Dug Out of the Past.

"Italy is like one vast vineyard, for the country is given over almost exclusively to the cultivation of grapes and the making of wines. The land is dotted with ruins of cities; seats of once famous republics which are once more, after the lapse of many ages, regaining something of their former prestige through modern improvements. Naples is one of these cities, situated as it is on a fine bay, and back of it Vesuvius-the continual terror of the inhabitants-forever belching forth great volumes of black smoke and painting the sky a lurid red with its bolling and seething lava.
