DEMOCRATS ARE DISGUSTED

Douglas County's Unterrified Turned Down Hard at Lincoln Convention.

POPULISTS, TOO, ARE DISSATISFIED

Only Plum Doled Out at the Three-Ringed Circus Fell Into the Basket Held by the Silver Republicans.

"Douglas county's numerous delegations to the three-ringed convention in Lincoln did not bring back any very substantial peace offerings to lay at the feet of their constituents," remarked a populist who had not yet recouped himself for the loss of sleep at the convention and was therefore in a proper humor to reflect the prevailing sentiment among fusionists of Douglas county.

"When I think of the achievements of our county at the conventions I cannot help recalling the illustrious general with 5,000 men who marched up the hill and down again. We sent down 105 populists to a convention of 1,226 delegates. We sent two delegations of eighty-eight men each to a convention of 1,023 democrats, and Douglas county men comprised the biggest portion of the silver republican convention. The populist delegation took down with it a gubernatorial term old enough to merit some recognition, and a young and vigorous candidacy for the attorney generalship. The democracy took down the aspirations of some of their leaders, Joseph A. Cannon, to be one of the electors, and the silver republicans lugged along a lusty boom of the name of Frank Ransom. Thus marched the army up the hill to do battle for a share of the spoils that would appear at the anti-Poynett settlement here at home."

EVERY MAD AND DISGUSTED.
The democrats came home empty-handed, mad and disgusted. So did the populists, while the only plus out of the well-filled fruit basket that few toward Douglas county fell into the little basket concealed among the effects of the silver republicans. This will be a great satisfaction to the two or three score silver republicans in the country, but it will hardly heal the sore spots among the democrats and populists, or arrest the vicious usurpation that has promised a material sloughing off from the fusion vote on the state ticket.

"It has been suggested, with apparent

EAST BECOMING INTERESTED

Commercial Interests Working for the Irrigation of Arid Lands.

POLITICAL PARTIES ENDORSE PLAN

Promoters of the Scheme to Reclaim Land Now Worthless Encouraged by the Success with Which They Are Meeting.

George H. Maxwell of Chicago, the irrigation expert, is in Omaha enroute to a meeting of the executive committee of the National Irrigation Association at Cheyenne, of which he is chairman. Mr. Maxwell is feeling much encouraged over the prospect for the accomplishment of the work, in the promotion of which he has long been engaged, when it is the unanimous opinion of the irrigators of the headwaters of western rivers in which to catch surplus rainfall, thus preventing floods and permitting its gradual distribution for irrigation purposes over now waste and arid government land.

Congress will be asked at its next session to appropriate from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 for the construction of reservoirs, following the plan contemplated in the recent appropriation of $100,000 for the necessary preliminary surveys. Renewed confidence in the accomplishment of the project is inspired by the fact that planks are found favoring it in three of the recently adopted political party platforms. The republican convention at Philadelphia last week and the democratic national convention in St. Louis, Chicago and the great centers of commerce and finance, heartily endorsing the project, promising it their earnest, active support and sending their members fees in the National Irrigation association. This promotive work will be carried into all the principal cities of the west and within a short time a million documents a month will be sent eastward to irrigators.

"This time he is no longer looked upon as a western scheme to benefit only the west, although some of the western congressmen for a time made the mistake of pleading for it as a concession to the west. It is now recognized as a national measure, hardly more beneficial to the west than to any other section."

EARLIER THAN WAS EXPECTED

Sixteenth Street Viaduct Will Be Opened for Traffic Sunday Morning.

The Sixteenth street viaduct will be completed one day earlier than was expected and will be thrown open to travel Sunday morning. All the South Omaha street cars will resume travel on Sixteenth street Sunday. The asphalt paving at the south end of the viaduct is almost completed, but will probably not be ready for use until Monday.

The Furnas machine requires several men to operate it and carts and men follow the machine to pick up the sweepings it dumps. The Eureka gutter sweepers, to be used in connection with the suction machine, also require several men.

COLORED FOLK DEFY HOODOO

Knights and Daughters of Tabor Invade Mr. Bryan's Municipality.

THEIR ANNUAL OUTING THE OCCASION

Only Unfortunate Incident Connected with the Start that of a Venerable Deacon, Who Got Left.

One hundred and fifty men and women representatives of the cities of local colored people and friends of colored people, from the union depot yesterday, when at 5:30, the crowd surged through the gates to the train tracks and bearded three special cars on the Rock Island. It was the occasion of the annual outing of the Knights and Daughters of Tabor, and the excursion was bound for Lincoln.

