Charles J. Greene Talks About His Recent Tour Abroad.

LAZY HABITS ARE PREVALENT IN VENICE

Ideal Place for the Busy American to Forget His Troubles-The German Emperor 1s Ensy to Approach.

Fortified with a fund of interesting details, such as most American tourists overlook, Charles J. Greene, the lawyer, is at home after a three-months' journey through Eutope, accompanied by Mrs. Greene.

They saw all the sights between London and Turin, returning by Paris. Pleasure and observation prompted the tour and Mr. Greene says it was a success.

"It so happoned that we were in the tions from the time we started until we returned," said Mr. Greene. "Fetes of one thickest of the Dewey celebration.

That there is a dearth of coal here no one denies and unless supplies are received soon prices will surely advance. Dealers who placed orders early in the season are still winter of young married people. prices will surely advance. Dealers who behind in their supply and advices received recently do not give any assurance that deliveries will be made with any promptness. One well known coal dealer placed an order with a mine owner last week and received a reply yesterday to the effect that there was no telling when the coal could be shipped on account of the scarcity of cars. A great proportion of the hard coal supply is either on the ground or in sight, but there is a shortage of soft coal and steam coal. The packing houses and Stock Yards company use large quantities of steam coal and at the present time this is hard to get. As a rule the packers make contracts with mine owners for a year's supply of coal to be deliv-

This year, however, is an exception, as the mine owners refused to sign contracts and this leaves the packers and other heavy consumers here at liberty to make purchases on the open market. It is easy enough to buy coal, but to get it delivered when needed is another thing entirely. One day last wook, when the coal supply was unusually short, packers tried to get coal in Omaha for immediate delivery, but failed and one packing house ordered over 100 cars from Kansas City, while another bought heavily in These orders were delivered with considerable promptness and thus the fam-, ine was broken. Each one of the packing houses uses from six to eight cars of coal n day, to say nothing of the quantity used by the electric light plant and the Stock Yards company, so that it is safe to say that fifty cars of steam coal are consumed here every day. Just where the matter will end no one seems to know, but it is expected that permanent arrangements for the delivery of a steady supply of steam coal will soon be made. Unless dealers are more plentifully supplied within the next few weeks the price of bituminous coal will surely advance, as it seems impossible to get enough to supply the wants of the people in this weather, to say nothing of the extra demand which will arise when the tempera-

Sunday was an ideal autumn day and the White City was in the full glory of sunshine and beauty. The wind blew just enough to ripple the water in the Lagoon in little and gambling fixtures they were provided Elkhorn & Missouri Valley road was wrecked ridges of silver and the autumn flowers and foliage on the grounds made up a picture that was good to look upon. There was the usual Sunday crowd-a large one-and and as far as this part of the search was ces were right for a disastrous wreck and the people went from attraction to attraction leisurely and with evident pleasure. The grand concert in the Auditorium claimed first attention and the crowd was siding and was almost out of the way when large and enthusiastic. The program was a fine one, containing many very good things, played excellently and with fine taste and feeling. Encores were the rule instead of the exception and Bandmaster Belistedt was very obliging and acceded to the demand of the audience for more, After the sacred selection "Rock of Ages," which was given with four French horns, and a solo that was well received, Mr. Bellstedt gave a cornet solo that was well re-ceived. Perhaps the most notable number was the "Second Hungarian Rhapsodie," by Liest. The Olympia made a trip across the Lagoon with a young woman on the bridge

Fine Shoes.

The conundrum isn't how to sell our sort of shoes, but how to get enough to sell. The makers are well aware that inferior qualities do not pass muster here; that nothing but the best footwear is ever considered. The second rate go elsewhere, while we take the choice plums. The right shoes used to be scarcer than they are now. We had to hunt for them, but the hunt paid you-and us. Business is keenly active on this basis.

There is as much knowledge required in buying good shoes as there is in buying good books. The chaff must be separated from the grain. Does every shoe dealer know his business from the ground up? Not one in ten. He buys haphazard, trusting to luck—the need of faith never leaves him. You know the rest.

Only good shoe men know good shoes; the knowledge of them is born of experience, not of luck, and so it comes that buying shoes costs lots of money, because knowledge of shoes is too far removed from you and the men you buy from.
