Special Investigating Committee of School Board Makes Report.

NUMEROUS RECOMMENDATIONS SUGGESTED

After Adopting the Findings of the Committee the Board Enters Into Discussion of Proposed New High School Building.

The special investigating committee appointed January 1 to look into alleged corruption on the part of members of the school board made its report at a meeting Tuesday night. The report is in language so plain as to permit no ambiguous construction, and as a result of the searchlight, many evils are pointed out which the board circles during the last year. The board adopted the report unanimously as soon as a member of the committee had rend It aloud. The findings of the investigators cover many different features of alleged

In the beginning of the report, the committee goes on to explain the amount of work and the manner in which the inquiry was made. A voluminous transcript of evidence accompanied the report.

Touching the bribery charges against Messrs. Hess, Sears, Cowie and Irey, the committee says: "Inasmuch as these exmembers have been bound over to the district court to answer the charge of bribery, these matters would not be proper."

The action of the board in the employ ment of John McDonald as architect is taken up in rather severe language. An extract dollows: "Your committee calls attention who occupy second and third chairs in the to the fact that McDonald's statements under oath on an important matters then being ward admitted by McDonald to be false and given for the purpose of screening a friend. Your committee therefore feels that he has forfeited the confidence of this board and has thus proven himself unworthy of employment in any capacity whatever."

Those Steamed Envelopes.

The investigators found that enveloper containing bids had been opened and resealed, but the report easy that no evidence was found to indicate the identity of the guilty party or parties. It is suggested that in the future especially strict attention be given by the secretary to bids in his charge, so that outsiders who may have an interest in the proceedings will not have an opportunity to pry into affairs that are supposed to be secret.

As to seat cleaning, the committee reports that the work has been materially overdone and that in this respect there has been useless expenditure of money. Considerable space is devoted by the committee to the charge that teachers have been coerced into buying insurance policies from member of the board. This charge has been fully established, the report says, in some instances the evidence showing that teachers were informed that their positions extend their patronage to the insurance agent. No names are mentioned by the committee in this connection, but the identity of the accused is very generally known. He is no longer a member of the board. It is said that during the last year 150 teachers were solicited to take insurance. The committee denounces such action and recommends that in the future no teacher shall Another finding is that one member of the board engineered a deal whereby the board WOMAN paid an excessive price for a wagon. The ogo, but has not yet been delivered, and the committee recommends that the attorney representing the board institute action to annul the contract.

It is further found that there has been extravagance in the repair of school buildings. Over $50,000 was expended last year intent. Some Grading Needed. Editor Merrill of the Presbyterian church has this to say of one of South Omaha's. streets: "Charles Allen received a severe fall on that dangerous sidewalk to the church on J street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth. That old eyesore of a street has long enough been a disgrace to this city. It is time the grader was started." Numerous efforts have been made at various times to secure the grading of this one block on J street in order that those attending the Presbyterian church at Twentyfifth and J streets might not be compelled to walk up and down an inclined plane. The sidewalk, such as it is, has been the cause of many accidents. It is exceedingly steep and in muddy weather or wet weather it is almost impossible to either ascend or descend. Up to the present time owners of property in this block have refused to petiion the council for the creation of a grading district, owing, it is stated, to the expense. From Twenty-fifth street west, J street is graded, and also from Twenty-fourth street east, but this one block remains a mere ragon road. It has been suggested that if those living on Twenty-fifth street in the vicinity of J street and the members of the Presbyterian church unite in an effort ome way may be found to grade the street
