Case of Schmidt Against Squire and Annis Taken from the Jury.

The trial of the suit in the district court of J. H. Schmidt of Omaha against J. W. Squire and A. D. Annis for alleged conversion of notes and mortgages given by | committee George S. Wright, chairman of John W. Paul in one of his numerous real estate transactions in this city was brought to an abrupt termination vesterday morning by Judge Macy taking the case away from the jury. Schmidt, who claimed that Paul had assigned to him for a consideration of $6,550 the notes and mortgages, alleged to have been sold by Squire to Guy C. Barton sued to recover $9.083.19 being the value as he set up of the notes and mortgages in controversy. The court ordered that the costs be taxed up against the plaintiff. Mrs. Ina P. Margrum filed a petition for divorce from William Margrum, to whom she was married in this city on December 16, 1896. Her experience of married life was brief, as she alleges that her husband deserted her without cause on March 7 of the following year.

Thomas Sullivan commenced suit against Winston Bros., grading contractors on the Chicago & Northwestern railway, just north of the city, to recover $3,000 damages for personal injuries alleged to have been received last August while working in a dirt bank.

The plaintiff in the suit of J. G. Meyers against Emily Wagener, decided a few days ago in favor of the defendant, filed a motion for a new trial yesterday. An affidavit accompanying the motion sets up that the jury was influenced by an account in the newspapers of a ruling of the supreme court which held that a married woman was not liable for improvements placed on her property by her husband without her knowledge or consent. The auit in question was to recover on a note which the defendant claimed never to have signed.
