Defendants Protest Against a Rehearing in Douglas County District Court.

COUNTER SHOWING IN SUPREME COURT

Claim is Set Up that the Court Has No fever, was issued today by Governor Jurisdiction to Recall a Mandate Issued Except to Correct Clerical Errors.

LINCOLN. March 28 .- (Special.) -- The defendants in the case of the State of Nebraska against the Omaha National bank filed a counter showing in the supreme court today protesting against the issuance of another mandate ordering a rehearing of the case in the district court of Douglas county. This suit involves $201,000 of state money lost through the defalcation of ex-Treasuror Bartley. The last decision of the supreme court reversed the decision of the Douglas county district court and the case was remanded for further proceedings. The defendants moved for judgment on the original proceedings and the motion was sustained. Attorney General Smyth contends that the lower court violated the terms of the mandate in not submitting the case to a jury for another trial and asks for another and more explicit order compelling the dis-Treasurer Bartley. The last decision of the forth. and more explicit order compelling the district court to try the issues of the case

The counter showing of the defendants alleges that the supreme court has no jurisdiction to recall a mandate once issued except for the purpose of correcting clerical errors and it is asserted that the showing made by the attorney general does not disclose any errors in the supreme court

It is alleged that the opinions of the judges of the supreme court decided no question of law or of fact and furnished no rule of procedure that was of controlling force on the district court. The opinion reforce on the district court. The opinion reversing the district court and remanding the case is analyzed as fcliows:

Opinion Analyzed.

"Judge Sullivan handed down an opinion holding that the trial court erred in instructing the jury to return a verdict for the defendant; and which opinion does not pass upon any other error in said case; that Harrison, chief justice, handed down a written opinion in which he expressly stated that he did not concur in any part of the opinion of Judge Sullivan and which was an actual dissent thereto, but that in his opinion the district court erred in overruling the before final submission of the case to the jury; that the third member of the court, Judge Norval, took no part in the decision; that no two members of the court specific and pulse the court held that the judgment end of any question of law or fact as ground for reversal, and hence, as two members of the court held that the judgment should be reversed, but for different points of error, a judgment was entered reversing the judgment of the trial court, but not directing sanything further as to the particular manner of procedure, and the judgment of the district court reversed said judgment of the district court and the pens set apart for the cattle to enter linto or be placed and the pens set apart for the cattle with receivable and the pens set apart for the cattle which receively and the pens set apart for the cattle which receively and the pens set apart for the cattle which receively and the pens set apart for the results and the pens set apart for the cattle which receively and the pens set apart for the recursive reverving and the pens set apart for the recursive reverving and the pens set apart for the recursive reverving and the pens set apart for the recursive and the pens set apart for the recursive reverving and the pens set apart for the recursive reverving and the pens set apart for the recursive reverving and the pens set apart for the recursive reverving and the pens set apart for the recursive revervin

Mrs. Emma F. Coon is Raising Funds for Attorneys. ASHLAND, Neb., March 28 .- (Special Telegram.)-Mrs. Emma F. Coon, the divorced wife of James Warren Coon, who narrowly escaped death at his hands on the afternoon of March 10 and who is now living in South Omaha, was in Ashland today, coming from Wahoo this morning, where she had been to sign the papers calling for his appearance in court for preliminary hearing. Mrs. Coor was here raising money to employ attorney to assist County Attorney Gilkeson in the prosecution of Coon, who, it is reported since his arrest and confinement in the county jail at Wahoo, has several times threatened to make another attempt on her life. It is also reported that Coon has said that when he came back to Ashland he would burn the town and would shoot five of the men who were instrumental in securing his incarceration in the county jail.

A few days ago Sheriff Thomas Farris took Coon from the jail at Wahoo to Omaha to see his son, William Coon, and have the latter intercede with his mother and have the presecution stopped. The son refused to do so. Coon has a bad record. He at tempted to shoot his wife fourteen years ago, when they were living at Chester, Neb., Mrs. Coon saving his life when the case has been transferred from Justice of the Peace Moon's court in Ashland to the county court in Wahoo.
