Railronds Buy the Fort and Reservation for Commercial Purposes, but Graveyard is Reserved-General Stanton Reminiscent.

The passing of old Fort Sidney in Cheyenne county, western Nebraska, and the auction sale of the reservation for commercial purposes marks an epoch in the military history of the west. It calls to mind the fact that this country no longer has a frontler, with its tragedy, romance and adventure. It shows that eneroaching civilization has obliterated an army post that for many years withstood the savage attacks of Sitting Bull and his thousands of painted braves. It brings to the veteran army officer, such as General Stanton of this city sad reflections not unlike the feelings of the aged farmer when he sells the old homestead. "I have been to the old fort many times," said General Stanton, "and some of the bravest soldiers I ever knew were stationed there at different periods.

"The report, however, that the late General Guy Henry was once in command of Fort Sidney is a mistake. It is true that Guy Henry came very nearly covering the whole west in his operations, but he was never stationed at Fort Sidney. Among those whom I remember there were Colonel N. A. M. Dudley, Colonel Harry Egbert, killed in the Philippines, and Major Thorpberg, as well as several others equally prominent in military circles.

"These men were in command of portions of the Third cavalry and the Fourteenth and Twenty-first infantry regiments and several and regiments and several and regiments and several and feasible. Don't You Think It's Your Move?

Just look around your office! Are your Just look around your office! Are your windows clean? Is the gas light dim? Do you come up in a dinkey, crowded little elevator that doesn't run nights or Sundays, and is run by a fresh elevator boy who jars your breakfast every time you ride? If so your office is not in .. The Bee Building ..

But it ought to be. There is no janitor service like theirs. You have electric light, steam heat and perfect elevator service. There are no undesirable offices in the building. The three or four vacant ones are as good as any in the building. We'll take great pleasure in showing you them.
