

VICTORY AT LAST MINUTE

Omaha Team Defeats Hastings College Just Before Time is Called.

CONTEST A VERY EXCITING STRUGGLE

Both Teams Are Almost Evenly Matched in Scientific Ability, Although Visitors Had Advantage in Superior Weight.

With the timekeeper holding his watch in mid-air ready to call the game at an end, with the ball in possession of Omaha and with a clever judgment equal to the emergency, Billy Engstrand made a quick kick from the five-yard line and saved Tuesday's football game for Omaha.

The game was played Tuesday afternoon between the Omaha Young Men's Christian association and Hastings college on the Ames Avenue park. It was a superb struggle, the only disappointing feature was the smallness of the crowd of spectators.

WEATHER ORACLE BADLY OFF

Scientific Predictions Fail to Bring Wind for Yacht Races.

WILL NOT TRY AGAIN UNTIL THURSDAY

Many Sightseers Who Witnessed Three Flukes at a Average Cost of $5 to $25 Have Lost Their Interest.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Hard luck continues to pursue the big single stickers. On the three days last week when the yachts made attempts to sail, light winds left them stranded on the course when the time limit expired.

Today a fog bank prevented them from leaving their mooring buoys inside the spit of land which forms Sandy Hook almost at the lower part of the bay. This was the most dismal fluke of all. City and bay were done up in gray clothes of impenetrable mist when the yachtsmen tumbled out of bed this morning to get a look at the weather and there were gloom and dismay along the water front.

The weather bureau with its scientific methods had predicted clearing weather with freshening winds today. Of course the poor, misguided public went like lambs to the slaughter. They backed Uncle Samuel's weather oracle and put out to sea. But in such numbers as last week many of the sightseers who witnessed the three flukes at an average cost per fluke of from $5 to $25 had lost their interest and it will take a race to restore it.

The fog had let down its blank gray curtains all around them. The circle of vision was barely 200 yards in diameter. The yachts were as completely shut off from the rest of the world as if they had been inside a big circus tent. The gray water matched the gray mist and blotted out sky and sea line. The sea tried to bore into the gloom once or twice, its dim outlines looking like a shining silver dollar could just be discerned through the haze. There was no wind to lift the cloud of mist that literally reeled on the water. If anything the veil seemed to grow thicker as the time for the race approached. It was manifestly impossible for the yachts to put to sea in such weather.

Sir Thomas and Mr. Iselin had agreed at 9 o'clock not to sail until the fog lifted and there was a suitable breeze. So the crews lay flat on the moorings. The crews loathed about the deck with nothing to do but wait.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the committee boat, which had gone outside to take a last look around, returned and reported no indications of a change in the weather, so the formal announcement was made that there would be no race today.

Shortly after 11 o'clock, after consulting with Sir Thomas and Mr. Iselin, it was decided to abide by the decision of yesterday not to sail a race tomorrow. The next attempt therefore will be made on Thursday and thereafter daily until the series is completed.

Half an hour after the excursion fleet had started for home the sea struggled through the gloom for a few minutes, but the effort seemed to have been too much for the old boy, and he went back. Later in the day, however, it cleared up, though the weather bureau's prediction of a fresh breeze was not realized, there was enough air stirring for the Columbia to hoist its sails and make a fifteen-minute spin to try its new autopilot and see how it sounded under the test. Both were pronounced perfect by the experts, and it went back to its moorings, where all was made snug for the night.

The steam yacht Erie left the Horsehoe for the city with Sir Thomas Lipton and his guests at 1:35 and returned to its anchorage at 5 p. m. Nothing was done on the shore until 7 o'clock.

There seems to be a growing feeling of confidence on the challenger regarding its spars, gear and sails. Some members of the crew when asked if any alterations were to be made in Shamrock's sails said with a smile:

"We are always ready to go when the other boat is. Our sails are all right and all we want now is a good stiff breeze. If we can beat it in a slight breeze we can certainly do so in a strong breeze and we're going to do it."

BREAKS RECORD AND LOSES RACE.

