LETTER CARRIERS UP IN ARMS

Pending Legislation in Congress Would Add Materially to Their Work.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW WOULD BE ABROGATED

Letters are Sent to the Senate Committee on Postoffices Asking that the Law Be Opposed.

The local branch of the National Letter Carriers' association is up in arms over a bill which stands a fair chance of becoming a law of the United States, as it passed the house of representatives Thursday as an amendment to the general appropriation bill. The amendment provides that each carrier shall work forty-eight hours each week of six days, not including the time put in by them on Sunday.

Under the present law carriers can only work eight hours per day and are prohibited from working longer by postal regulations. As a result of this persons living on districts covering a large territory have at times failed to receive mail the day it reaches the Omaha office. If a carrier cannot cover his route in eight hours he must quit anyway and the mail goes undelivered until the next day.

Under the proposed bill the carrier is to work forty-eight hours in six days. If he covers his route in six hours one day, on the next he must work ten hours if necessary to deliver all of the mail he takes from the office. There is a provision in the law providing for the payment of overtime if it becomes necessary for the carrier to work more than forty-eight hours in one week.

A. P. Brady of the local branch expressed the reasons for the opposition of the mail carriers to the new law as follows:

"We oppose the law because in the first place it abrogates the eight-hour law. The letter carriers had a hard fight to secure the enactment of that law and we are not ready to see it repealed. In the next place we believe it will cripple the service, in that it will result in increasing the length of the carriers' routes, delaying the delivery of mail beyond a reasonable time. Again, it will stop any increase in the force of carriers, the work which would be done by new men under the present law being done by the present force under the provisions of the bill providing for payment for extra time.

"It expressly terms the bill excepts work done on Sunday when it comes to an allowance for overtime and we will still have to work from four to ten hours for nothing on the first day of the week. The matter is at the discretion of the postmaster. At present most of the carriers have to be on duty, so that they have no time to attend church and, thoughtlessly, the very church members are the ones who make this necessary. They come to get their mail after church hours and we have to have it all ready for them or they would find fault with the service. We earn all we get as it is and do not think we should be compelled to work ten or twelve hours a day on days when there is a large amount of mail."

The Omaha branch of the Letter Carriers' association is affiliated with the Central Labor union and Friday evening the president and secretary of that union addressed letters to Samuel Gompers and the secretary of the American Federation of Labor asking them to appear before the senate committee on postoffices in opposition to the change in the law. The letter says:

"Under the present eight-hour law the carrier can be worked at any time in the twenty-four hours. Under the proposed new law, which is now before the senate committee, the eight-hour law is annulled, or will be if it passes the senate, for carriers can then be compelled to work any number of hours per day, not to exceed forty-eight hours per week, and the Sunday work which it will add to the present work."

"The amendment providing extra compensation for letter carriers for work in excess of forty-eight hours a week, and such number of hours as may be required on Sunday—if it should become a law, will leave the carriers without a law at all to govern their working hours."

REPUBLICANS ARE HOPEFUL

North Platte Citizens Too Busy to Talk Politics, but They Will Be in Line.

Hon. W. T. Wilcox of North Platte, a member of the legislature at the last session, was in Omaha Friday. In speaking of the trend of political affairs in his section he was modestly hopeful of republican success. "The people up our way are not talking politics very much yet. I don't know whether that is or is not a hopeful sign. Four years ago at this time Bryan men, and especially populists, were running around anxiously hunting somebody to talk to, and the campaign contention was boiling. It is not so now. One seldom hears anyone up in our section talking politics. We can't tell whether or not there is going to be any breaking away in party affiliations, but it is reasonably certain that if there is it will be in our favor. You know there was some of it last fall and we carried our county nicely. I think our candidate for congress has an excellent show of election. He is a good, clean, square republican and is known to everyone up in that section. There is no reason why every republican should not vote for him, and he will get the full party vote at least. There is no question that Judge Neville will be renominated by the fusionists. During the short time he has been in congress he has done nothing either good or bad, his record in that respect being simply a blank. I believe he has tried, however, to do the best he could."

Two Franks Escape.

Frank Jones and Frank Pyvka were prisoners in the Douglas county jail until their escape Friday evening, when they made their escape. During the feeding hour they eluded the vigilance of the jailers and climbed on top of a steel cage and later had no difficulty in tearing a hole with their hands through the tin roof of the jail and getting away. Jones is wanted for the theft of a horse and was recently arrested by Officer Baldwin. Pyvka is a South Platte clothing at the time. The police were notified an early capture of the two Franks is expected.

Greek Meets Greek.

Angelo Pantelopulo and Basil Matalio, Greek candy merchants, became involved Friday evening in a discussion of the priority of their claims to the exclusive use
