The Omahas signalized their return home from their disastrous tour about the circuit by winning the first game of the series with Sloux City by a score of 2 to 1. The exhibition was one that gave the pessimistic prognosticator who was prepared to witness a continued slide of the former champions no opportunity to dolefully remark, "I told you so." On the contrary, the big crowd of loyal enthusiasts, who still anchor their faith in Captain Jack O'Connell's aggregation, was accorded ample reason for renewed hope, for the game was a red-hot, enthusiasm-inspiring contest from start to finish. Buoyed up by the cordiality of the welcome given them, the Colts played in their old-time championship form and not an error crept into their fielding operations. There were ginger, snap and vinegar in the playing of your uncle Bill Rourke's collection of base ball exponents on this occasion, even though the boys were a trifle discouraged over the horrible run of ill luck that has been their meed for the past two weeks. Every man-jack of them played ball like a veteran and with the outfield strengthened by the addition of two new players, replacing McVicker and Ferris, who are on the sick list, the team is in shape ence more to regain its old place at the head of the column.

New Men Show Up Well.

The new men appearing in yesterday's game were Waller and Wright. Both had joined the team but a few hours before the game and each had just finished a long tailroad journey, Waller coming from Salt Lake and Wright from Youngstown, O. Those who knew of their long, tiresome railroad journeys could not help but appreciate that they were fatigued and worn out, but they didn't show it in their work on the diamond. Waller covered left field in a manner par excellence and Wright was not a whit behind him, succeeding also in appropriating a couple of splendid hits. Captain Jack O'Connell was in the game again and was warmly greeted. He distinguished himself by playing his usually good game, covering the initial bag splendidly and giving an excellent account of himself at the bat.

The good playing in this opening contest was by no means confined to the frisky Colts. Jack Glasscock had a different kind of a team from that which represented Sioux City on their former visit here and the victory won was gained from worthy won. While but four hits were made off him, he was as wild as the varying wind and issued eight free passes. That none of these gifts profited the Indians was entirely due to the snappy work of the field. In five innings as many double plays were made by the Colts and one of the victims in each of these was a Sloux to whom Tommy had generously doled out a free ride

Sionx Make First Run.

The first run of the game was made by the Sloux in the third inning. After Parvin had been cut off at first through the joint efforts of Stub Toman and the captain, Hallman landed on the horsehide for a long drive which spared away out in middle field. D Wright made a commendable effort to get Score: in, but it escaped his clutches and Hallman cantered around to second. McCreadie, immediately following, caught the infection, and he, too, landed on one of Tommy's projections. The ball cut the air above Tommy Hoy's head and was sighted by Waller, but the Mormon couldn't eatch up with it and it alighted in a safe spot, bounding so far that McCreadle had time to reach third. Of course Hallman had improved the golden opportunity to score, chalking up the first and only tally the Sioux captured. Brashear flew out to Hoy and Houtz walloped the breeze with three unavailing lunges, so McCreadle's three-bagger proved but an aggravation to his overweening desire to score,

When the Colts Got Busy.

The Colts were blanked until the sixth Then they rose up in their might and there was some doings. Not many, but enough to tie the score and arouse the enthusiasm of Omaha fandom, which has been lying dormant for all these days. Joe Wright Pueblo base ball experience as a good hitter by driving out a nice single, his second in the game. Mobile Lauzen swallowed a half plue of tobacco and strode to the bat with an ominous gleam in his eye. Mobile had once before in the game landed on "Bonsey" Parvin for a single and that, too, when he led off the inning. He full aggricved that his fine chance for a run had been spoiled by three rapid successive outs and he determined that the newcomer, Joe Wright, should not be so discourteously treated. So he once more brought the willow in contact Pittsburg Gives Nops a Warm Welwith the leather, spinning it beyond second base and advancing Wright to third. A long fly by Captain Jack to left field dis posed of him, but on the throw-in Wright crossed the rubber and the score was tied. Lauzon was cut off by Berte while attempting to purlein second and "Reb" flew out to

Out of a Small Hole.

From that point the struggle continued to be a most exciting one. In the eighth the Sloux came so near taking the lead that more than one heart leaped to the throat of an Omaha fan. Brashear singled and stole second before Houtz was extended the compliments of Tommy Hughes along with a pass to first. Glasscock sacrificed, advancing both Brashear and Houtz. It looked bad for the locals. Brashear on third and only one hit. At this juncture Mormon Waller stepped in and made one of the prettiest plays of the day, establishing himself a high place in the affections of the multitude. Niles stopped one of Tommy's offerings and placed it nicely just over Hoy's head. It looked for certain like a safety, but "Old Hoss" Waller sprinted up under it, clasped it for a moment and fired it over to O'Rourke on second, cutting off Houtz, who had played

Malt Nutrine is essential to the weak and til, and equally beneficial to the well. The fact that the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n prepares it is a guarantee of its merit. Sold by all long way off in the conviction that Niles y would be a safety.

The Colts won the struggle in the last alf of the ninth. Lauren went out at first and O'Conneil made a beautiful single. When Rebsamen went down to first because l'arvin hit him with a ball the captain adanced to second. Then did Jimmy Toman o the thing most needful by lining out a TWO NEW FACES ADDED TO THE TEAM safe hit, which permitted O'Connell to reach he goal with the winning run. Score;

Indians acquitted themselves with credit, the two errors challed up against Houtz being the only ones of the game and these were both well nigh excusable. Parvin pitched a steady game and was supported excellently.

Tommy Hughes was in the box for the locals and Tommy has reason to give credit to his admirable support that the game was won. While but four hits were made.

A two-bagger, a sacrifice and two errors gave them the two in the fourth; two doubles and three singles made the three in the sixth and two bases on balls and a single one more in the ninth. Pueblo got two in the fourth on two doubles and two singles. In the remainder of the game Glade was a puzzle to them. Pitcher Johnson was accidentally spiked by Thiel in the eighth and had to leave the game. CHICAGO, July 11.—Rookmakers at the Washington park track have lost thousands of dollars through a swindling scheme that came to light today. The chief factor in the scheme is under arrest and has named two men as his confederates.

All of the pool tickets used at the track are made by a downtown tirm in this city and today Irwin Appel, one of their employes, was placed under arrest on the charge of stealing tickets and using them for the purpose of defrauding bookmakers at the track. After being locked up he confessed and named C. R. Robsell and R. Leavitt, both well known at the track, as his accomplices. The plan was to watch for the issuing of tickets and then making out a duplicate, rush to the bookmaker as soon as the race was finished and cash in before the holder of the actual ticket could get around.

It is impossible to form an estimate of how large the operations have been, but one bookmaking firm, known as the Frisco club, has been the heaviest loser, and it is said that it alone is out several thousand Hit Bookmakers in New Way.
