and enormous export engagements inclentally made wheat a strong market today and resulted in an advance of %u'sc the leading future. Corn was even tronger, advancing le for December and to for May, wheat influences and heavy export engagements prevailing. Oats closed Willie higher. Provisions were heavy and closed with slight declines for lard and ribs, but unchanged for pork. With an advance at Liverpool of 15d as an incentive to buying wheat started strong and at an advance of 1/2c, December opening at 72% 72% c. Previous to the opening reports were received that war had actually en declared between England and the Transvaal. The situation had the effect of increasing the volume of trading to a increasing the volume of trading to a marked degree. The opening advance was sufficient to induce a good deal of short selling and a slight reaction followed, December ultimately easing off to 724c. The market before noon became quite dull and heavy, short selling and realizing being encouraged by a loss of a good part of the advance at Liverpool, but the December price did not get below 724c and for the greater part of the time was at 725c. During the afternoon the market again became strong and decidedly active on reports of big seaboard engagements and an excellent cash demand at outside points, though it was dull here. The export engagements were put at 75 londs. Corn developed great strength and this also influenced wheat. Professional traders who had sold during the early part of the session covered as early part of the session covered as t they could and this and heavy buybest they could and this and heavy buying for the long account sent prices upward in a hurry. Top prices were made near the close, December reaching 73c and closing at that price, an advance of Oats was rather quiet but steady, influenced mainly by corn. Offerings were light and the der and good and prices ruled higher all day. Receipts were 23 cars. The bearish government crop report had no influence. December ranged from 22% to 23% and closed % higher at 23% c.

Provisions were dull and for that reason rather easy. There was a fair investment demand, but packers sold enough January product to neutralize its effect. Liverpool prices were lower and this had some influence. The market was helped some late in the day by the advance in corn. At the CATTLE-There was a tair run of cattle for the middle of the week and while there were a good many common rangers there was also quite a sprinkling of good beef steers. was also quite a sprinkling of good beef steers.

Corn-fed cattle were in good demand and sold readily at prices that were a little stronger. Considering the kind of cattle there has probably been no time this season when they would have brought any more money than they did today. Grass beef also brought good strong prices.

Cows and helfers were in demand at prices that were firm as compared with yesterday and the most of the offerings were taken in good season. It is safe to quote the cow market as 5@10c higher than last week.

Good heavy feeding cattle, of which there were very few, were in active demand and the market was strong on that kind. The offerings of such cattle as would answer that description were all taken in good season, and it is safe to quote them 10@20c higher than the low day last week. On the other hand the medium and common kinds of cattle and yearlings were neglected and the market on them was both slow and other hand the medium and common kinds of cattle and yearlings were neglected and the market on them was both slow and lower. Holders of yearlings, even those that were good, found it no easy matter to even get a bid, speculators as a rule claiming that they were filled up on that kind and did not have room for any more. besides being lower. Stuff that just happened to suit buyers sold pretty well, in some cases close to steady. In other cases it was considerably lower. It is safe to say that the market for the week is fully 15c lower and in extreme cases as much as 25c lower.

The feeder market is also very slow and weak, and, though there was a good supply from which to make selections, buyers did not take hold at all freely and it was late before very much was accomplished.
