IN THE WHEELING WORLD.

The performance of Miss Margaret Gast of New York in riding 1,000 miles in 114 hours, on the roads of Long Island, ranks as a remarkable test of the physical strength of a woman. No matter how one may view the folly and uselessness of the performance, the fact that the feat was accomplished without serious harm affords gratifying evidence of the value of athletic training among young women. Miss Gast came out of the ordeal in good condition, her only unpleasant feeling being extreme drowsiness. Out of the 114 hours she slept only ten hours and fifteen minutes. "There was a physical reason why I succeeded," she explained to a reporter, "and that, I am sure, was because I have all my life been an inveterate dancer. In the little hamlet of Druggendorf, Bavaria, where I was born and lived until seven years ago, dancing is not considered an accomplishment. Girls learn to dance as they learn to walk—not as you girls in America do, but as they dance in the halls at the theaters on their toes. We do all sorts of fancy skirt dances in Bavaria and think nothing of prouetting on the toes of one foot all over a big ballroom floor—and then on the toes of the other foot, and so on for hours at a time. But we didn't dance with our feet and legs alone. "My thousand-mile ride did not tire me at all. I can truthfully say I was not tired one moment of the entire time, because no unused muscles were brought into play." Miss Gast is 23 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches in height and weighs 124 pounds.

than $100,000 will be distributed among the leading riders. This is proof enough of the growing popularity of bike racing. Last year nearly $100,000 was devoted to professional racing and this year the outlook is much more promising than it was last season, for there are no squabbles going on between rival organizations. What is reckoned upon as the great element of the increasing popularity this year is the fact that many of the famous riders of a few years ago are going to be on the circuit again. If they turn out, then the racing will in all likelihood be a great success. Such riders as Michael, Cooper, Bail and others are always attractive as long as they ride to win. But all the money in the land will not sustain the popularity of the sport if the races are not conducted in the proper manner and if the best riders do not win. It is interesting to note that the time was when about 2,000 riders were making their living by riding the bicycle. There will not be as many this year, but there will be ample to make all the racing that the public desires to see. There will be many new "stars" and there is certain to be lots of curiosity among the public to see who is to be the best of the lot. The most notable exhibition of pique and good riding seen on a bicycle track in New York state was given at Manhattan Beach Saturday last week by W. A. Ladue of Cold Springs, N. Y. In an unlimited pursuit race between the three-men teams of four clubs Ladue wore down nine of the twelve men on the track. He rode alone for more than seventeen miles against the remnants of other teams and finally the last two mates of the Kings County Wheelmen, who were, of course, taking turns plying. He was in the lead from the start and was gaining on the last two riders when the strain began to tell. For three laps he lost slightly and then, after having ridden a total of twenty-two miles and one lap, he toppled from his wheel and rolled helplessly on the track. He was soon revived. Ladue is a young man who last year won the League of American Wheelmen state championship at a mile and finished third in the national championship point race. The reappearance of Major Taylor, the colored cyclist, in the game will tend to increase the interest in record-breaking trials, for it is a well known fact that the dusky-hued peddler is very fond of riding against time and when he starts out something is bound to drop. He has lowered many records and from all available data at hand it may be believed that he has not yet lost his cunning nor his speed. If Taylor starts after records it will be up to Stevens, McDuffie, McFarland, Cooper and several other aspirants for honors to fall into line behind the big machine and do their utmost to discount the best performance of the colored one. Entry blanks for the races to be held in connection with the twenty-first annual meet of the League of American Wheelmen, which will be held in Milwaukee July 10-15, are now ready for distribution and can be had upon application to G. Auessem, chairman of the race meet committee, 207 Grand avenue, Milwaukee, Wis. Entries positively close at noon Saturday, July 7. Entrance fee will be $1 for each event. That there may be no dispute regarding positions in trial and final heats, the race meet committee has made arrangements to have every finish photographed. "Winners by inches" are thus assured of getting all they earn. The race will be held on the new nine-lap board track, constructed especially for this meet at the Exposition building. This track, it is believed, will prove to be the fastest in the world and special inducements will be offered in these races for the establishment of competition records. The trial heats in each day's contests will be run in the morning of that day, commencing promptly at 9 o'clock, the semi-finals will be run in the afternoon, commencing promptly at 2 o'clock, and the finale in the evening at 8 o'clock sharp. The track will be open for training purposes the week commencing July 3, only to those who have entered the races and upon presentation of contestant's ticket. The Exposition building is within easy walking distance from any of the hotels and can be reached by any of the electric lines. The right to reject any or all entries is reserved. The program for the four days' racing, with prizes awarded in each event, follows: Professional—One-third mile, national championship—$150, $75, $25. Two-mile handicap—$100, $50, $20, $10.
