The machinists' union is one of the etrongest inbor organizations in Omeha, and this city is admittedly a union labor stronghold. The local membership of machinists numbers nearly 400. This includes the men employed in the railroad shops. Several leading members expressed themselves personally in favor of supporting any legitimate movement that comes up, and while nothing positive has yet developed, the situation in Chicago may bring results on short notice. There were several labor meetings in Omaha Sunday afternoon, but as can be learned, the machinist ettion was not discussed. It is stated officially that only routine business was transacted at any of the Sunday meetings. saders in the machinists' association declared they had had no recent information from Chicago or elsewhere pertaining to the strike.

Simms, Roy Downey, A. J. Hill, T. W. Jeff. Interests Opposed to Competition with Cheap Labor Unite-Prefer Mil-Itary Regime in Porto Rico for the Present.

> CHICAGO, March 18 .- (Special Telegram.) -"The most serious political economic con-test witnessed in the United States may yet grow out of the Perto Rican affair. The proposition. I believe it will yet be carried great hubbub it has already created is but a faint prelude to the uproar that may follow the present effort to sacrifice American farmers to tropical monopolies. Yet there is never submit to the competition of yellow a very simple and just way to avoid this and many other threatened difficulties." So said Herbert Myrick, chairman of the League of Domestic Producers, in an interview vesterday. Under that name the various agricultural, labor and manufacturing interests endangered by tropical competition have formed a coalition, these organizations representing more than 3,000,000 voters. The change of front by the administration at Washington is attributed largely to the league's recent petition and memorial to congress. Mr. Myrick added:

"The sugar refineries' trust depends for its very life upon imported raw sugar. Its deathknell is sounded by the development of domestic beet sugar production as well as by other competition. The trust's shares have shrunk about one-half in market value. But if the sugar trusts can get raw cane sugar admitted duty free from the tropics it can throttle the domestic beet sugar industry and realize profits beyond the dreams of avarice. The same is true of the tobacco and cigar trust, also the tropical fruit trust.

Syndientes to Employ Coolies. "These powerful interests, together with the Spanish landlords and speculators who have acquired lands in Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines, are the influences that are exerting such tremendous but artfully concealed pressure in behalf of free trade with the tropics. If they succeed, vast syndicates will be perfected to employ coolie labor on the unlimited fertile soils of those islands in producing sugar, tobacco, fruits, vegetables, rice, cotton, etc., as well as cigars, cotton cloth and other manufactures at prices that will greatly undersell do-The Union Pacific has also ordered the ware- mestic producers unless wages and living it houses and coal sheds removed from their this country descend to a level with the "Hawaii affords striking proof that this is just what will happen. She has imported 50,000 coolies and doubled her sugar production within a few years, largely since anground for another large brick store. The nexation. Java and Egypt produce sugar at a cost that laugha at tariffe. Last year about half the sugar imported into the United States was produced by yellow labor, double the proportion of five years ago The American farmer and workingman realize that protection against the products of there are a number of residences for which coolie labor is now as essential to selfpreservation as were the Chinese exclusion acts in the United States and Australia." "But are the domestic industries threatened of any particular consequence?" Myrick "They certainly are," he replied. "Cigar leaf is grown on a large scale in New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusette, Connecticut, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Florida, Georgia and Texas. The domestic manufacture of cigars represents $100,000,000 of invested capital $150,000,000 worth of annual product, pays 125,000 people $60,000,000 in wages yearly and consumes $50,000,000 worth of tobacco and other supplies mostly produced in the poenaed for the prosecution and an equal United States. Lying at the very door to It is 301 feet high at the highest point and our home market, Cuba, Porto Rico and until the completion of the Garabit viaduc Jamaica can pay full duties and still undersell domestic producers. Cotton culture and manufacture in the Orient will have great France, is 1,849 feet long and at the highest impetus under coolie labor. Cuba has already asked for a protective tariff against Louisiana rice, although wool manufacturers are making more money than ever. Lower duties on wool are sought for through reciprocity with Argentine.

Would Hit Sugar Beet Industry. "The culture of sugar beets at the north and west and of sugar cane at the south and the manufacture of sugar therefrom would be wiped out by tropical free trade. This is one of the most promising agricultural and manufacturing industries, is the one new business left, and farmers are determined to have this home market for $100,000,000 worth yearly of this new and profitable crop. Such policy is best for the country. For instance, under reciprocity, Porto Rico increased her consumption of flour 15 per cent per capita yearly for her 1,000,000 people, while the beet sugar industry, if developed only enough county in the state. He will contract with for local consumption, would put $2.50 into the pockets of the people of Nebraska and the northwest.

"Beet sugar industry is now so far developed in New York, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Virginia, Illinois, Iowa, South Dakots, Nebrasks, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon and California that to sacrifice it to the tropical trusts would be a crime. Today, therefore, the American farmer says to congress: 'I volver, which failed to discharge, then with have supported protection for other intera pocketknife, which was taken from him, ests, now I want them to support protection for the farmer. If fruits, sugar, tobacco, vegetables, etc., are to be admitted free from Porto Rico, Cuba or the Philippines, then admit free manufactures from England and Europe. If duties on the produce I have to sell are reduced 12 to 20 per cent by reciprocity then make a like reduction on the manufactured articles I have to buy. So long as there is protection want my share of it, especially on these things upon which a duty will really protect. Don't subject me to free trade conditions and expect me to vote protection for the other fellow.' The farmer's position is impregnable. It is just. He asks no spe-cial favors, only to be treated equally as well as the labor and capital in other industries.

Farmer Supported by Labor.

"It is significant also that the farmer is supported in this position by labor, which is the chief consumer of his products. Workers in other vocations know that when the farmer prospers all industries thrive. But how can Porto Rican products be excluded if it is a part of the United States? Domestic producers bitterly resent establishing a precedent for Porto Rico that must inevitably be applied to Cuba and the Philippines later. We prefer to avoid the constitutional issue for a few years by leaving Porto Rico as a military possession with a civil government within the president's direction

"The present military tariff admits foods. implements and other necessities free of duty into Porto Rico, instead of taxing these, like other articles, 15 per cent as proposed in the house bill pending in the senate. would let it stand as at present, a joint resolution authorizing the president to reduce somewhat duties on Porto Rican products shipped into the United States.
