Under circumstances more flattering than the most optimistic had dared anticipate, the revival of professional base ball was accomplished in Omaha Saturday afternoon. More than 2,500 people occupied the commodious grandstand and sat upon the bleachers in the new ball park, out at Vinton street. They clapped their hands, stamped their feet and panted the air with a great air demonstration and their joy knew no bounds when the finale of the game was reached. The first inning was largely a matter of routine, the home team being largely instrumental for this trio of scores.

"Keep your newspaper reputation," shouted an urchin to the lengthy manipulator of the spheroid, and there was trepidation on the face of the man who had been so largely instrumental for this trio of scores. Hughes rode down the line of scores.

Incident to the opening game there was a parade, and what a parade! It was the most brilliant and colorful ever witnessed in Omaha. The parade was headed by the city band, followed by the various clubs and organizations of the city. The parade was a great success and was enjoyed by all who witnessed it.

Just Before the Game.

Just before the game started an interesting ceremony took place. The mayor of Omaha, J. W. Pendergast, presided over the ceremony. He presented the ball to the players and wished them good luck. The ceremony was a great success and was enjoyed by all who witnessed it.

Herman a Little Bit Shy

Major Moore caught a brand new ball tossed him by the umpire, "Bill" Traylor, who walked leisurely to the pitcher's box. He threw it over the plate, and in response to the plaudits of the multitude repeated the performance. Then he retired in favor of a strapping big fellow with blonde hair, whom the crowd recognized by consulting their score cards to be P. H. Herron, of the Saints. There was something suggestive in the name. Was he to prove himself a descendant of the great mystifier? Subsequent events proved no relationship existing.

THE SIMPLEST CURE FOR INDIGESTION.

As Well as the Safest and Cheapest. The new medical discovery, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, digest the food instead of making the worn-out stomach do all the work, give it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result. You get nourishment and rest at the same time, because these tablets will thoroughly digest all wholesome food taken into the stomach whether it strikes out every nerve. A cure is certain to result because the digestive organs are given a chance to rest and recover their natural vigor and tone. The tablets are then no longer required. To show the manner in which the remedy acts on different parts of the stomach and effectually it cures stomach troubles, we present a few cases.
