COMPARATIVE CIRCULATIONS OF OMAHA DAILIES

Sworn Census Returns of Carrier Delivery Circulation in Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs

ALMOST TWO TO ONE IN FAVOR OF THE BEE

Advertisers Given the Opportunity to Know What They Buy and Where They Get Their Money's Worth. Subscribers on Ten Sample Routes in Omaha in Parallel Columns. Complete List Open to Public Inspection.

Bee has maintained its rank as the most
Sidely circulated newspaper published in
This section of the west. For fifteen years
It has published sworn exhibits of circulation every day in the year for each day of the preceding month, subject at all times to verification by its books and records.

This other papers whose circulation statements never show a decline, The Bee has almost publicly acknowledged the effect of the major of copies of the Evening to the Morning to For more than twenty years The Omaha business decline just as it does the effect of general prosperity on its subscription

In order to show its superiority as an adpertising medium. The Bee has periodically taken a newspaper census of carrier delivery circulations in the city of Omaha and towns adjacent. The census taken during the first week of April covers all carrier poutes in Omaha, South Omaha and Council Bluffs. The names and addresses of the subscribers to The Bee and World-Herald in ten routes in the residence districts of Omaha are berewith published and local adomaha are berewith published to make a carevertising patrons are invited to make a careful comparison of the quality and quantity of the subscription lists of the two dailies.

The Bee cordially invites all advertising patrons to inspect the lists of names which are not published on account of the immense space they would occupy, but which are covered herewith by affidavits of the consus takers. The complete figures may thus be verified from the census books for any or all routes as certified to and pub-

Incidentally, attention is called to the fact that the census taken during the last week in March, 1900, by the Omaha Evening News for its own information fully substantiates and corroborates the figures herewith presented for the carrier's delivery circulation of both The Bee and the World-

The circulations in the principal towns of Nebraska and western Iowa have been colfected with the greatest care and present a The Bee and World-Herald in the territory tributary to Omaha. The Bee has thus accon, which, for the past several months, has exceeded 27,000. The remainder of its reguthe smaller towns of Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, with a scattering mail cir-