No happier, more joyful crowd ever set out upon a picnic excursion. The picnickers began to assemble early in the morning, hours before the time scheduled for the departure of the train. No false note entered in to jar the harmony of the affair. Gay laughter resounded through the big corridors of the depot and the pleasures of the day began from the moment the first arrivals reached the depot with huge lunch baskets, cold salads, sandwiches, pickings, glasses of beer, feasting later in the day.

Not even the fact that the day was Friday and the date the 13th was permitted to mar the anticipations of a delightful outing. The only one who took cognizance of the baneful circumstance was an old deacon, who almost tumbled down the marble flight of stairs leading to the train tracks in his haste to catch the train. But he was too late, and the train bearing the happy excursionists was already crossing the bridge when he appeared at the gate. J. S. McNally offered the comforting suggestion that it was after all a pretty unlucky combination of circumstances, Friday and the 13th at that, and the belated traveler expressed his sympathy.

Building Permits.
The city inspector of buildings has issued the following permits:

Mr. C. N. Deitz, Florence boulevard, two-story frame dwelling, $2,000; C. N. Deitz, Thirty-eighth and Dewey avenues, frame barn, $3,000; alterations to dwellings.

ing the depot guard, located the missing pants and sent its frightened owner on his way rejoicing.

Charlie Rutherford, general agent of the Rock Island passenger department, accompanied by a potent rabbi's foot, a flaring red badge bearing the insignia of the order giving the picnic, and one of his most pleasant smiles, chaperoned the party to Lincoln, determined that nothing should be overlooked that would enhance the pleasure of the journey for his most appreciative passengers.

ROBBED BY HIS FRIEND

John Brink Relieved of His Money by a New Found Acquaintance.

When John Brink awoke Thursday morning he found himself lying on a bunch of straw in a box car near the Webster street depot. By his side was a purse with the leather freshly slit as with a sharp knife. The pocket he discovered that his razor was also missing. Then, realizing what had happened to him, he went to the police station and told his story.

"I had $12 in money," said he, "and no job. I thought I'd go to St. Paul to look for work. I was on my way to the union depot to take the train when I fell in with a fellow who seemed to be very friendly, though I'd never seen him before. I told him where I was going, and he said:

"Come with me to the Webster street depot and I'll show you how you can go to St. Paul and it won't cost you nothing."

I went with him. We climbed into a box car and I guess I must have fallen asleep. Anyhow, when I came to my senses the fellow was gone and so was my money and my razor. The money was in a trick purse and he could open it, so he cut it open with my razor."

As Brink gave a good description of the police are now looking for him.

Fight to Possess Child.

MARYVILLE, Mo., July 13.—(Special.)—Rev. Father Anselm, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, here, received a call from 11-year-old Irene Mary Lawless, who had, to all practical purposes, been abducted from the sisters of St. Joseph's hospital in Maryville.

Charles Lawless, while working in the Indian Territory several years ago married a half-breed Indian woman by whom he had this child. Six years ago the mother died and the child was given into the keeping of the sisters. A short time ago she was taken by two of the sisters to Lyons, Neb., to visit relatives of her father. While there a brother of her mother at Pender, himself a half-breed whose name is not known, asked her to visit him and she was allowed to go. After getting the child into his possession the Pender man, who is lawyer, had his law partner, who is probate judge of Thurston county, appoint him her guardian, and refused to give her up. Father Anselm and the child's father, now a resident of Ponca, Arthur Tamm, sent for and secured a writ of habeas corpus. It is understood that the principal reason why the child is in such demand is that her Indian blood entitles her to eighty acres of land somewhere in the Territory.

NEGREN IS BROUGHT BACK

Says He Could Not Pay the Fee Demanded for His Defense and Decided to Leave.

In charge of two deputy United States marshals from Washington and accompanied by Postoffice Inspector A. O. Swift, J. F. Negren was brought back from New York yesterday.

Negren is the young man who left town under charges of using canceled postage stamps for the transmission of letters and who was arrested as a fugitive from justice by the New York authorities. Before Commissioner Anderson he told the reason for his flight from Omaha as follows:

"When I was released, pending examination, I went to a young lawyer and consulted with him. He offered him a fee which he seemed to think too small, and he told me that I had done well and had made his trial a success. When I came to my senses the trial was gone and so was my money and my razor. The money was in a trick purse and he could open it, so he cut it open with my razor."

Negren left so hurriedly that he did not take time to draw funds from the bank and was penniless when discovered. He was bound over in the sum of $1,000 to appear before the grand jury. Bond was furnished.
