ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION OF PROCESSION

Lights Burn along the Route and Marchers Are Cheered to the Echo.

Samson's Men, Followed by Civic and Military Organizations, Pass Over Many Miles of the Illuminated Streets of the City.

When the board of governors of the Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben put the civic, military and fraternal parade upon the street last night it was only to discover that they were working against the strongest kind of opposition. It was not opposition that was intended to prevent the column from marching over the brilliantly illuminated streets of the city, but opposition that tended to keep the crowds at home.

Yesterday a likely, active and strong rephyr swept in from the grain-covered fields of the Dakotas, gaining strength as it passed across the broad acres of Nebraska. All day long the members of the board looked out upon the streets, gazing at the great clouds of dust that were whirled along and hoped that when the sun went down the breezes would cease to blow and give them an opportunity of putting on one of the best parades of the festival week. However, their hopes of a pleasant evening were soon banished, for instead of the elements settling into repose, the wind continued to rise and by 8 o'clock, the hour for starting the procession, it was blowing a gale. It was toa late to call the affair off and nothing remained to do but to make the best of existing conditions. This was done and, notwithstanding the fact that the crowds were somewhat thin in places along the street, those who braved the storm of dust, sand and flying debris felt well satisfied with the entertainment furnished. Plenty of Noise.

All along the line of march there were noises that were loud enough to waken the dead. Thousand of young people were out, armed with horns, cow bells and kazoos, which they blew and rang until they were red in the face, yet the noise that they made was nothing as compared with that of the wind as it rattled the branches of the trees, window panes, loose dry goods boxes and caused creaking signs to swing to and fro.

While the wind put in some of its time picking up great clouds of dust and hurling them into the eyes and ears of the sightsee's it played all kinds of pranks with hats, dresses and the wearers of the articles. In many instances it took the hats from the nen, carried them high f men and wo in the air and presumably dropped them somewhere in the Missouri. It disarranged wearing apparel and otherwise made life

The parade was enlivened with music and all along the line of march numerous bands furnished music inspiring enough to cause the marchers to forget their other troubles, while red lights burned upon many a corner. There was no lack of enthusiasm and in addition to the ear-drum splitting instruments in the hands and mouths of men and women, boys and girls, there were cheers that might have been heard over in Council Bluffs if the people there had been at home instead of on the streets of Omaha. Soldier Boys the Favorites. All along the line of march and from start to finish the forty-eight members of Company L, First Nebraska regiment, who fought Aguinaldo in the swamps, canebrakes, rice fields and hills of the Philippines, were the favorites. From every curbstone, from every street corner, from every reviewing stand and from every window they were greeted with hearty cheers that were loud and long. With these boys modesty is one of their cardinal virtues and instead of being taken off their feet by the continuous ovation, they simply marched along in the line, occasionally tipping their hats when the cheering became boisterous. After the parade had passed over the streets outlined in the program, most of the of the Dewey day committee in New York organizations countermarched on North Sixteenth street to Cuming, up that street to Twentieth, and thence to the grounds of the parade." Greater America Exposition, where they put in several hours, marching around the Grand commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of court, along the Midway and visiting the concessions, many of which threw open their Kansas City on his way to Topeka, where doors and welcomed the uniformed bodies.

Taking everything in consideration, the parade was considered one of the best, if not the best, of its kind ever seen upon the continued Commander Shaw, "but it was an streets of the city. It is hard to say how many men were in line, but conservative estimates placed the numbers up in the 300,000 union veterans of the civil war now thousands. The men marched in close order living." and even then the line was nearly two miles

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 27 .- General Frederick Funston, now enroute home from Manila, in a letter received by a friend here today, predicts that the war in the Philippines will have been ended by spring. General Funston says:

"I would really like to see the war through to a finish, not for the position I hold, but by the grand jury at the close of the inquiry occause my fighting blood is up. I am quite into the accident, but great secrecy is being confident that by spring it will be over. The indications are that a very aggressive campaign will be inaugurated this fall and they alry, absolutely indispensable in a guerrilla war. Lord, wouldn't I like to command a cavalry brigade. I have never for a minute had any qualms as to the justice of this war. We are right and they are wrong. A dispatch today announces that the Transvaal government has begun to appoint officers to go to the front in case of hostilities.

