"The Isle of the Winds" is a romance of Scotland and the West Indies in the seventeenth century by S. R. Crockett.

"Sweepers of the Sea. The Story of a Strange Navy," by Claude H. Westmore, is a romance somewhat after the Stevenson style.

Laughing and the world laughing delightfully with him, Robert J. Burdette has for many years entertained us. His keen insight into the frailties, fun and folly of the world and his good-natured comment thereon have charmed us all.

Mr. Meynell in writing "John Ruskin" has rendered a lasting service to the friends and admirers of the great master of English prose.

L. W. De Laurence, a professional hypnotist, has written a book that will no doubt interest many. Under the title "Hypnotism" he has included practically all that is known in the art and practice of mesmerism and mental healing.

Small, Maynard & Co. deserve a great deal of credit for that most excellent series of little books which they are bringing out under the title of "Beacon Biographies."

Stephen Decatur was the most conspicuous figure in the naval history of the United States for the hundred years between Paul Jones and Farragut.

"George" is the title of a neat little volume by E. S. Kiser. George represents the Chicago variety of bad boy and belongs to the species which has received some instruction in education, and is therefore rather more malignant than Chinmie Fadden and less sentimental than Tony Drum.

"The Age of Elizabeth" is a phrase synonymous with the most brilliant and most educated of our forefathers.

"The Apostles' Creed: An Analysis of Its Claims, with Reference to Their Credibility," by Archibald Hopkins is written from the standpoint of a layman, who does not accept without qualification some of the dogmas regarded as quite essential by the Christian church.

"The Devil Unmasked," by the Little Deacon, is a kind of latter-day "Merrim's Progress."

"Foreign Missions of the Protestant Churches," by Walter Spencer, is a little volume that will be read with pleasure by laymen and theologians who desire a clear and straightforward statement of the differences between the old and new theology.

"Back to Christ: Some Modern Forms of Religious Thought," by Walter Spencer, is a little volume that will be read with pleasure by laymen and theologians who desire a clear and straightforward statement of the differences between the old and new theology.

"Problems of Expansion," As Considered in the Past and Present, by Ronald MacDonald, The Century Co., Price, $1.50.

"The Monk and the Beggar" by Arthur Colette Smith, has gone into its second edition at Charles Scribner's Sons.

Fleming H. Revell & Co. are bringing out a new edition of "Village Life in China," by Arthur H. Smith, who is now a missionary at Pang Chung, near Tien Tsin, the storm center of the present hostilities.

Rev. L. H. Schwab, rector of the Church of the Intercession of New York City, has translated for G. P. Putnam's Sons Frederick Niebold's "The History of Catholicism Since the Council of Trent."

The above books are for sale by the Megath Stationery Co., 1308 Farnam street.

STOP PAY OF DETECTIVES

School Board Restrained from Reimbursing Sleuths for Their Services.

INUNCTION PROCEEDINGS ARE BROUGHT

Complainants Assert that the Matter Was Never Brought Before the Board, but Was the Work of Individual Members.

Injunction proceedings have been begun by G. G. Irely, formerly a member of the school board, in Judge Keyser's court, seeking to stop the payment of $851.25 granted by the board at its last meeting to a detective agency of Chicago.

In their petition Mr. Irely and his associates as taxpayers object to paying for an indebtedness incurred in investigating the acts of the incumbents of a public office.

Members of the board frankly expressed their surprise at Mr. Irely's action, but admitted that they were not fully informed whether they could exceed an expenditure of $200 without a contract or not.

Member Robert Smith, who sat as one of the board of investigators, said in testifying the cost of the investigation to the school board we felt that we were taking a legal and proper course.

HAD NO INTENTION TO DEFRAUD.

Alexander Buchanan Says He Was Acting in Good Faith.

J. Alexander Buchanan stands in the line of the New York Tribune, and in Judge Keyser's court yesterday to prove that he had acted in good faith in his dealing with Mrs. Kunigunde Richter.

"While you were assuring Mrs. Richter that the lot was gift-edged property and easily worth $1,000 had you yourself just purchased it from A. C. Carter for $200?"

"The testimony was concluded during the afternoon and was postponed to the court in the afternoon.

