PLANS OF NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Preliminary Drawings Prepared for an Annex to the Eastward.

ARCHITECTURAL UNITY TO BE PRESERVED

Upper Two Stories of Old Structure Will Be Removed, to Insure Safety, but the Tower Will Remain Intact.

A preliminary plan of the new High school building has just been completed by Official Architect Latenser and was submitted to the Board of Education Monday night. The drawings were discussed informally by the members after adjournment and will probably be approved at the next meeting. The new building, as has been stated, will extend to the eastward of the old structure and will be three stories in height. In appearance the addition will resemble half of the letter H, the central portion joining the main corridor of the present edifice. The new building will contain either twentyfour or thirty rooms, according to whether it is of fireproof or slow-burning contruction. The scheme of the new building as explained to several board members last night by Architect Latenser, is as fol-lows: The main hall of the old building extends from cast to west with the stairway at the west end. This corridor will be extended eastward so that one entering at the front of the annex can see through to the stairway, 250 feet west. At the left of the entrance is the library and at the right the principal's office and a lobby. The main study rooms are in the central portion of the building on the second and third floors.

Plan of Upper Stories.

The second floor and part of the first will be given over to the 750 students of the Ninth grade, and each contains eight recitation rooms. On the second floor also I situated the biological laboratory, which is only used by the Ninth grade. The third floor, which will accommodate pupils of the Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth grades, contains the physical and chemical laboratories. It will be noticed that the main study rooms from their location in the central portion of the building feed in all directions, and the present crush at the end of each fortyminute lecture hour will be avoided. The annex will be located 100 feet in front of the old building still, leaving 100 feet of fairly level ground to the eastward. The main ballway may be entered through six doors opening into an octagonal corridor The floor of the first story will be on a level with the basement of the old building, the latter containing the manual training department. This junction will be possible without grading or filling, owing to the character of the ground. The second story will therefore be on the plane of the first in the present structure and the third story will open into the second.

It is the present plan to remove all of the old building above the second floor, rendering the edifice structurally safe and minimixing the danger of fire. The tower will not be molested and will take on in appearance an added altitude owing to the removal of the upper two stories. The two buildings will possess an architectural unity and Mr. Latenser feels that his solution of the High school problem will give satisfaction to all

System of Lockers.

One feature which has the approval of Superintendent Pearse and Principal Waterhouse is the system of lockers lining the corridor of the annex, obviating the necessity of dark and overcrowded dressing distance of the hall.

If the annex should be joined to the old quently suggested, Mr. Latenser points out that it would be necessary to remodel the Interior, as that portion is occupied by study rooms on each floor. From the east, on the other hand, there is a natural mode of in-grees into the main hallway. As soon as the preliminary plan is approved by the board and the question of fireproofing is determined Mr. Latenser will put a corps of draughtsmen at work on the designing, and the plans and specifications will be ready in a few weeks. There is no occasion for delay, as funds will be available at any time, and it is probable that the work will be present with all possible ex-

"Suspicious Character."

"Here turnkey," shouted Sergeant Weisenburg, search this fellow and lock him up for a vag and suspicious character." And the sergeant thrust into the great lobby of the jail a tall, slender young man with a scrubby growth of volunteer whiskers.

Mechanically Acting Turnkey Sam Reigelman began the search. He plunged his hands into the sidepockets of the youth's coat and drew forth a red bandana handker chief and a pair of felt mittens. From the inside coat pockets came three letters, a photograph and a memorandum book; from the vest pockets a silver watch, three matches, a toothpick and nail file; and from the trousers a piece of tobacco, a door key, knife and $3.80 in money.

These were placed in a pile on the cap-

A few moments before this comedy of er rors the young man had met Sergeant Weisenburg in the hall and had told him he was n quest of his uncle, Sam Reigelman, whom he had never seen. The ensuing incident was the result of the sergeant's taste for practical jokes.

Alleged Burglar Arrested.
Otto Johnson was arrested Tuesday by Detectives Savage and Dunn on a charge of burglary. He is accused of burglarizing the saloon of Ollie J. Keneft, 2824 Farnam street, on the night of February 24, and of stealing $10, a pistol and a quantity of cigars. The pistol and part of the cigars were found at Johnson's house, 522 South Thirty-second street, where the arrest was made, and these have been identified by Keneft as belonging to him.

Johnson is also suspected of burglarizing a butcher shop next door to the saloon a few nights previous to the Keneft burglary. Alleged Burgiar Arrested.

ELECTRICITY .IN PARADES New Orleans Claims Honor to Which Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben

Are Entitled.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat of last Friday, in writing a description of the parade, says: "When it was announced weeks ago that electricity would furnish the locomotive power for the floats, very carnival city in the United States was truck with the uniqueness of the idea; and when the practicability of the ingenious plan was demonstrated in an actual test a spirit of emulation was awakened throughout the ountry. Several southern and western ities have planned similar parades. However. Denver will be the second city in America to boast of an electrical pageant. 'As an initial experiment in an absolutely untried field the parade may be regarded as remarkably successful." The above extract was shown Robert S Wilcox, one of the governors of Ak-Sar Ben. Mr. Wilcox said: "The electrical yesterday. The session will continue idea in parades is not new, but it was will be a banquet. The reunion is given The Earls of Electra of St. Louis were the first to experiment with it. In 1897, in connection with the "Veiled Prophets" display, the earls attempted to give an electrical display, but did not meet with success The Knights of Ak-Sar-Ben in 1898 purchased the running gear of the floats built by the Earls of Electra and that year experimented with the illumination of floats in the parade, and having demonstrated its practicability in 1899, the entire parade was illuminated with electricity. They have patented the device for the illumination of the floats, and if it doesn't look out New Orleans may find that it has been infringing on our rights. Omaha can claim the honor of first using electricity in a parade." So far as the use of electricity as a motive power for the floats is concerned. Nev Orleans may be the pioneer, as the Omaha floats were drawn along the electric car lines by horses.
