Reform Committee Doesn't Intend to Take Chances on Failure.

SERVES NOTICE ON THE COUNTY ATTORNEY

Killpack Declines to Issue the Pro-nouncement to the Reformers Ask and He Matters Will Rest a Time.

The "reform" committee which secured the closing of the gambling rooms is still in business, despite the reports to the contrary.

Attorney James McCabe and other members of the organization swooped down upon the county attorney's office with a demand that all slot machines and similar so-called gambling devices be at once suppressed by the county authorities.

County Attorney Killpack happened to be out of the city and the committee paid his office a visit and then P. Kimball, his assistant, had to bear the brunt of the onslaught.

The committee, for which so before Attorney McCabe acted as chief spokesman, insisted that the county attorney at once proceed to drive all the slot machines out of the city.

Spokesman McCabe declared that it was the duty of the county attorney to enforce the law in this respect and practically intimated that the committee considered it was one of the county attorney's duties to ferret out all the slot machines in existence in the city and at once proceed to enforce their owners to take them out of business.

The committee had prepared the following manifesto, which it presented to the county attorney should forthwith:

To Whom It May Concern: The undersigned are authorized and requested by the reform committee to demand that you enforce the law in this respect and practically intimated that the committee considered it was one of the county attorney's duties to ferret out all the slot machines in existence in the city and at once proceed to enforce their owners to take them out of business.

viding the district and urge several reasons why the present conditions should not be disturbed. They say in the first place that it will take business that properly belongs to Council Bluffs and will tend to decrease the business at the terms of court here, which, owing to the removal of the head offices of the federal judge and United States marshal to Des Moines, has already been greatly diminished.

Further they assert that several counties adjacent to Pottawattamie are included in the new division and that people of those counties will be greatly inconvenienced by having to attend court at Creston instead of in this city.

As a glaring instance of this they point to Page and Fremont counties, to which Council Bluffs is far easier of access than Creston would be.

Davis sells paints. HOGS, DOGS AND COIN ALL MIXED. Intricate Mazes of a Lawsuit Threatened.

Spotted hogs and a collie dog entered prominently into a damage suit which was tried before a jury and Judge Smith in the district court yesterday.

Emery Tawzer and W. H. McClelland, farmers of Garner township, were the plaintiff and defendant respectively.

Tawzer asked for $100 of McClelland's cash, claiming that the latter's hogs had destroyed $25 worth of his corn and that he had been damaged to the tune of $75 for an injury suffered and time spent in protecting his premises from the depredations of these same hogs during the summer and fall of 1899.

McClelland came back at Tawzer with a cross bill for $100. He alleged that Tawzer had decoyed his collie dog and deprived him of the animal's services in the management of his stock and as a watch dog of his premises and ruined the usefulness of said canine to the great damage of him.

McClelland further claimed that Tawzer owed him $17 for straw and the balance of his counterclaim he asked as damages for being brought into court on such a trivial case.

Half the residents in the neighborhood of the two farmers were in court as witnesses, one side or the other, and one witness in particular was very certain that it was Tawzer's hogs and not McClelland's that had destroyed the corn.

When asked by the attorney for the plaintiff how he knew they were Tawzer's hogs, he replied: "Because they were spotted." He was forced to admit, however, that McClelland's particular breed of hogs also carried spots on their anatomy, but he refused to give any other answer than that he "knew by their spots that the were Tawzer's hogs."

The jury presumably did not take the spots into deep consideration as it brought in a verdict for Tawzer for $75. It is said that the case will be appealed.

These suits will be prosecuted by attorneys in the employ of the Iowa Anti-saloon league. During the past few days, attorneys H. M. Haynes of Marquette and P. S. Dunshee of Des Moines, both alleged to be in the employ of the Anti-saloon league, have been in Iowa City and are said to have found many saloons being run contrary to the letter and spirit of the state cocktail law.

Suits against two local brewers will be prosecuted on the ground that no petition of consent has ever been obtained to manufacture in this county. The brewers claim to have been given the necessary consent by the city council a few weeks ago.

South Omaha News. The annual meeting of the South Omaha Commercial club was held in the council chamber with over half of the members present.

President Flynn occupied the chair and Jack Watkins filled the office of secretary. It was decided to purchase a copy of the printed volume of "The Commercial Bodies of the United States" in order that data relating to South Omaha might be inserted.

Next in order came reports of committees and the committee on telegraph and telephone failed to report on account of the absence of Mr. Christie, the chairman. In connection with the franchise asked for by a foreign company several members made remarks.

Barrett said that he failed to see where South Omaha would derive any special benefit from a toll station established at the exchange, as proposed. He thought that the council ought to insist that at least four toll stations be located east of the tracks if the franchise was granted.

H. M. Murdoch thought another line here would be of material advantage to the city. Jim Bulla said that he favored competition with proper restrictions, but he wants the franchise to pay something for the right of way the same as the gas company. Philip Kraus of Albright asserted that two telephone lines would be a nuisance and he did not believe in complicating matters.

The present franchise is a good one for him. Richard O'Keefe was willing to admit a competing company, but he wants the city to derive some benefit financially, and this the ordinance before the council does not provide for. At the conclusion of the talks the council adjourned.

The committee with instructions to confer with the city council and see that the interests of the city were properly taken care of as regards a bonus.

They came the street car question and there was a long talk by several members. It was the general opinion that there must be a cross-town line, and to this end attorneys were selected to see that the charter provisions were complied with. Jack Watkins had his experience with the officers of the Omaha company and he asserted that it was shown that the people of South Omaha mean business there will be little difficulty in securing better service.

A cross-town line is being considered and arrangements were made for the procuring of the same. President Flynn read his annual report, which was full of most thoughtful persons. It contained in brief the work of the club during the last year.

He said that there was good reason for being satisfied with the work, because a great deal had been accomplished and more work of the same nature was now in hand. He said that agitation was the basis of success, but there is no need of a new name for the newspaper for assisting in the good work now being done by the Commercial club.

The report of Secretary Watkins followed and was very favorable received. Coming in the report of the chairman of committees.
