

EVANS MEETS HELEN GOULD

Travels Through Yellowstone Park in Company with Her Party.

SHE SEEMED TO ENJOY RUGHING IT

German Tourist Who Was Obligated to Admit that the Yellowstone Canyon Was the Grandest He Had Ever Seen.

"In our trip through the Yellowstone park we were fortunate enough to be in the same party with Miss Helen Gould and had an opportunity to discover what a charming woman she is," said J. H. Evans, who has returned from the park.

"Miss Gould was accompanied by an aged aunt and uncle, three young girls and a man named Captain Brown, who was in charge of her party. Before leaving Miss Gould at Yellowstone a little boy in our party was very anxious to get her autograph, but hesitated to bother her, as he had heard that she was continually bored by autograph collectors.

More of Dave Mercer's Work. Last winter Congressman Mercer succeeded in getting an order for a number of animals in Yellowstone park, which are to be given to the Omaha Board of Park Commissioners for Riverview park.

The buffalo in Yellowstone park are increasing very rapidly since the government has taken steps to protect them," said Mr. Evans. "A soldier told me that there is no reason to believe that the number will not grow larger, as the buffalo keep within the confines of the park and are in little danger of being shot by hunters.

Game Protected by Soldiers. "Although the travel in the Yellowstone country is limited to the summer months, the soldiers are required to stay there the entire year to protect the game from poachers. They are now stationed in parties of three. Formerly there were only two soldiers at a station, but the men are subjected to so many dangers in the winter time that it was thought best to increase the number to three.

"Six years ago I made the trip through the park, but there have been many improvements since that time. Yellowstone lake is probably more admired than any other feature. It is thirty-five miles long and is larger than any other lake in the world at the same altitude. It is a beautiful clear lake, and is said to be 400 feet deep. Visitors are allowed to fish and large quantities of salmon and mountain trout are taken. A steamer makes tours round the lake and looks out over the mountains so many thousand feet above sea level. The steamer was constructed in sections in Duluth, and its transportation from Cinnabar, the nearest railroad station, was a great task and cost many thousands of dollars.

"In different parts of the park we met persons of all nationalities and they all declared it the most wonderful place they had ever been. In our party was an old German who had traveled over nearly all the world and was disposed to belittle everything American. When we passed the great geysers he maintained that he had seen more wonderful geysers in other parts of the world, and it was the same with everything else until we came to the Grand canyon of the Yellowstone. This made the old man pull in his collar. He admitted that it was the most wonderful thing he had ever seen and could not say enough in its praise. He confessed that there are things in America that are really worth seeing and told me confidentially that he never expected to see anything as grand as that canyon."

CONKLIN HAS NARROW ESCAPE Bridge Spanning Mud Creek Had Been Washed Away and He Drove Into the Water. John Conklin, with his team and open wagon, narrowly escaped drowning Thursday night in Mud creek, a short distance north of Florence. Conklin has made a living for the last few months as a transferring passenger from the Ames avenue terminals of the car line to Florence. In the rain and darkness Thursday night Conklin was accosted by four young men, who wished to reach a farm four miles north of Florence. The roads were almost impassable and all the streams were swollen.

The journey proceeded without incident until the party reached Mud creek. Conklin imagined that he could see the wooden roadway across the stream by the light of his feeble lantern and did not pause. The horses went forward bravely and plunged over the brink into the stream. The bridge had been washed out. The young men succeeded in springing back to the shore, but the old teamster was dragged into the torrent with his team. The four farmers went bravely to the rescue and finally pulled Conklin to safety. He had clung for ten minutes, half drowned, to an overhanging tree. One of the horses managed to reach the shallow water on the other side, but his mate was entangled in the harness and was drowned.

HARRIS PLAYS OLD DOG TRAY

Citizen with a Grievance Loses His Identity for Two Hours in Commission of Tramps.

