to move. In the afternoon there was plenty of amusement for all. The floral parade was repeated and it was the same beautiful pageant as was first displayed last Monday except that there was one or two turnname as J. S. Willy. outs alcent. Long before the time for the beginning of the parade an immonse throng lined the streets. The Ak-Sar Ben colors streamed in profusion across the main street and in the east arch was the words, "Welcome Omaha." The Omaha delegation had the keys of the city and had everything their own way. Promptly at 3 o'clock the parade started from its formation point at the Presbyterian held in the county. A special resolution was passed endorsing Judge M. B. Reese and church, where a great concourse had gathered to witness the starting out. Everypledging him the united support of Buffalo thing went off smoothly under the direction of William R. Burton, who was marshal of state convention at Omaha September 21 the day. The procession was led by the were reported by the resolutions committee marshal and General A. V. Cole in full reand adopted galia, riding a spirited black charger gaily decorated with brilliant colors. The Omaha High school cadets came next and directly following came the queen, Mrs. William reasurer, Sidney E. Smith, Pleasanton; Lowman, in a charlot completely covered udge, E. Frank Brown, Kearney; superinwith pure white chrysanthemums and drawn tendent of schools, Samuel Nixon, Gibbon; by four spotless white horses. The maids sheriff, S. B. Funk, Kearney; coroner, J. W. of honor, Misses Effic McIntyre, Flora Frank, Elm Creek; surveyor, E. N. Porter-Fisher, Eleanor Kirby, Georgia Fowler, field, Kearney. Edna Cramer, Rachel Alexander, Jessie Pease and Eugenia Hudson, followed in handsomely decorated carriages. Behind them came hundreds of beautiful flowerbedecked carriages and bleycles, bands of music, etc. When the procession arrived at the entrance of Second street the Seventh Ward band of Omaha struck up a patriotic air and the vast crowd caught the spirit of galety and fairly went wild with enthusinam. Commercial Men Take a Hand. When the last of the floral procession reached Hastings avenue a company of grotesque attired traveling men formed an annex to the parade, much to the delight of the spectators. First came a cake walk by the "knights of the grip" and then the very laughable and ingeniously contrived horseless carriage and flour parade. The procession moved through all the principal streets and finally disbanded on St. Joseph avenue amid loud cheers and tooting thorns. In the line of march there were many handsome and artistic floats representing the various business houses of Hastings. About 300 women of Omaha were taken in charge by the women of Hastings immediately after their arrival and escorted to Elks hall, where light refreshments and punch were served. They were royally entertained all the afternoon, while the men took in the sights and scenes along the main streets and Midway. Thousands of people paraded the streets tonight tooting horns, throwing rice, flowers, corn, oatmeal, cornmeal and confetti. Hundreds wore masks, while those from Omaha malady. and visiting towns marched about the streets in large crowds headed by bands of music and drum majors. Fireworks were sent up from various parts of the city and everything had a carnival appearance. The Ak-Sar-Ben parade was one of the features of the evening.

Feed Yard Results in an Important Capture.

NELIGH, Neb., Sept. 23 .- (Special Telegram.)-Within the last week thirty-five fat oattle have been stolen from Huffman & Rollin's east feed yards. The loss was discovered Wedneeday night. At first no clue could be obtained, but finally suspicion pointed to a man who had been working at lifferent times during the summer at the Deloit and upper and lower Neligh ranches of Huffman & Rollins and he was arrested. It was apparent from the circumstances that some one thoroughly acquainted with the premises must have been connected with the stealing and the man told conflicting stories regarding his whereabouts the last few days. Finally Sheriff Brainard showed Mr. Huffman a protograph of a man wanted for cattle stealing in Lincoln county and it was recognized as the employe, and the arrest was made as soon as the man could be

Final Moments of the Fair.

As this is the last night and the close of the fair and festival every band in town is out playing "Hot Time," while thousands of visitors follow, yelling at the top of their voices and occasionally stopping for the purpose of going through some ludicrous maneuver

There has been a blaze of fireworks all night amid a din of tin horns, hoarse voices and penny whistles, while loaded canes kept the vast throng on the alert until midnight.

The street fair and carnival is pronounced a success in every respect by the business men of Hastings, and there is little doubt but it will be made an annual affair. The fact that interest has not lagged for a single second and the crowds have been kept in a constant good humor has had much to do with the success of the Hastings street fair and prices when spring opens.

No Advance for Steel Workers Now

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 23.-At a confer-ence of officials of the National Sheet Manassociation of Iron and Steel Workers it

nancial Review says today: Money continues firm, though toward the close of the week there was a relaxation of the pressure which the slock market has expected during the last fortnight from this cause. The decline of exchange rates and the news that about $500,00 of gold had been engaged in London for ship-ment to New York caused a somewhat bet-ter feeling as to the financial outlook and the market rallied more or less from its carlier depression. The threatening aspect of the Transvaal situation was among the bearish factors of the week and It is thought that while the danger of war in South Africa overhangs the London mar-ket there is little likelihood of any heavy gold imports from the other side. The movement of money from New York to the interior continues and the pank state-ment of last Saturday practically wiped out the surplus reserve. Yet the money in Thursday's transactions. The public was by no means active except in re-ducing its marginal holdings of stocks and the market has been largely in the hands of professional operators. Europe's part in the speculation here was negative and while London is in sus-pense about the South African situation no interest in American securities is pospense about the South African situation no interest in American securities is pos-sible. The favorable character of railroad earnings, activity of trade and the other advance of prosperity continue to cause a strong underlying builtsh sentiment as to the future of the market. In fact the street itself is inclined to the belief that should the condition of the money market improve a renewal of the rising pre-valuation would be very probable. Nor has the market been without positive dullish developments and weak. The rapid advance of Delaware, Lackawanna & Western stock to 191 and the strength of the other anthracite coal properties seem to reflect a general belief that the con-dition of the coal trade has undergone a material improvement, while in the case of Lackawanna there are rumors of some pending developments regarding its capital and dividends which would justify the advance. Nor are the railroad deals lack-ing, the most important happening of that kind being the reported sale of large in-terests in the Southern Pacific to bankers identified with the property. o interest in American securities is pos-