> The executive council of the Transvaal had a prolonged sitting yesterday, and has been in constant telegraphic communication with the Orange Free State. No decision it is now stated, regarding the attitude of the Free State has yet been reached. The Transvaal's reply to the dispatch o the secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Chamberlain, will be drafted today and submitted to the Raad in secret session The members appear convinced that Great Britain is determined on war. Being anxlous not to force Great Britain's hand, the Boers will not take any definite steps until the draft of their reply is considered, but notice has been issued to the burghers to be in readiness for commandeering, which nences shortly. A quantity of arms, posted at Lloyd's as missing. The Norchiefly Martini rifles, have been distributed.

A telegram from Johannesburg says ar American named Blake is raising an American corp of 500 men for the Boers. On the Cape side the dispatches show great military activity in the direction of the frontier The camp at Dundee now consists of two regiments of infantry, a Hussar regiment, two field bateries, one mountain battery and detachment of engineers.

The King's Rifles are now encamped a Ladysmith and the Fifth Lancers are arriv ing there.

The authorities have been unable to overome the trouble with the Cape drivers, who come the trouble with the Cape drivers, who refuse to accompany the mountain batteries to the front from Ladysmith, which is one of the bases of operations.

An armored train hurriedly completed at Capetown left there at midnight for Ladysmith. It consists of a powerful engine, with a three-quarter inch boiler, a tender and three twenty-ton cars. The whole outfit is painted khaki color, is loopholed for rifles and a machine gun and is capable of carrying 120 men.

Dewey's flagship was no sooner recognized than preparations were made to give the loudest welcome the ship could give. The guns were manned, the marine guards were paraded and seventeen guns were loosened in honor of Dewey. The Chicago's jackles cheered wildly as it teamed past. The Olympia responded with thirteen guns, and the two admirals coming together from the two ends of the earth waved a welcome to each other. The Chicago continued to the upper bay and in turn was saluted by the New York. Only the flagship of a squadron salutes on the appearance of a rear admiral. The long lines of crazy quilting, the universal language of the sea, fluttered from the signal halyards of the New York, Rear Admiral Sampson's flagship, and the Chicago, and after a good deal of wigwagging from the bridges of both ships the Chicago dropped anchor at the foot of the column, close under the lee of Staten Island. Rear Admiral Sampson's blue flag came down as scon as the Chicago found its berth. Rear Admiral Howison is his senior, and to the main truck was hauled up the two-starred red pennant which denoted that he was out

Head of Column for Olympia. It was noted that the Chicago did not go to the head of the column, the place to which it was entitled, because the place was reserved for the Olympia, and to have gone there would have forced Dewey's flagship beyond the end of the ship canal.

Rear Admiral Sampson's gig was manned and he went to pay his respects to Rear Admiral Howison. He was followed by the other ships.

Meantime the beautiful white yacht Dolphin, with Assistant Secretary of the Navy Allen aboard, had hurried down to the Olym pia. The Dolphin flew a white flag containing four stars with a fouled anchor in the field, the flag of the assastant secretary, and Mr. Allen personally was conveying to Admiral Dewey the greetings and compliments of President McKinley. He went aboard in a launch and was received at the gangway by the admiral himself. The marine guard at present arms was mustered aft, and Secretary Allen came over the side as drum ruffles and bugle flourishes were sounded in his honor.

When the assitant secretary of the navy goes aboard a warship the regulations prescribe that his flag be hoisted to the maintop. Up went the flag, but as soon as the geretings had been exchanged, at Allen's request, it was lowered and he remained aboard as the private guest of Admiral Dewey. It was the desire of the Navy department not to detract in any way from the honors to be accorded Dewey.

An officer from Fort Hancock shortly after. ward came aboard to convey the formal weicome of the army and then, a few minutes after 9, just as the tide turned, the Olympia weighed anchor and began its journey up the bay. The tugs and harbor craft. which had been hovering about since daylight, tooting and shricking their salutations at every opportunity, fell into its wake and puffed proudly along behind it. Every vessel that passed gave a vaporous salute and as the shipping increased the noisy demonstration became almost continuous.
