LESSONS OF THE LATE WAR

An Interesting Volume, from the Spanish Point of View, Trans-Inted by Naval Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 .- An interesting volume on the lessons of the late war, from the Spanish point of view, has just been translated by the bureau of naval intelligence. It is entitled, "Blockades and Coast Defense," by Severo Gomez Nunez, captain of artillery. He bases nearly all his conclusions as to coast defenses on long extracts from articles written since the war by Captain Mahan of our navy,

Captain Nunez blames Spain first of all for having neglected to make use of priand prevented him in a large measure from concentrating them for the final crushing blow against Cervera at Santiago. Of the blockade system employed by the United States, the writer makes even more bitter complaint. He says: "The blockade as practiced in Cuba caused thousand times more victims and more horrors than bursting shells, the burning of cities, the massacre of battles and all the crueltics of weapons. The blockade makes Mankato & Sioux City, a 5:25 pm all:00 pm living expensive, extinguishes the means of Sioux City Local...... a 8:00 am a 4:30 pm livelihood, gradually decimates the population destroys family life amplified by lation, destroys family life, annihilates human beings without distinction-rather with one distinction, for it strikes particularly the feeble, the children, the women and the sick."

Centain Nuney adds that the blockade of Cuba had to be repeatedly raised, owing to the apprehension of the American vessels as to the approach of Cervera's fleet. He says: "The blockade of Havana must have sevaccommodate an expected rush to that district next spring. Bids have been asked for land service, probably by reindeer, be tween St. Michaels and Nome, about 250 miles, the present service being only by vessels which touch there infrequently. Mr. Wright says that 4,000 people will winter in thirty-five miles or so of the Cape Nome coast and that fully 30,000 will be there in the spring.