COMPANY MUST PAY ITS TAXES

Judgment Given for the City in a Suit Against St. Paul Concern.

Another personal tax case was won yesterday morning in Justice Learn's court. The St. Paul Plover company, which was formerly located in Omaha, failed to pay its taxes for the years 1904 and 1905, and moved to St. Paul, where it assigned to a man named Powers, City Attorney Connell brought attachment on a claim of $200 which the Northcut Agricultural Implement company owned the St. Paul company.

The law holds both maker and circulator of a counterfeit equally guilty. The dealer who sells you a dangerous counterfeit of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is just as guilty as the manufacturer.

CRITICISE CITY FATHERS

Members of the Southwest Improvement Club Censure Councilmen for Condition of Streets.

SCHLICK TIRES OF LIVING

His Dead Body Found Underneath the Union Pacific Bridge.

Members of the city council were severely censured by the Southwest Improvement club at the meeting last night. The occasion of the trouble was the condition of the streets between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-seventh south of Leavenworth where the sidewalks have been washed out by the recent heavy rains and have not been replaced.

It was finally decided to authorize E. F. Murray to appeal to the mayor and the club will visit the council in a body at its meeting in committee of the whole Monday afternoon.

SCHLICK TIRES OF LIVING

His Dead Body Found Underneath the Union Pacific Bridge.

NO DOUBT THAT HE COMMITTED SUICIDE

He Had Seen Service in the Regular Army and Was an Old Resident of Omaha.

Edward Schlick, watchman for the City Garbage company, committed suicide Tuesday by shooting himself just below the bridge with a pistol. The body was found yesterday morning underneath the Union Pacific bridge at the foot of Mason street.

Frederick William Edward Schlick, the father of thirteen children, was born in Germany in 1844 and came to this country twenty years later, whereupon he at once enlisted in the United States volunteer service.

Three of his sons are working and making money to support the family. Three of his oldest children are married and living away from home.

The body is now at the undertaking rooms of the coroner. The matter of holding an inquest has not been determined as yet.

MAY DECIDE NEXT SATURDAY

Permanent Location of Woodmen of the World Headquarters to Be Taken Up Then.

The board of sovereign managers of the Woodmen of the World is in session at the headquarters of the order. The board is composed of A. C. Fine, P. A. Falkenberg, Buren H. Sherman of Vinton, Ia., C. K. Erwin of Chippewa Falls, Wis., C. C. Farmer of Mt. Carroll, Ill., and Iphig Truesdell of Port Huron, Mich.

Saturday there will be a meeting of the building committee appointed by the sovereign grand lodge, which will pass upon the question of permanent location of the sovereign camp. This committee is composed of A. C. Fine, P. A. Falkenberg, Denver, sovereign advisor, and John T. Yates of Omaha, sovereign clerk.

In the contest for the location of the permanent headquarters of the most powerful competitor of Omaha will be Columbus. O. The sovereign grand lodge meets there next May, and it is believed that strong efforts will be made at that time to have the sovereign camp moved to that place unless the building committee makes a decision at the meeting next Saturday.

A gentleman recently cured of dyspepsia gave the following appropriate line of Burns' famous blessing: "Some have meat and cannot eat, and some have meat and want it; but we have meat and we can eat."

BROKE STOCK YARDS RECORD

Tuesday's Receipts the Heaviest in the History of the South Omaha Yards.

Tuesday's phenomenal run of live stock at the South Omaha yards broke all records.

Previous to that time the largest number of cars received in any one day was 110 on June 12, 1906, and the nearest approach to that figure was 495 cars on October 3, 1899.

Receipts figured up Tuesday 531 cars, or 27,173 head of cattle, hogs, sheep and horses, which raises the record considerably.

Department Disappointed. Station D of the Omaha postoffice is a thing of the future, so far distant that no one can foretell its coming.

Anxious to Have Work Done. The veto of the ordinance providing for the paving of Lafayette avenue between Fourth and the Fort-second street is a source of considerable anxiety among property owners who are anxious to have the work done.

Pianos Can Be Bought

Within a few dollars of cost if you know the way to go about it. First of all go to the best and oldest established house (which would naturally be the most reliable), and consult them as to your intended purchase, and you will find that they will do better than any one else.
