SHALL WE DISPUTE

The Opinions of Scores of Our Fellow Citizens.

Residents of Omaha like other American citizens, if making an investment, want to be sure of getting the worth of their money. They want to know all the whys and wherefores, and in a direct ratio to the value of the investment they burrow and ferret until satisfied with the collateral. Take an instance in the realm of proprietary articles; if we know of a friend who has been cured we have some faith in the preparation; if we know of two or three our faith increases. If the cure reach scores all well known citizens and any one who still maintains there is nothing beyond ordinary merit in the said preparation can safely be left to the care of his fellow tax payers. If he wishes to pick a quarrel with them on the question of their judgment and veracity he has ample opportunity in Omaha to do so. Begin with this case

It lacks, it is true, the dreamy sensuousness of "A Midstory is followed without tedious digression, the action is rapid, there are no long speeches, and the denouement is a happy one for all concerned. It does not detract from the fame of the great poet that he appropriated the plot of the play from an earlier playwright who presented his piece in London sometime during the sixteenth century, for the master had the art of making everything that passed through his hands his own.

As modified and rearranged by the late Augustin Daly, the play has undergone a judicious excision, and been brought into propriety, and this, too, without the sacrifice of any of its essential features.