Tommy Britton and Peter the Great

LINCOLN, Ky., Oct. 10.—Today a card of five races was made notable by the breaking of a world's record over a rather short track. It was the first heat of the Ashland stake, which was regarded as a two-horse race between Tommy Britton and Peter the Great.

In the first heat Peter the Great and Tommy Britton showed the greatest speed ever in public view. They trotted head-and-head the first half mile in 1:04 1/2, with the second quarter in 2:24. By many it was regarded as the last of the world's records.

Britton was done for and Donnell, who had finished third and fourth in the first two heats, took the race rather easily. The Stock Farm purse was won by Endow in 1:04 1/2, with the second quarter in 2:24. Peter the Great was a hot struggle took the race from him.

Most of the races were spirited contests and it was one of the best cards of the meeting.

CONFERENCE OF UNITARIANS

Third Day's Sessions Devoted to Discussions of New Books—Rev. Mann Delivers Sermon.

At the afternoon session of the Iowa-Nebraska Unitarian conference in Unity church here, centered in Rev. Wayne Smith's address on "Outside Reading for Ministers," and in a symposium of opinions by prominent Unitarian ministers on the treatment of theological and philosophical topics, Rev. Smith emphasized the importance of ministers studying works of science, sociology and philosophy, so that they may be better qualified to teach co-relative theological truths.

During the time specified on the program as "An Hour with New Books," there were several interesting reviews. Charlotte Perkins Stead's "Women in Economics," was ably discussed by Rev. Marie H. Jenny of Des Moines. Parsons' "Ethics" was criticized by Rev. Elmer Gordon. There were other entertaining papers by Rev. A. M. July and Wayne P. Smith.

At the evening session Rev. Newton M. Mann delivered a thoughtful sermon on "Unitarianism," taking his text from 1st Corinthians 13:13: "God has chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things that are mighty." He said in part:

"It ought to be observed that where God has chosen weak things to confound the mighty, the weakness is only seeming, veiled by the actual strength. No really weak thing has any such mission to perform. Paul was thinking of the early church, with its paucity of members and material resources, well knowing that it had other compensations of the mightiest, giving assurance of ultimate victory, and so prominently with the movement now taking place under the banner of free thought. Thus far it has marshaled but a handful comparatively; millions do not flow into the treasury of the movement. There is no close knit organization generating the fire of enthusiasm, but there is the consciousness of a great possession, a just pride in the most illustrious names, and in an incomparable literature.

"We are sure we go with the rising tide, linked with the force which moves the world. Perhaps we have something of that dangerous confidence which rests in the belief that the cause will prosper whether we aid it or not, being part of the fated progress of the world. But we cannot but aid it so long as we are active-minded, loyal-hearted. And does it not seem when we consider the apparent feebleness of Unitarianism in our day, and the conceded influence it has had on the creeds of Christendom, reminding the students from generations of a great part of the Protestant world, that we may fitly take up and apply to this movement the words which Paul used with reference to the early church?"

CHORAL SOCIETY IN VIEW

Enthusiastic Meeting Tuesday Night Indicates Great Success for Such an Organization.

Several of the leading voice teachers and vocalists of the city met in Hodge's music hall Tuesday night and talked over the matter of organizing a choral society. The project was hailed with enthusiasm and the meeting will be held next Tuesday night, and a short program will be rendered before the business is taken up. Messrs. Wheeler, Garrahan, Stephens and Messrs. Kellogg and Bishop were chosen as a committee to make all arrangements for the meeting. It is the purpose of the organization to form a high class society which shall have for its aim the presentation of good music. A committee will be appointed at the next meeting to try the voices and only those who have had some slight training and are able to read music with slight aid are admitted to membership. The program is in the hands of a committee and some good things are promised to the singers of the city, who are invited to be present on the following Tuesday evening.

The project was hailed with enthusiasm and the meeting will be held next Tuesday night, and a short program will be rendered before the business is taken up. Messrs. Wheeler, Garrahan, Stephens and Messrs. Kellogg and Bishop were chosen as a committee to make all arrangements for the meeting. It is the purpose of the organization to form a high class society which shall have for its aim the presentation of good music. A committee will be appointed at the next meeting to try the voices and only those who have had some slight training and are able to read music with slight aid are
