

SCHEDULE NOW COMPLETED

Union Pacific Officially Announces New Service to Portland.

PROVIDE AFTERNOON TRAIN FROM OMAHA

New Train Will Be Operated from Granger, Wyo., to Portland, Connecting with Present Train from the East.

The increased facilities for handling Chicago-Portland traffic which the Union Pacific and its connections have had under consideration for some months will be established Sunday, April 15, unless some unforeseen event should necessitate a short postponement.

The new schedule agreed upon by the Union Pacific and its connections provides for an afternoon train from Omaha with a direct Portland connection.

No. 3, the present afternoon train from Chicago to San Francisco, will provide the connection on the Northwestern and Union Pacific, and on these systems no new trains will be inaugurated.

The new train from Chicago to Portland will consist of a baggage, chair and toilet car, two first-class sleepers and a diner.

No change in time of No. 3, the train operating through Omaha and a part of the new Chicago-Portland service, will be made.

The afternoon train will leave Portland at 9 o'clock in the morning, arriving in Granger at 6 p. m. the next day, where it becomes a part of Union Pacific-Northwestern train No. 2, continuing to arrive in Omaha at 7:29 p. m., and in Chicago at 9:30 a. m.

An additional advantage of this new service will be the inauguration of a daily tourist car service between Kansas City and Portland.

GIRL HAS A FIT IN STREET

Domestic Falls in Convulsions While Boarding a Car—May Have Taken Poison.

Edna Castlemain, a domestic in the household of C. A. Rathbun, 306 South Thirty-first street, fell in a fit at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon as she was about to board a west-bound Farnam street car at Twenty-eighth avenue.

She was taken to a neighboring drug store and later in the police ambulance to St. Joseph's hospital, where she died yesterday on the Burlington's Lincoln train.

They were bound for Lincoln, near which place they will locate on farms.

On account of an unusual rush of business at the hospital the young woman was given only a cursory examination.

Restoratives were administered, and while the attendants were so engaged other patients who were treated at the same time, were not definitely known whether her indisposition was the result of poison self-administered or of an epileptic fit.

Early Tuesday morning Miss Castlemain learned that her father, who lives on the boulevard near Florence, was at the point of death and left at once to attend his bedside.

It was nearly five hours later that she staggered into the rear door of Ollie Kneff's saloon, Twenty-eighth avenue and Farnam street, and begged for a glass of water. She was waited upon by George Cornish, the bartender.

"The woman acted queer," he said. "As I entered the room where she sat there was about her a very strong odor of some drug and I remarked at once that she had taken poison. After drinking the water she arose to her feet, staggered and fell to the floor."

Take it for a tonic in the spring—drinks it all winter and keeps cool.

CHARLES HEWES CO. Malvern, Pa.

QUEEN AT IRELAND'S SHORE

Arrives at Kingstown, Seven Miles from Dublin, on the Royal Yacht.

CHANNEL SQUADRON FIRES SALUTES

Many People to Witness the Arrival of the Royal Yacht Regardless of Rain—Preparations at Dublin.

DUBLIN, April 4.—In spite of the rain and the huge puddles of water under foot, the arrival of Queen Victoria in the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, at Kingstown, was the occasion for much enthusiasm, which was not in fact an organized form, owing to the fact that her majesty came several hours ahead of scheduled time.

The passage of the channel was smooth and the queen suffered no discomfort, although she expressed regret that the premature departure from Holyhead, owing to the threatening weather conditions, should cause her Irish subjects disappointment.

It had been officially announced that she would reach Kingstown at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday, instead of 10:30 a. m. as scheduled.

At 10:30 a. m. the yacht was sighted and the Victoria and Albert loomed up through the haze and rain and was greeted with the thunder of twenty-one guns from each ship of the British channel squadron.

Thousands had poured into Kingstown, regardless of the rain, which ceased about 1 o'clock, and they braved the cold and wind and stood until midnight.

The decorations were confined to an illumination of the wharves and a few fireworks here and there. A shiver of rain stood out against the blackness of Dublin and from the jetties clustered on the decks of the squadron came "God Save the Queen," which were taken up by the people on the shore, and when the soldiers of the Queen's Guard crossed the quay water the spectators on Kingstown pier joined in with equal fervor.

No Counter Demonstration. Although all political conditions are represented in Kingstown there was no attempt at a counter demonstration. In fact, the evening's fireworks, singing and cheering were not marred by any note and the entry of the queen into Dublin today (Wednesday) will probably be a repetition of the same friendly conditions.

In Dublin itself, seven miles from Kingstown, the so-called "dirty Dublin" was never before presumably better justified than yesterday. Dublin was bedraggled, its finery, which rivaled London's public decorations, drooping sadly from the steady rain, which according to the weather prophets, will be repeated.

However, when the showers ceased, illuminations such as Ireland had never seen lit up the streets and were viewed by crowds of people. The traffic was impossible. The castle was gay with a dinner party, including the leading Irish nobility and a spirit of good-natured revelry prevailed over every part of Ireland's capital.

James Egan, the Dublin city sword-bearer, who for nine years has carried the sword of the queen, refused today to hand the queen the sword, nor would he take part in tomorrow's proceedings.

This declaration at the last hour caused a sensation and Egan, the sword-bearer, is now looking for another sword-bearer. In a letter to the town clerk Mr. Egan says:

"I will yield nothing to any Irishman in respect for the individuality of the aged lady, but I cannot join in any act of public celebration in honor of the queen, which has tried me for nine years in English dungeons—the state that still harkens me with the degradation of a ticket-of-leave man."

Mr. Egan adds that he is prepared to accept the consequences and hand in his resignation.

The queen will disembark some time before noon today and will drive from Kingstown through the city, reaching the vice royal lodge about 4 o'clock.
