

The Year 1900 is a Presidential Campaign Year

The battle royal for the control of the national government will be started by the great political parties with their nominating conventions in June, but the political forces are already being marshaled in opposing lines.

Prepare for the Coming Battle of the Ballots

Every patriotic citizen owes it as a duty to his country to keep himself fully abreast of all the movements in this great contest and to inform himself on the vital questions of public importance at issue between the contending parties.

The Bee as the foremost exponent of its party principles in this section of the country will furnish the most accurate, comprehensive, prompt and complete news of skirmishes, forays and battles of the political campaign of 1900. It will cover the political conventions, great and small, with uncolored reports of all that happens at them. It will give side lights on the men and measures before the people that will enable them to do their duty as citizens intelligently instead of in ignorance.

Daily by mail $8.00 a year or $4.00 for six months.
Sunday $2.00 a year.
Weekly 65 cents a year—ten weeks' trial for 10 cents.

Republicans

will find in The Bee an enlightened organ of the republican party. Its editorial page will discuss fearlessly and logically the issues presented in the republican national platform and uphold the banner of the republican standard bearers chosen by the republican national convention. In the field of state politics The Bee will be an exponent of honesty and economy in state government and expose and oppose sham reform no matter where or by whom it is practiced.

The most effective republican campaign orator.

Populists

are threatened with a compulsory choice between the republican and democratic presidential tickets. The Bee will show them why it is to their advantage to prove their loyalty to their country by supporting republican rather than democratic candidates.

Democrats

who want to have both sides of the question can get no better exposition of republican doctrines than contained in The Bee from day to day and week to week. Always treating its opponents fairly, The Bee will in its news columns give the news of all parties.

Republicans can serve their party no better than to secure subscribers to The Bee. A copy of The Weekly Bee is a weekly argument at the fireside in favor of republicanism.
