Edwin Grant Jackson is Taken from Illa Mother's Arms After a Stormy Scene in Court.

The prolonged struggle for the porsession of Edwin Grant Jackson, 14 years old, was ended in Judge Keysor's court yesterday, the father, Edwin Jackson, securing an order of court for the custedy of the boy. Mr. for her. Jackson asked the court that the boy's mother, Mrs. Charles Kelpin, be cited for contempt and that his son be sent back to the grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Harte of Be atrice, Neb. Judge Keysor ruled, however. that the grandmother had allowed young Jackson to leave her custody and that ac cording to the original decree of divorce it was the father's right to take the child.

The boy is yours, why don't you take him?" asked the court of Mr. Jakson. The boy was clinging to his mother's dress and "I tried to take him once, judge," exelaimed Jackson, excitedly, "when the mother stepped between us and then called a policeman. Judge Keysor then issued the order giving the boy to his father and young Jackson was led from the room sullenly bearing back in his father's grasp.

SKIES WEEP ON SWITHIN'S DAY

Rain on Sunday is a Portent of Forty Days of Dampness.

QUAINT LEGEND OF A BISHOP'S GRAVE

Monks' Attempt to Move Saint's Body Against His Wish Brings On a Plague of Moisture-Records Disprove Omen.

Tradition has played sad pranks with the nemory of St. Swithin, a holy and learned saint, who flourished in the middle of the ninth century, under the reign of King Ethelwolf, the Dane. Sunday, July 15, was the saint's feast day, and in the year of our Lord, 1900, the rain fell in unstinted portion, on that date. The auguries promise in such case that the skies will weep for forty days. The portent is thus spoken of by Gay in his "Trivia:"

How if on Swithin's feast the welkin lours, And every pent house streams with hasty show'rs.
Twice twenty days shall clouds their fleeces drain
And wash the pavements with incessant

St. Swithin is referred to by several old throniclers as "the drunken saint," although there is good evidence that the charge is base and slandercus. His alleged influence upon the weather came about injured person for three or four weeks, after his death. On his dying bed, Many cases have occurred, however. in Swithin, then bishop of Winchester, was which a cure has been effected in less than canonized by the pope; but nevertheless one week by applying Chamberlain's Pain expressed the desire that his bones be interred in the open churchyard and not in the chancel of the minster, the common resting place of saints. Upon his death the body was buried in the churchyard, but the monks later determined to remove it to the interior of the mineter. On July 15 they were about to proceed with the task when they were prevented by a heavy rain, which lasted for forty days. At the end of that time they abandoned the attempt as heretical and blasphemous and instead built a chapel over the grave. Many miraculous cures are later said to have been effected at the tomb. The records of the Greenwich observatory show that the quaint legend of weeping St. Swithin is not vouched for by fact. During the last forty years July 15, clear, has been followed by more wet weather than July 15, the disposition of the commercial privileges says that woman inspires boys to chase her rainy. There are many devout admirers of of the concert season, as booth room will be with butcher knives. It was while trying the Saxon saint, however, who still place their faith in the words of Poor Robin's

St. Swithin's day, if thou dost rain, For forty days it will remain; St. Swithin's day, if thou be fair, For forty days 'twill rain na mair.

CITY SEWERS ARE TOO SMALL onsiderable Damage Done to Cellars and Pavements by Sunday's Rain Storm. The heavy rain has brought an army of property owners to the city hall to complain of flooded cellars, of street curbings so low they will not contain the surface water and of sewers that are not capable of holding the floods poured into them. "The great need of the thickly populated part of the city is storm sewers," said City Engineer Rosewater. "Of course we have but few such heavy rains, but where streets are completely lined with roofs that flood the paving provision should be made for these emergency cases. Water should not flow for more than two blocks along any street without finding its way into the sewer. When a large volume of water comes for many blocks down steep grades the result is damaged pavement and complaints from property owners who are flooded." Streets in all parts of the city suffered more or less from Sunday's downpour, and several thousand dollars will be required to repair paving and to fill holes in unpaved streets. West Leavenworth street and Vinton street between Twentieth and Twenty fourth streets were damaged considerably There was a bad washout at Ninth and Oak streets and considerable grading will be required to make many of the unpayed streets in the southeast part of the city passable.

LAST SCHEDULES GO FORWARD

Count of the Population of Omaha Has Been Completed.

SPECIAL CENSUS TO BE TAKEN UP NOW

Figures Published by a Local Sheet Absolutely Unreliable and Were Not Even a Good Guens,

Yesterday the last of the boxes of the pulation schedules of the census of Omaha were forwarded to Washington by registered mail and the taking of the census on the special schedules will begin at once.

For the purpose of taking the census of the manufacturing interests of the country the enumerator districts in many cases have been abolished or altered. In the case of the Omaha district it is extended to include Council Bluffs, Plattsmouth and Nebraska City in addition to Omaha and South Omaha. The office of supervisor is abolished and Major Wheeler is placed in charge of the work with the title of chief special agent of the census department. Under him are Philip Gahm, Charles J. Robertson, George W. Forbes, Thomas K. Sudborough, all of Omaha: Frank F. Everest of Council Bluffs, John A. Davies of Plattsmouth and Frank R. McCartney of Nebraska City. The work of the special agent is of the most confidential character. He is authorized to require answers from managers of all manufactories regarding the condition of the business, the amount of money invested, the amount of the receipts and the profits or losses of the enterprise. This information must be treated as confidential by the agent under severe penalties. Two weeks or more will be required to complete the enumeration of the special features by the force at hand.

While the enumeration of Omaha is complete and has been for several days, no figures can be given out as to the result Figures which have been published are absolutely unreliable, according to a statement made by the supervisor, and the population of Omaha and South Omaha will not be known until issued by the Washington office to which all data has been forwarded.
