JUDGE AND THE ICE TRUST

Barrett of the New York Bench Tells How He Held Stock in the Tammany Concern.

(Copyright, 1900, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, June 15 .- (New York World Cablegram-Special Telegram)-Justice George Barrett, when asked today, explained without a moment's hesitation how his name came to be included among the stockholders of the ice trust.

"I am not a stockholder now," he sad "and have not been since some time toward the end of last year. A few months before that Judge Morgan O'Brien told me that if I wished it he would share with me an option he had on 200 shares of preferred stock, carrying with them as a bonus 200 shares of common stock of the ice company which, he said, should pay a fair dividend. accepted the offer and gave my check for $10,000 for 100 shares of the stock.

"I knew practically nothing of the company, but went into it on the assurance that it was a safe dividend paying concern. I did get a dividend out of it and then sold out for reasons of my own. I made a profit of about $600 on the transaction simply by means of the bonus of the common stock. The stock which I held I duly paid for "

"But your name, judge, still anteurs in the list of stockholders," said the correspondent.

judge answered, "as I completed the sale a conference of an hour's duration Dunabut maybe my stock has changed hands tin and was sworn in as premier this again, perhaps more than once, and the afternoon. Mr. Dunsmuir will form a cabiformal transfer from my name has not been net on non-partisan lines.

completed. Anyway, I hold no stock in the ice trust now nor have I since last year. I was neither led to expect nor did I realized on any but a moderate profit on my investment.

"These are the facts so far as I am con I know about the ice trust."
