It is claimed that the heavy track beat both of these colts in the Derby. Today the track was fast and the youngsters had a battle royal. Brulare made the pace to the stretch, then Sam Phillips went to the front and looked like a winner at the eighth bost, but Vitatoe brought Advance Guard up next to the rall, and although Burns made the hole as small as he dared to Advance Guard squeezed through and in a terrific drive won by a head. The race appears to indicate that the colts are about evenly matched up to a mile and a six-teenth, but that Advance Guard is the bel-ter at a further distance. Trainer Walker, however, thinks Sam Phillips does not like the Washington park track.

Illustrated from Photographs Taken by Mr. Horton,

R. HORTON has taken for his theme the thrilling events in Crete leading to the Cretan rebellion, and eventually to the Greco-Turkish war. The author has related the events that followed the shooting of the British marines, and has portrayed with a graphic pen the terrible deeds of murder, rapine and arson carried on by the Bashi Bazouks in their desperate and fiendish desire to wipe out the Christians; how homes were entered and innocent women and children ruthlessly slaughtered or made to witness the murder and desecration of those held dear, is told with a realism that compels the reader to say with the author, "and this is The Unspeakable Turk." Mr. Horton's qualifications for writing this story are such that we can rely upon his statements of fact. He was for six years United States consul at Athens and visited Canea the day following these massacres. Mr. Horton made a close study of the language and conditions, habits and customs of the

Its Own Particular Sphere. We insist that such a party, agreed upon this principal policy, having sober leader-ship, without any obligation for success to the saloon vote and to those demoralizing political combinations of men and money now allled therewith and suppliant thereto, could successfully cope with all other and all lesser problems of government, in legis-lative halls and in the executive chair, and that it is useless for any party to make declarations in its platform as to questions concerning which there may be serious dif-ferences of opinion in its own membership and as to which, because of such differ-ences, the party could legislate only on a basis of mutual concessions when coming into power.

positions in the boat. Columbia has, more-over, improved greatly, and the higher running of the shell has given the 'varity boat more speed and made it steadler. Pennsylvania 'varity, on the contrary, is not so steady as last year, but it indisput-ably put the shell through the water at a great rate and with little checking. Cor-nell's boat is a decided improvement over last year's 'varity. It is following faster without any checking and the men seem to have the lasting qualities which they lacked to a lamentable degree last year. O'Dea's aggregation of westerners are pulling a prettier stroke than last year, but it is a question whether it is as fast a one. The stroke is a triffe shorter than the one Me-Conville taught last year. O'Dea believes the boat is stronger and faster because of its greater steadiness and thinks his crow basis of mutual concessions when coming into power. We submit that the democratic and re-publican parties are alike insincere in their assumed policy to trusts and monopolics. The dare not and do not attack the most dangerous of them all, the liquer power. So long as the subon debauches the citizen and breeds the purchasable voter money will continue to buy its way to power. Break down this traffic, elevite manhood and a sober citizenship will find a way to control dangerous combinations of capital. We purpose as a first step in the finan-cial problems of the nation to save more than $1.000,000,000 every year now annually expended to support the liquer traffic and to demoralize our people. When that is ac-complished conditions will have so im-proved that with a clearer atmosphere the country can address itself to the questions as to the kind and quantity of currency needed. the boat is stronger and faster because o its greater steadiness and thinks his crea #### wildest enthuslasm. Declares for Woman's Suffrage.

"I have another resolution recommended by the committee on resolutions." said Prof. Hopkins. He then read the following:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the right of ballot shall not be denied any citizen on account of sex. It was evident that leaving the woman uffrage plank out of the platform was distasteful to many delegates and when Mrs. Beauchamp, president of the Women's Christian Temperance union of Kentucky took the platform to advocate an equal suffrage plank she was wildly applauded. A picture of Frances E. Willard, which hung over the speaker's stand, had fallen down during the afternoon recess. It had not been replaced. Mrs. Beauchamp referred to its 'removal" and in an instant a very respectable row was on.

"I protest against such shameful instnuations. It fell down," yelled one excited male delegate.

"Put it up again!" shouted another. It was hung up behind the speaker's deak, but this did not satisfy the delegates and the convention did not become quiet until the portrait had been hung from the gallery. After considerable discussion a rising vote was called for and the platform and additional resolution favoring woman suffrag adopted by a practically unanimous vote and amid a tempest of cheers. Some delegates started, "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds," and the whole assemblage joined in a thunderous song of praise to the Almighty, even the throngs in the gallery taking up the old hymn. The convention then adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Albert P. Glick of the Sherman Avenue Line Forced to Deliver.

Two young men at the terminus of the Sherman avenue car line, shortly after midnight last night, relieved Conductor Albert P. Glick of $17 belonging to the company and a gold watch.

Glick's train was making the last trip for the night and had just switched at Thirtyfifth and Ames avenue when the young men boarded the trailer. The conductor, while standing on the running board of the trailer, signalled Motorman W. A. Bauer to go ahead. As soon as he had started the holdups drew revolvers on Glick and forced him from the car. They rifled his pockets money and valuables and then escaped to the west. The motorman, ignorant of what had happence, kept on until he reached the car barns at Twenty-fourth and Ames avenue, where his attention was called to the absence of the conductor. The train was immediately sont back to find the missing man and he was met about half way, uninjured but wrathful. He was able to give a fairly good description of the holdups to