James Harris called at the police station yesterday to tell a tale of woe to the city prosecutor, but before he could secure an audience with that functionary he had incurred another grievance, which so overshadowed the first that he forgot his original purpose. It chanced that he arrived at the bastle just as a batch of twenty-six hoboes were being marched up the stairs to the court room. Being in a hurry he neglected to wait until the column had passed, but shouldered his way into the ruck and trudged along with it.

Here is where James Harris made his mistake. It was easy to get into the company of the Wears Treadways and Dusty Rhodes, but hard to get out again, for when he undertook to break rank at the head of the stairs a leonine wood chuck forced him back into line, and for two hours he was compelled to sit in the detaining pound adjoining the forum. One by one the petty malefactors responded to the names they had given, were arraigned and disposed of, but for Harris there was no relief. The judge didn't call his name, because there was no charge against him. Finally all were gone save the man with a grievance, when an unsympathetic court officer entered and told him to "take a walk."

He went without waiting to see the city prosecutor.

GINDELE SIGNS CONTRACTS

Local Parties Get Executing, Brick and Iron Work on Government Building Annex.

Charles W. Gindele of the firm of Gindele & Co., contractors for the government building annex, has arrived in the city for the purpose of signing a contract for the work of construction which has been let to local parties.

The successful bidders for the excavating, concrete and brick work were Koehnke & Weise. The amount of their bid was not made public. The specifications for the building provide that the foundation shall be of steel and concrete, in the form known as grill work, where steel stringers are buried in a mass of concrete, giving a combined strength greater than the use of either material alone of the same size. The brick work for the annex consists of the walls of the building which face the single story extension and the inner facings of the stone walls above the first story.

The contract for the iron and steel work has been awarded to an eastern firm. A gentleman recently cured of dynamite burns the following appropriate rendering of Burns' famous blessing: "Some have meat and cannot eat, and some have none that is no reason to believe that the number will not grow larger, as the buffalo keep within the confines of the park and are in little danger of being shot by hunters. Camping parties entering the park are inspected by soldiers who are stationed along the borders. All firearms are searched by the soldiers, and the party is given a statement as to the exact number of revolvers and guns it is carrying. Every twenty or thirty miles throughout the entire park another squad of soldiers is encountered, and four-jays are required to show their certificates. In case they have none they are subjected to an examination.

New Bathery for the Ladies. The new Hygiene Bathery for ladies' only, on the second floor of The Bee building, is proving a decided boon to the women of Omaha, and is another step forward in the city's progress. Heretofore the average western city has provided no facilities in this line for women, and our eastern sisters have enjoyed a monopoly of all such health-giving and health-preserving improvements. The Bathery is tastefully and luxuriously furnished and is supplied with all the modern conveniences for the bath, massage treatment and the application of electricity. One may enjoy a delightful Turkish bath or take a course of scientific massage and electric treatment.

This treatment is a new discovery, known as the Renstrom system, which promises to revolutionize the present methods of treating rheumatism, nervous debility and a score of kindred troubles. Some remarkable cures have been effected in this city and plans are now being matured for the establishment of similar institutions in eastern cities.

The Bathery has in attendance expert massage operators, intelligent and experienced women who have made a scientific study of their profession and who also understand thoroughly the proper application of electricity and its beneficial effects when used in combination with massage treatment. A lady's maid is also in constant attendance. The ladies of Omaha are invited to visit the Bathery, inspect its appointments and test its wonderful invigorating and curative treatment.

War on Women's Wrappers.

5,000 of them go on sale Saturday, July 21st.

Contented people are the breaks on the wheel of progress. Our cloak buyer says there'll be no slipping of eggs in this department. He thinks we do not sell enough women's wrappers—and that the average wrappers around town are skimpy—not enough goods in them to be comfortable. So he looks about to find the BEST WRAPPER. He finds 5,000 of them in a wrapper house who have the name of making the best that are made. 5,000 is quite a lot of wrappers to buy for a new department like ours, but "The Nebraska" does nothing by half. An offer of 40c on the dollar secures the entire lot. They are here and will go on sale Saturday. We have divided them into 3 lots.
