ATTEND
BOYLES

COMMERCIAL AND SHORTHAND
COLLEGE,
BEE BUILDING.
The school in which the leading business men are interested.

Students are now being rapidly enrolled for the summer term and soon the desks will all be taken. If you are undecided where to go select this reliable school and you will not be disappointed. A number have already enrolled to begin tomorrow. Join ntending students are invited to call and see our equipment and special facilities for the rapid training of first-class aten-ographers and bookkeepers. Ask to see list of positions filled by our graduates during the past month. Results speak louder than advertisements.

INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION.

Personal attention and instruction is one o the distinguishing characteristics of this school. Every individual student receives personal ald and oncouragement from the proprietor and teachers.

SHORTHAND SYSTEM.

What system of shorthand shall I learn?"
That is a question to be settled in the mind of everyone who has decided to become a stenographer. While scores of systems have been invented a large majority of the best writers use the Graham. Do not experiment with untried systems Look about you and see what system is used by court reporters and the best amendensis writers. Do not permit yourself to be deluded by some flaming advertisement that Mr. A of New York or Mr. B of San Francisco, or Mr. C of New Orleans acquired a speed of 209 words a minute in two or three months' time by studying some "greased lightning" system.

This last paragraph is a clipping from a commercial college catalogue, dated 1899-1909, that has suddenly come to the conclu-sion that the Graham system is out-of the management of this school is privileged The management of this school is privileged to teach any system it desires. There is no institution that has the exclusive right to teach any one system. Students who are interested should investigate very thoroughly, and by writing or calling at the college unbiased and unprejudiced information will be given them by shorthand writers and reporters of long experience. After an explanation of the merits of different systems the student will be permitted to adopt the system that he deems bost.

Since the list of January more inquiries have come to this school as to whether or not the Pitman and Graham systems are taught than ever before in its history.

INVESTIGATE.

The slightest investigation among reporters and amenuensis of ability will result in one or the other of these systems being recommended and any school that tries to build up another system at the expense of these does it for personal gain. Students who adopt either one of these valuable and long-tested systems cannot fall of success. The textbooks have been reduced to such a science that these systems are also "easy to learn, easy to write and easy to read" when properly taught.

TOUCH TYPEWRITING. Apply for catalogue and college journal.
